FLIES ABOVE HUDSON, ON IT, THEN IN IT

Coffyn Demonstrates That His New Aircraft Is Kin to Mudhen as Well as Seagull.

HYDROPLANE CLIMBS FLOES

Daring Aviator Has Icy Bath When Inquisitive Ferryboats Endanger His Life, Machine, and Raft.

Frank T. Coffyn, in a flight over the same stretch of water above which Wilbur Wright first demonstrated to the people living hereabouts the kinship of aeroplane and seagull, set out at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to prove that the aeroplane as developed by himself is also a near cousin of the mudhen and the duck.

Operating his aerocraft as a water creature Coffyn sent it scudding across the open stream of the Hudson, out beyond the ice fields off the foot of West Twenty-third Street. After disporting himself in the water for ten minutes and turning a complete circle to illustrate his control afloat, Coffyn sent his craft driving into the ice floes.

It climbed the floes, skidded over them as would an iceboat, and finally took to the air for a sixteen-minute cruise up the river front, past the apartment houses of Riverside Drive as far as 100th Street, and back again to Twenty-third Street, from which point, after another in-the-water swim, it was off for an air jaunt to the Battery.

Has Grace of a Powerboat.

In all Coffyn's flight occupied 19 minutes and 6 2-5 seconds, with an intermission of five minutes for his between-flights rest upon the water. In commencing the flight he had towed his aeroplane, which because of its web-footed equipment he styles a hydroplane, out to the open water on a raft. His final landing was within ten feet of the raft, and he scudded up alongside with the grace of a powerboat coming under complete control to her dock. Coffyn jumped from his aviator's seat to the raft, pulled his hydroplane aboard after him, and then paused to listen to the screeching of hundreds of whistles from river craft and the applause of a score of confirmed aerofans, including Mrs. Coffyn, who were his guests aboard the tugboat May McGuirle.

It seemed for an instant that the flight and the accompanying spin over the ice and through the water had been accomplished in perfect form and that there was going to be nothing to report but a plain tale of a complete victory of the air craft over ice and water. But then the tugboats and the ferryboats began to arrive.

And with them came immense swells in the sea. The swells rushed over the raft and buried Coffyn in icy water up to the armpits. They buried his mechanician, Frank Gannon, just as deeply and washed the hydroplane off the raft.

Wet as they were, Coffyn and his mechanician were not willing to see their hydroplane go floating out to sea alone. Gannon threw a rope, which luckily caught hold, and drew it back near enough to clamber aboard. Coffyn and Gannon, while the icicles formed on their clothing, dragged the hydroplane aboard the raft again and their tug put on full steam ahead, while excited guests shouted to approaching ferryboats and sight-seeing tugs to "please to keep away a little."

Hard Time on the Raft.

But the visiting boats had no such intentions. They plowed close from all directions and soon the raft was dancing about in waves from a dozen angles that kept the two persons aboard it busy to prevent themselves from being rolled off, regardless of their precious freight.

As the waves splashed over them, leaving their clothing oozing with the ice water, the raft suddenly began to spill timbers in all directions. The timbers seemed to come from the bottom, as they projected from the water like portions of some ancient wreck. With a jump forward the tugboat separated from the raft and it was seen that the planks to which the towing line was attached had broken loose.

The hydroplane, larger and heavier than the ordinary Wright type of biplane, which it resembles except for its two boat-like contrivances to take the place of the landing skids and wheels, slid off the raft again into the churned-up water. Gannon, an old sailorman, who is said to love his employer's aeroplane so much that he seldom leaves it during either the night or day, leaped after it and luckily caught it.

Capt. Bradley of the May McGuirle, a tugboat skipper who has plied his trade on the Hudson River for more than a score of years, became genuinely alarmed as he saw the raft going to pieces with two men aboard. He put on full steam astern, and succeeded in backing up close enough to pick up Coffyn, while Gannon was safe aboard the hydroplane, although he was no aviator.

Capt. Bradley didn't like the task he saw ahead of him, and he said so with many imprecations upon airmen and aircraft and the whole business of navigation except as carried on from a licensed master's cabin with compass and harbor maps close at hand.

"And there's nary a place to grab a hold of that fool raft," he muttered. "Let that air bird's skipper get aboard and fly ashore. That's how he got out here. It's the only way he can get back."

Policemen Become Alarmed.

But Coffyn looked at the bergs of rough ice plowing down toward the bay and the patches of water here and there with larger patches of ice between and shook his head.

"If I tried to skim over that," he said, "I'd sure puncture a pontoon before I got to shore, and then—well, this craft is just an experiment, and it isn't fully developed for plowing through broken ice just yet."

While those aboard the tugboat hesitated as to the best course to pursue, Gannon and the hydroplane drifted past the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan toward the Battery, while policemen on shore, not acquainted with what was going on, were sending in alarms to headquarters that "a man and a woman had fallen into the Hudson in an aeroplane,

A TERRIBLE AIR WEAPON.

Dynamite Dart Invented by French War Office—Size of a Pencil.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—A new and terrible weapon has been invented by the War Department—a dynamite dart for use by airmen.

It is a hand projectile about six inches long, the size and shape of a lead pencil, but made of steel. The head is solid and very heavy and extends about two inches up the shaft. Above this the shaft is deeply grooved.

In action, when flying over a body of infantry or cavalry, the airman has only to drop these missiles in handfuls. Owing to the heavy steel head, the dart always falls point first, while the grooved shaft serves as a rudder, like the feather in an arrow.

Falling from an aeroplane, these darts would acquire terrific velocity. By experiment it has been shown that a dart dropped from a height of only three feet on to a plank of hard pine penetrates it an eighth of an inch.

$1,000,000 STOCKS MISSING.

Trust Company Employe May Gain Immunity by Returning Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—A world-wide search for a former employe of a trust company in this city, who disappeared several months ago, was stimulated, according to The Philadelphia North American, by the fact that more than $1,000,000 worth of securities had been taken from the vaults of the trust company.

When this man disappeared there was no publication of the fact. After a quiet but exhaustive search had failed to disclose his whereabouts recourse was had to the police, and it then became known that the company had been robbed of several thousand dollars in cash. It was generally supposed then that this was the extent of the loss. There was no mention of securities, nor has there been any since on the part of the officers of the trust company.

The story told in financial circles is that these securities, placed with the trust company by one of its clients, were taken from the safety deposit vaults, and the conclusion was reached that they would be located, if at all, in the possession of the person who had taken the cash. The search for the missing employe was, therefore, conducted with redoubled vigor.

It is understood that he has been located and that negotiations are in progress for the restoration of the securities to the trust company. Compared with the value of these securities, which no one but the owner would be able to negotiate, the sum in cash taken from the trust company is considered unimportant and the offer made to the employe is immunity in case he returns the securities.

When the story was repeated to an officer of the trust company to-day he refused to be interviewed.

PLAN BIG MILL STRIKE.

Angered by Refusal to Free Ettor, Leaders Will Hit All Textile Centres.

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 6.—In a secret conclave to-day of the leaders of the big mill strike in this city plans were perfected for calling a general strike in the textile centres of New England. The date on which the first of the strikes is to be called has been determined, and the place which will be the first scene of uprising was settled. The centre to be attacked will be a surprise. It will not be one of those which has been generally agitated.

The action in settling this question was precipitated by the refusal of the Supreme Court at Boston to-day to release Joseph J. Ettor. The leaders of the strike each declared they were expecting arrest and were prepared to be arrested as Ettor was, but that it would make no difference in the conduct of the strike.

In his speeches to-day William D. Haywood attacked John Golden of the American Federation of Labor, who recently visited Lawrence at the request of Mayor Scanlon. Haywood charged that Golden was acting against the interest of the strikers.

William Trautman, General Organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, who came here to assist the Strike Committee, declared this afternoon that a state of rebellion would be shown to exist in Lawrence unless Ettor was released.

The weavers of the Arlington Mills at a meeting to-day declared that as a result of the American Federation of Labor entering the fight $100,000 a week would be poured into this city for the relief of the strikers.

Judge Braley, in declining to release Ettor and his lieutenant, Giovannitti, who are charged with being accessories before the fact of the murder of Annie Lopezzi, declared he had never known of an instance in which bail was allowed in a case of murder before an examination had been held or an indictment found. The case of the two men will come up in the Lawrence Police Court Friday.

GIRL SUES FEDERAL OFFICER.

Isabel Russe Wants $1,000 from United States Attorney Thompson.

Isabel Russe started a thousand-dollar suit for assault in the City Court yesterday against Assistant United States District Attorney Claude A. Thompson. She is the sister of Madeline Russe, who was Secretary to Jared Flagg. Flagg's office was raided by the Federal authorities for using the mails to defraud, and he was indicted. His case is still pending.

After his arrest Madeline Russe could not be found by the Government authorities, who wanted to question her about Flagg's affairs. Isabel Russe, who lives at 100 Cathedral Parkway, was summoned to the Federal Building to tell what she knew of her sister's whereabouts. She went there, she says, Sept. 23 last, and was ushered into an anteroom of Mr. Thompson's office.

She was compelled to wait while Frances Carroll, a friend of her sister, was examined. She says she heard Miss Carroll scream and entered the private room, where Miss Carroll was in tears. She says Miss Carroll told her that Mr. Thompson was trying to get her to tell things she didn't know. When she remonstrated, Miss Russe says, Thompson seized her by the arms and violently ejected her from the room.

INDICT 40 LABOR MEN IN DYNAMITE INQUIRY

INVOLVES 100 EXPLOSIONS

Bonds of the Accused Will Aggregate $300,000—First Hearing in Indianapolis on March 12.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 6.—The Federal Grand Jury which has been investigating the dynamiting of bridges and buildings as disclosed at the trial of the McNamaras and in the confession of McManigal returned thirty-two true bills to-day in the United States court. More than one defendant is named in some of the indictments, and it is estimated that forty labor men are accused. More than one hundred explosions throughout the country are laid at their door.

The indictments were carried from the Grand Jury room to the court in two suitcases, which were placed on the table before Judge Albert B. Anderson's bench. When Foreman Glossbrenner announced the number of indictments Judge Anderson made formal transfer of the documents to the Court Clerk.

March 12 has been set for the arraignment before Federal Judge A. B. Anderson in Indianapolis. The papers for the arrests designate the amount of bond which the defendants may give in the Federal districts in which they reside for their appearance here. The amounts of the bonds in the individual cases were not made known, but it was said in the aggregate they would total $300,000.

Asked if any men higher up had been indicted, United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller refused to say. Intimation came from another source, however, that no officials higher than those who had had headquarters in Indianapolis were involved.

Frank H. Ryan, President of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and Herbert S. Hockin, the Secretary Treasurer, when informed of the indictments, refused to comment, except to repeat their statements that J. J. McNamara acted on his own responsibility when he organized his dynamiting crew. Hockin succeeded McNamara as Secretary Treasurer of the association.

With the return of the indictments District Attorney Miller completed an inquiry begun last October and the Federal Grand Jury ended six weeks' hearing of testimony in which, it is said, McManigal's confession, given before the jurors verbally in detail and involving others, and papers taken from the headquarters of the iron workers, had important bearing.

These papers were said not only to have shown under what circumstances McManigal was induced to start into the dynamiting business against open-shop contractors, beginning in Detroit in June, 1907, but also to throw light on the $1,000 a month allowed McNamara for organizing purposes.

To Make Arrests Simultaneously.

Some delay in forwarding copies of the indictments to the Federal districts where the defendants are to be arested would ensue, Mr. Miller said, because 3,000 typewritten sheets had to be transcribed. The arrests of men even within easy reach would not be effected at once, he said, because by demanding a copy of his indictment on arrest a defendant could reveal the names of others.

"It is our plan to facilitate the work of the agents that are to make the arrests over the country by not making public the names until all are within reach," said Mr. Miller. "All the arrests are to be made on the same day, wherever the men live or may be sojourning.

As indicating the wide scope of the jury's inquiry, it was said action following the jury's report might be expected in the following cities: Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Peoria, Ill.; Cincinnati St. Louis, New Orleans, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Seattle.

Three charges are embraced in the indictments as drawn. These are: Violation of the Federal law regulating the inter-State shipment of explosives; conspiracy to violate the law regulating the shipment of explosives, and concealment of knowledge of the guilt of others in the two crimes.

The charge of concealment of knowledge is said to have been invoked not only in connection with money spent by the McNamara brothers for explosives, but also in relation to the stores of explosives kept by the dynamiters at Tiffin, Ohio; Rochester, Penn.; Muncie, Ind., and Indianapolis.

These Leaders to be Tried July 8.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.—The trials of Olaf A. Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen, and E. A. Clary of San Francisco and J. A. Munsey of Salt Lake, the labor leaders indicted for conspiracy to transport dynamite, went over until July 8 in the Federal Court to-day because of the crowded calendar.

20 FALL WITH CAR 200 FEET.

Four Miners Killed in Electric Railway Accident Near Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Feb. 6.—While running at high speed this morning, an electric car on the Scott Haven Division of the West Pennsylvania Railways jumped the track near Coulterville, Penn., twenty miles from Pittsburgh, and went over a two-hundred-foot embankment.

The dead were all miners from Greenock. The are Luke Donnelly, his brother John, Charles Smith, William McClean, and John Southern.

The car contained twenty persons on their way to work from Greenock to the mines near Scott Haven. As it neared a curve on a slight grade the front trucks left the rail, and the car plunged down the steep embankment. It rolled over and over, and reached the bottom a crushed and broken mass of wood and metal. All the passengers were more or less injured.

$500,000 PLANT BURNED.

Fire at Mill Machinery Works Makes 400 Idle—Two Firemen Hurt.

MOLINE, Ill., Feb. 6.—Fire which started early to-day destroyed the plant of the Barnard & Leas Manufacturing Company, builders of flour milling machinery. The loss is estimated at $500,000, and 400 are thrown out of employment.

Many of them tried to enter the burning building to save their tools and were injured.

The fire was caused by gas accumulating in a firebox in the boiler room, blowing open a door and setting fire to a pile of shavings.

Two firemen were injured when a smokestack fell.

MRS. H. W. TAFT NOW A CATHOLIC CONVERT

President's Sister-in-Law Leaves Episcopal Faith for the Roman Church.

STEP LONG CONTEMPLATED

She was Received Into the Church by Father Vaughan, the English Priest, at St. Ignatius's Last Week.

Mrs. Henry W. Taft, sister-in-law of President Taft, renounced the Episcopal faith last week and was received into the Roman Catholic Church at services in the Students' Chapel connected with the rectory of St. Ignatius Loyola Roman Catholic Church, Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, of which the Rev. David W. Hearn, S. J., is pastor. She was formally received by Father Bernard Vaughan, the English Jesuit preacher and lecturer.

Although the announcement of her conversion will be a surprise to many of her friends, Mrs. Taft, it was said yesterday, had long contemplated the step. She had always been a High Church Episcopalian, and in the last year was a communicant of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Episcopal. Nevertheless, she frequently attended services at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Years ago she met the eloquent Father Vaughan, and it was his influence largely, it was admitted by Catholic clergy yesterday, that induced Mrs. Taft to become a convert.

The first step to conversion was a study of the points of doctrinal differences. Then came the profession of faith and the renunciation of all other faiths; then the conditional baptism at the sanctuary in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, and finally the sacramental confession in the private chapel of the rectory and the taking of communion.

Mrs. Taft will not necessarily attend the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola in the future. This church takes in the district between Seventy-fifth and Ninety-fourth Streets and between Fifth and Second Avenues. The Taft home at 36 West Forty-eighth Street, however, does not come within this district, and it was said that Mrs. Taft would probably attend services regularly at the Cathedral. Father Vaughan, when he is in the city, lives at the rectory of the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, and for this reason, it was said, the conversion took place there.

Father Vaughan was in Washington yesterday, and the other priests at the rectory would not discuss Mrs. Taft's conversion.

Mrs. Taft's husband, Henry W. Taft, as well as his brother, the President, are Unitarians, as were their parents and grandparents. Mrs. Taft was Miss Julia Walbridge Smith of Troy, N. Y. Mr. Taft is a lawyer in practice in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Taft have three children, Walbridge S. Taft, William Howard Taft, 2d, and Mrs. George H. Snowden (Louise Witherbee Taft) of Seattle, Wash.

SEE HIM PLUNGE TO DEATH.

Boys Quickly Summon Priests, Who Administer Last Rites.

Peter Cane, a young court attendant, who lived with his mother at 279 West 119th Street and who helped support his sister, Mrs. Lillian Vandervort, a widow with six children, living at 522 East 139th Street, the Bronx, died in the Lincoln Hospital last night. In the late afternoon he fell or jumped from the rear window of his sister's home on the fifth floor of a flathouse.

Two boys in a rear yard adjoining saw the man fall and quickly got Father Donlin and Father Hackett from the Church of St. Luke in 138th Street near Cypress Avenue. They administered the last rites of the Church before Cane was taken to the hospital.

Cane called at his sister's home about 5:30 o'clock. She was out, and he was admitted by eleven-year-old Lillian Vandervort and Eugene, a seven-year-old brother. Cane kissed the children and left them studying in the front room. He went into the rear room. They knew nothing of his plunge until some playmates called to them that their uncle was lying in the yard.

Mrs. Vandervort, when she returned said that her brother had been in poor health recently, due to nervous strain brought on by the death of his father a year ago and of his sister six months ago. A daughter of hers and Cane's favorite niece also died about two months ago.

BABY DEAD ON ICEBOUND ISLE

Police Tug Unable to Get Through to Investigate Starvation Case.

Detectives from Harbor Squad A made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to break their way in a tug through the ice floes surrounding Barren Island in order to investigate the reported death by starvation of George Tumulcy, Jr., the six-months-old son of a fireman in the New York Sanitary Utilization Company.

They left Canarsie landing in the tug McAvoy, but found the ice growing too thick as they approached the island, and turned back to avoid being frozen in. Undertaker Anthony Dekarsky of 205 Griggs Avenue reached Barren Island earlier in the day, and found himself ice-bound when he sought to return. The trip will probably be attempted to-day from Canarsie landing in a larger boat.

There is one policeman on Barren Island. The report of the death by starvation came from him. No further legal action was taken by the officer on the island, and Lieut. Scheffler of Harbor Squad A ordered an investigation to find out if the child lost its life through neglect.

CONVENTION BOLTERS INDORSE ROOSEVELT

But Florida Regulars Name National Delegates to Chicago for Taft.

RIVAL GEORGIA PRIMARIES

Both Taft and Roosevelt Delegates Named to the Republican State Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

PALATKA, Fla., Feb. 6.—The Republicans of Florida will send two delegations to the National Convention in Chicago, one pledged to Taft and the other to Roosevelt, and the National body will have to decide which shall be admitted. The State Convention, which met here to-day to select National delegates, went to pieces before it was completely organized. The officeholders wanted a delegation instructed for Taft, while the greater number of delegates favored Roosevelt.

Joseph Lee, Collector of Internal Revenue in Jacksonville and a leading negro politician, was Temporary Chairman, and the Roosevelt men assert that he showed by his rulings that all contests were to be decided in favor of Taft. Lee's rulings caused a storm of protests, and over half the delegates walked from the hall, convened in another place, organized, and amid scenes of enthusiasm elected delegates to the National Convention pledged for Roosevelt.

After the departure of the Insurgents the Taft delegates named a delegation to Chicago pledged for Taft. Full State tickets were named by each faction. Roosevelt was wired of the action of his supporters by a committee named for that purpose.

A feature of the Roosevelt Convention was the number of negro delegates who shouted for the Colonel.

George Chubb, who represents Florida on the Republican National Committee, was present and watched the proceedings for the committee. Chubb would not comment upon the split.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 6.—The Republicans of Georgia held a primary to-day to select delegates to the State Convention which will name delegates to the National Convention, and the results received indicate that the party is badly split between Taft and Roosevelt, and that there will be many contests and a bitter fight when the State Convention meets.

In many counties there were two primaries, one being held by the Taft faction and the other by the supporters of Roosevelt. Each faction elected its own delegates, and the question as to which shall be seated will devolve upon the State Convention. The Taft leaders say that the primaries held by the Roosevelt supporters were irregular, and that the delegates selected have no chance of being admitted to the State Convention.

The machinery in Georgia is controlled by the friends of Taft and it is probably true that they will be able to bar the Roosevelt delegates from the State convention, but the latter say they will hold a convention of their own, select delegates to the National convention and let the latter body settle the question of regularity.

In Atlanta two primaries were held, as in many other counties. One voted solidly for the President, and the other, composed largely of negroes, for Roosevelt. The latter element maintained that the present County Executive Committee, headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, Register of Deeds at Washington, called the primary without party authority and that any action taken by this primary is void. It is said that President Taft is especially interested in the Georgia situation and that he wants Henry Blun of Savannah removed from the National Committee and Henry Jackson of Atlanta, who is Collector of Internal Revenue, elected in his place.

The State Convention will meet on Feb. 14.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 6.—Friends of former President Roosevelt have begun an organization in this State for him, and it is said that Edwin M. Lee, who recently retired from the Chairmanship of the Republican State Committee, is at its head.

It is the purpose to form four clubs among the younger class of Republicans in this city, and then extend the organization into other cities of the State. Many of the party workers favor Roosevelt, and the men who are forming the clubs, while not known outside of the city, exert considerable influence in their respective wards.

Friends of President Taft seem to think that the movement will not carry much weight, and still regard the State as safe for the President at the Chicago convention.

DIES AS HER STUDY ENDS.

Ready to Begin Work on the Day She Was Stricken—Coroner Called.

After finishing a two and a half year course in dressmaking at the Clara De Hirsch Home for Immigrant Girls, 225 East Sixty-third Street, Miss Rose Shaness, 17 years old, died suddenly from cerebral apoplexy last Monday, the day on which she was to have gone to work as a professional dressmaker. She was taken ill about 6 o'clock Monday morning, and died in the afternoon at Mount Sinai Hospital, where she had been removed.

Her brother, Joseph Shaness, a storekeeper, of 1,325 Wilkens Avenue, the Bronx, asked that an autopsy be performed yesterday evening, because he wished to know exactly what was the cause of her death. Dr. Weston, assigned to the case by the Coroner, stated that the cause was cerebral hemorrhage, as had been the diagnosis at the hospital. Miss Shaness had been in the best of health, and had attended a dance last Sunday evening, retiring early, however, because she was to have begun work the following day.

FAT JOB FOR MR. CAMPBELL.

Kings County Republican Leader Falls Into a $14,000 Political Position.

In spite of his assertions at the time he was made Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Kings County that he was not looking for any political job, Marcus B. Campbell, titular leader of the organization, received yesterday the choicest plum that has grown on the Republican patronage tree in some time. The position is that of official referee to examine into the accounts and inventories of the committees of incompetents.

The job pays in fees between $10,000 and $14,000 a year. The appointment was made by County Judges Dike and Fawcett, two Republican occupants of the County Court bench.

L. A. D. PERCIVAL DIVORCED.

New Yorker Successful in His Second Suit at Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 6.—On the grounds of extreme cruelty which was not denied by his wife, L. A. D. Percival, a New York clubman and ex-President of the Amalgamated Paint Company of Boston and New York, obtained a divorce to-day. Mr. Percival brought suit several months ago but the case was turned down by the courts on the ground that residence had not been proven.

The plaintiff told the court that shortly after their marriage his wife developed an appetite for strong drink and soon came to think more of her horses and friends than of him. She also struck him on a number of occasions with her riding crop and treated him cruelly in other ways, he said.

STOLE CUP FROM ARMORY.

Thief Got It on Race Night and Pawned It For $1.

Central Office detectives discovered yesterday in an Eighth Avenue pawnshop a silver-plated trophy which was stolen from the Twenty-second Regiment Armory last Saturday night. The theft was discovered when Harry J. Smith, Captain of the Pastime Athletic Club, made application for the prize, which was won by his organization at the games of the Morningside Athletic Club.

The pawnbroker asserted that he would probably be unable to identify the man who brought in the cup Monday morning. He loaned only $1 on the cup.

The detectives got in touch with the silversmiths whose name was stamped on the prize, and they admitted having furnished the Morningside Athletic Club with the trophy. They asserted, however, that they were at a loss to understand how such a low valuation could be placed upon it by the pawnbroker.

VALUABLE PAINTINGS BURN.

Jenkintown Home of Barclay Warburton Destroyed by Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Feb. 6.—Rosemary, the home of Barclay H. Warburton, at Spring Avenue and York Road, Jenkintown, was practically destroyed by fire shortly before 4 o'clock to-day. Before the Jenkintown Fire Department and other companies from adjacent communities could reach the house the flames had eaten their way to the first floor and were spreading rapidly.

Despite the combined efforts of the city and suburban firemen the flames, fanned by the strong northwest wind, gave the firemen a hard struggle, for nearly two hours.

Numerous valuable paintings were injured by smoke and damaged by water. The origin of the fire has not been determined. The damage is about $70,000.

52 YEARS IN PUBLIC OFFICE.

"Uncle Johnny" Marsh Resigns as Assessor of Westfield, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTFIELD, N. J., Feb. 6.—When "Uncle Johnny" Marsh tendered his resignation to the Town Council last night it marked the ending of fifty-two years of service in public office. At the age of 21 he was elected constable, and he wore the badge until 1900. In 1878 he was elected Assessor and served until his resignation last night. Mr. Marsh has been a Commissioner of Deeds for many years, and also served the county as court constable. In the early days of railroading in this district he was a detective in the employ of the Jersey Central.

Though Mr. Marsh is a Democrat of the old Jacksonian school, and Westfield is a Republican stronghold, he never suffered defeat when he ran for office. His popularity among his townsmen was plainly shown.

There never was a school election in Westfield that Johnny Marsh did not officiate as teller. For many years he was also a member of local Election Boards. Mr. Marsh remembers distinctly the commotion caused in town when the first train traveled over the Jersey Central.

COMES HOME WITH FORTUNE.

After 20 Years Miner Returns to New Haven with $2,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6.—Asserting that he had made a fortune of $2,000,000 since he left home twenty years ago, Morris Smith returned to-day to the cottage occupied by his old mother, Mrs. Henry Smith. Investment in ore and mineral lands near Harlem, Ga., Smith says, have made him immensely wealthy. Elegantly attired and wearing considerable jewelry, Smith to-night told a story of his rise in fortune.

"I came home to tell my old mother," said Smith, "that she can have a private car whenever she wishes to travel, and the very best there is in the world." Smith went to Kentucky when he left this city, and became a miner. He drifted to California, thence to Yukon, and back to the United States, where he took up Nevada claims, later going to Georgia. He says that large quantities of gold, lead, and mica have been already placed on the market and sold at first-class prices.

He left for Boston to-night to confer with purchasers of minerals. His brother, Charles Smith, has a small tailor shop in this city, and makes but a slender livelihood.

Reno Court Allows This to Mrs. Coykendall with Divorce Decree.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 6.—In addition to her decree of divorce, Catherine Coykendall of Kingston, N. Y., obtained a court order to-day requiring her husband to pay her the sum of $3,000 per year so long as she remains unmarried.

Her husband, Robert Coykendall, did not contest the action. Mrs. Coykendall told the court that shortly after the marriage, which took place in 1902, her husband began drinking heavily. They went to Europe, and when they returned he left her and went back to Europe with a friend. They separated in 1906.

ENGLAND AROUSED AGAINST GERMANY

Only Witness Against London Lawyer Sentenced as a Spy Was a Belgian ex-Jailbird.

GOVERNMENT BEGGED TO ACT

Papers of Both Parties in Agreement—Bertrand Stewart, the Prisoner, a Man of Highest Standing.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 7.—How deeply England has been stirred by the three and one-half years' sentence passed by the court at Leipsic on Bertrand Stewart, a well-known London lawyer, for alleged espionage, can best be gauged by the serious way in which the incident is being treated and the restraint which even those journals which are most given to discussing the German bogey are observing.

It is impossible to imagine that war could be allowed to arise from such a trivial cause, but the case undoubtedly contains germs of the gravest difficulty. Rightly or wrongly, the impression has been created throughout England by such reports of the trial as have reached this country that Mr. Stewart was found guilty upon evidence which would be held insufficient in an English or American court of law, and the severity of the sentence imposed has added to the dissatisfaction.

Sir Edward Grey is being called upon to make representations to the German Foreign Office, and the House of Commons is likewise urged to take up the matter.

It should be noted that all suggestions of this kind emanating from responsible quarters at present contemplate nothing further than a request that Germany satisfy British public opinion that there has not been a miscarriage of justice by making public the evidence upon which the Judges convicted Mr. Stewart. Talk of a boycott of Germany or of wholesale reprisals against German spies in England is heard only in irresponsible quarters—in fact, it is the froth upon the current of public opinion, and the current is running strong and deep.

One of the papers which first called attention to the Stewart case, and which is usually in the vanguard of any anti-German campaign, says:

"The tension is becoming serious. For the sake of better feeling it is obviously the duty of the German Government to explain this secret trial. If it shows that Mr. Stewart's conviction was based on trustworthy testimony, there is nothing more to be said. If the Germans cannot do this, the incident cannot end in acquiescence."

Some of the comments made upon German methods of justice are unfortunately calculated to increase the difficulties of the German Government in meeting the demand now before it for the procedure by which Mr. Stewart was found guilty. J. L. Garvin, in The Pall Mall Gazette, is perhaps the most outspoken in this respect. He says:

"Mr. Stewart was not proved guilty in accordance with the processes which Englishmen and Americans, still one in their conception of law, hold to be an indispensable security for justice. If Mr. Stewart is innocent, the sentence of three and one-half years' imprisonment in a German fortress is the most infamous thing that has happened in Europe since the Dreyfus case, and there are Englishmen yet who will devote themselves to this cause with the same force and determination of the author of 'J'accuse,' (Zola's famous accusation in the Dreyfus case,) until the gross wrong is righted or justice has been done.

"Mr. Stewart was condemned by processes under which any public-spirited, exceptionally intelligent Englishman moving and conversing in Germany might be seized and imprisoned for years.

"Mr. Stewart did not have a dog's chance for freedom with the methods and temper of a cryptic, arbitrary tribunal, more like the political inquisition than a court of law.

"If we adopted the methods of the Leipsic court there are tens of thousands of Germans in this country whose liberty would be at our mercy by the purchase of a rascal, and upon the precedent established in Mr. Stewart's case there is no security in Germany for any Englishman of confessed patriotism and public spirit."

In striking contrast is the attitude of Charles Stewart, father of Bertrand Stewart, who, asked if he proposed to make any representations to the Foreign Office on behalf of his son, said:

"I would not have this used to foment trouble between this country and Germany. My country comes before my son's troubles and my own personal feelings. I am deeply grieved at the sentence, but it was passed under the German laws and, although evidence was admitted that would not have been called in this country, that is a matter of the German law. There are two opinions."

Charles Stewart administers a further grave rebuke to international troublemakers by a letter in this morning's Times, in which he says:

"It will not be expected of me that I should consider the justice, generosity, or even legal soundness of the judgment of the court at Leipsic, but as a lawyer of fifteen years' experience in my own country I desire to express emphatically my respect for the judgment of the Supreme Court of an enlightened and friendly country and my profound conviction that the motives of the learned Judges who arrived at that decision were absolutely unassailable. This fact seems to me so much a matter of course that it is almost an impertinence for me to express my personal recognition.

"My son's actions in this case, which, I venture to say, have been grievously misunderstood and misrepresented to the court, are no proof at all of anti-German feeling among the people of England. They merely show that 'young men will be young men,' and that the guidance of international affairs must be intrusted to men with steady heads, discreet tongues, and genuinely pacific intentions."

Coming at a time when there is evidence of a desire on both sides of the North Sea to relieve some of the tension existing in the general relations between England and Germany, the Stewart incident is peculiarly unfortunate. While there are no tangible grounds for supposing that any positive proposals have been made to the German Government by England, it is generally understood that the Asquith Cabinet is feeling its way toward the basis of an agreement in regard to naval armaments which would remove this chief cause of irritation.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The sudden departure of Sir Edward Goschen, the British Ambassador, on Sunday for London, whence he is expected to return to-morrow, is connected here in some political quarters with the supposed negotiations between Great Britain and Germany.

It is more probable, however, that the Ambassador's journey concerns the arrangements for King George's visit to Berlin.

BERESFORD KAISER'S GUEST.

Admiral, Regarded as Enemy of Germany, to Lunch with Emperor.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns that the Kaiser has extended a cordial invitation to Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who arrived in Berlin to-night from Russia, to take luncheon with his Majesty at the castle to-morrow. Lord Charles was one of the English Parliamentary delegation which recently visited St. Petersburg and Moscow.

The Emperor's entertainment of Lord Charles will be particularly piquant because the Admiral is regarded in Germany as one of the Fatherland's most incorrigible English foes. He will, moreover, be the War Lord's guest a few minutes after his Majesty has opened the new Reichstag with the speech from the throne, which, according to general expectation, will announce that vast increases in Germany's army and navy have been made necessary, chiefly by last Summer's disclosure of the "English peril" which menaces the Fatherland.

FIANCE GONE WITH GEMS.

Vanishes from Girl's Sight While Getting a Marriage License.

Thinking it safer, in view of her approaching marriage, to intrust her jewels, worth $3,000, to her future husband, Benjamin Rosenberg, an upholsterer of 117 East 133d Street, Miss Eliza Segal, a dressmaker of 149 Forsyth Street, turned over her valuables to her fiancé and confidently went with him yesterday to the Marriage License Bureau in the City Hall to obtain the necessary papers. Arm in arm they approached Julius Brosen, the court interpreter, and asked for an application blank.

The license clerk had filled out two or three of the question blanks when Rosenberg suddenly hesitated, looked inquiringly at the clerk, and then at his intended wife. He told Miss Segal that he was compelled to go out for a few minutes and departed. The minutes passed and grew longer, but Rosenberg didn't return. Becoming apprehensive over his absence, Miss Segal finally broke down and told the clerk that Rosenberg had possession of her jewelry. Upon advice she reported the disappearance of her suitor to Police Headquarters and went home hysterical.

GLOVEMAKER GIVES BAIL.

Herzberger Held on Charge of Conspiracy to Defraud Government.

Herman Herzberger, a member of the glove-making firm of Karplus & Herzberger of Gloversville, N. Y., was arraigned yesterday before Commissioner Shields following his arrest after landing from the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. On the complaint of Howard D. Esterbrook, a Special Treasury Agent, he is charged with having conspired to defraud the Government, and on Sept. 14, 1909, having certified an invoice for 2,187 dressed lambs' skins at a value of 7,047.70 marks. Really, the Government contends, the skins were worth 8,010.75 marks, and thereby, it is asserted, the Government was defrauded of duty amounting to $46.

The defendant was held by Commissioner Shields in $10,000 bail for examination on Feb. 15, and was released on cash bail. Assistant United States District Attorney Pratt, who is in charge of the case, said that the total value of the skins supposed to have been imported illegally is $100,000, and the loss of duties about $8,000.

DELAYED MAIL TEST CASE.

Right of State Officers to Halt Wagons Will Be Settled.

The stopping last week of a mail wagon on the ground that one of the contractor's horses was unfit for work, by George A. Bagley, an agent of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is to be made a test case. The mails were held up for three hours on this occasion and missed their train. The question to be raised is the liability of mail contractors while engaged in actual work for the Post Office to enterference by State officers.

Former State Senator Wainwright has been retained as counsel for Bagley. Among those who went yesterday to the office of Commissioner Shields to attend the hearing were Col. Alfred Wagstaff of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry, founder of the Children's Society, and Thomas W. Freel, Local Superintendent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. By consent, the case was put over until Friday morning.

RACQUET CLUB MAY MOVE.

Talk of Finding Quarters Further Uptown, Away from Business.

The first suggestion of removal from what has long been known as the club centre of New York City north of Forty-second Street and west of Fifth Avenue, has been made by several of the officers and members of the Racquet and Tennis Club in Forty-third Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. The Racquet Club was one of the first to locate in the district, but the business invasion which has swept so rapidly up Fifth Avenue and into the side streets in recent years has led many of the older members to believe that a more suitable site, further uptown, could be found.

"The subject of removal," said John T. Atterbury, the Treasurer, last night, "has only been discussed in the most informal way. No committee has been appointed to consider a prospective site."

ROOSEVELT MUST LEAD PROGRESSIVES

So Says Amos Pinchot, and Invites Them All to "Get Behind" the Colonel.

LA FOLLETTE CURTAIN DRAWN

His Elimination Was Necessary, It Is Now Admitted, to Solidify the Anti-Taft Forces.

Certain illusory features of the Roosevelt boom were destroyed yesterday and the Colonel brought more openly into line by a statement issued by Amos Pinchot, brother of Gifford, the Colonel's friend, who was deposed as Forestry Commissioner by President Taft.

In his statement Mr. Pinchot reviews the rise and fall of the La Follette boom and then comes directly to the point by declaring that with the Wisconsin Senator out of the race, "his followers are free to get behind Roosevelt and continue the old fight under another leader."

While it has been pretty well understood in Republican circles here that the Pinchots, in booming La Follette, were really helping Roosevelt, the statement of Amos was considered of the first importance as indicating that Col. Roosevelt soon may publicly announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination.

The Colonel was in the city yesterday, but he refused to comment upon the statement, in which it says:

> Since our organization started, largely through the work of La Follette and the men who were supporting him, and largely through the appraisal that the country has made of Taft's Administration, the people and the political leaders have seen clearly that the only way to save the Republican Party in 1912 and to make it an instrument to serve the average man is to nominate a progressive candidate for the Presidency. Senator La Follette as a factor in the Presidential race has been chiefly responsible in demonstrating this fact.
>
> His withdrawal from the race simply means that the progressives realize that, owing to the growing demand for Roosevelt, and owing to the Senator's health, La Follette cannot himself accomplish the purpose which has at all times meant more to him than his individual success.
>
> With La Follette out of the race his followers are free to get behind Roosevelt and continue the old fight with another leader.
>
> Many La Follette men feel that Roosevelt is not as advanced in his progressiveness as La Follette. But, however that may be, it is clear that La Follette and Roosevelt are agreed on most fundamental points, and, above all, that they have the same real conviction that the country belongs to the people, and that its Government must be an instrument for the people's benefit.

Something put Col. Roosevelt in excellent humor yesterday, and the reporters, taking advantage of the opportunity, asked him to make some declaration regarding his position.

"Nothing to say," was his answer.

He was asked to comment upon the Slayden anti-third term resolution, and with a guffaw of laughter he said he really couldn't.

"Gov. Aldrich of Nebraska, one of your supporters—"

"So they say," broke in the Colonel, with another laugh.

"The Governor has made the statement that he thinks it is high time for you to declare your position."

"Nothing to say," said the Colonel again.

The Colonel showed real solicitude over the physical condition of Senator La Follette. Asked if he had said that the fight for progressive principles would go on and that it depended on no one man, not even Senator La Follette, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I think I said that at the time I was defeated—when Stimson ran for Governor—November a year ago. I recognize my own child, but I might have said it at any time in the last five years."

Among the Colonel's callers yesterday were Col. Goethals, the Panama Canal builder, and Mrs. Goethals, and William Mitchel of Atlanta, General Agent of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, who said he had talked business, and not politics, with the Colonel. Incidentally, Mr. Mitchell gave it as his opinion that the Georgia State Convention will indorse President Taft.

TO KEEP THE COLONEL OUT.

Amendment to Geran Act May Bar His Name at Jersey Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 6.—In a bill introduced last night by Assemblyman Holloway of Essex County, admirers of Col. Roosevelt to-day professed to see an attempt to block voting for him at the State wide primaries to be held here in May.

The measure, which is in the form of an amendment to the Geran act, provides that no vote shall be taken in preferential primaries for any candidate for President without his consent.

Many think the former President will not consent to the use of his name, and this, if the bill becomes law, would keep him off the New Jersey ticket.

THE STAMPEDE IS UNDER WAY.

La Follette Men in Illinois Are Flocking to the Colonel's Banner.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—A Roosevelt Millionaire Club and Business Men's League was launched in Chicago to-day to offset the effect of the Taft Business Men's Club. The formation of the club was announced at the Congress Hotel, where the Roosevelt boosters are perfecting one of the largest organizations in support of the former President in the country.

Ralph Otis has been designated as President of the club, Carl T. Murray, Secretary, and Theodore K. Long, Treasurer. On the "roll of honor" Vice Presidents, who become charter members, are many men prominent in the city's commercial life. Of course, not all of them are millionaires, but the idea is to show the country that business men believe the Oyster Bay candidate "safe and sane."

The designation "Millionaire Club" is to emphasize the fact that business men of considerable means and responsibilities are not hostile to the former President in this campaign.

Coincident with this launching of the Business Men's League in support of Roosevelt, the Colonel's admirers were enthused to-day by reports emanating from La Follette headquarters in Chicago to the effect that both State and national headquarters shortly are to be turned over to the Roosevelt boomers. The State crowd, which has been booming La Follette and Walter Clyde Jones, has been on the verge of flopping over in a body to Roosevelt ever since the State convention in Springfield on Jan. 27.

It was admitted at the Jones headquarters that the Roosevelt banner would be unfurled shortly and that Jones would take the stump and urge the insurgents of Illinois to get behind the former President as Senator La Follette seemed to be unable to proceed further with his campaign.

The open defection of Medill McCormick of Chicago and George L. Record of New Jersey from the La Follette ranks has precipitated a general flocking to Roosevelt of former La Follette men. La Follette leaders in the wards and Congressional districts of Chicago already have begun to indorse Roosevelt, and it is expected that the remnants of the La Follette machine hereabouts will be entirely swallowed up in a few days.

Walter S. Rogers and Charles R. Crane, the two stumbling blocks thus far in the way of an absorption of the La Follette organization by the Roosevelt people, are in New York City, where a final decision as to what ought to be done out on the Illinois prairies is expected daily.

Should Rogers and Crane finally flop to Roosevelt, then the La Follette campaign in Illinois would be at an end and the insurgents would be mobilized at once for the campaign in behalf of the Colonel.

$50,000 ALIENATION SUIT.

C. W. Owens of Bayport, L. I., Named as Defendant by a Ranchman.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTONA, Fla., Feb. 6.—A $50,000 suit for alienation of his wife's affections has been begun by William Allen Brown, a wealthy ranchman, living near Livingston, Mont., in the Circuit Court of this county, C. W. Owens of Bayport, L. I., being named as the defendant.

The suit is said to have sprung from an acquaintance which arose between Mrs. Brown and Mr. Owens on a journey from New York to Florida last Fall. Mr. Owens was on his way to Daytona to obtain Winter quarters for himself and his wife. The latter was formerly Miss Minerva Allen, who inherited a fortune from her grandparents. Her father was formerly a wealthy real estate broker in Bayport. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were bound for Florida at the same time on a combined business and pleasure trip.

At Jacksonville the party divided. Mr. Brown went to another town on business. Mrs. Brown remained at a hotel in Jacksonville, and Mr. Owens went on to Daytona. Later Mrs. Brown went to Daytona, where Mr. Brown is said to have traced her to the cottage the Owenses had rented for the season. Mr. Brown demanded an explanation, and is said to have been beaten by Owens. A warrant for assault and battery was issued, but Brown did not appear in court when the case was called.

The following day Mr. Owens was served with a summons in the alienation suit by the Sheriff. Since then Owens has been seen but little in Daytona, and it is said he and Mrs. Brown have been seen together in other towns of the State. At present Owens is said to be in New York. Mrs. Owens is still here.

TINY RUNAWAYS HALTED.

Flatbush Lads Yearning for the Wild West Foiled by Ticket Agent.

William Jeffries, ticket agent in the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Station in Hoboken, peered out of his window yesterday afternoon and tried hard to see the person who said:

"Please let me have two tickets for the West for $30."

Finally Mr. Jeffries discovered two small boys whose heads did not rise to the ticket window shelf. He asked where they wanted to go. The spokesman replied that they didn't care so long as they went West. Mr. Jeffries told them to wait while he arranged their tickets. Instead he called Policeman Hayes.

The policeman led the youngsters to the police station, where they said they were William Foster, 11 years old, of 323 Hawthorne Street, and John McKenzie, 13, of 1,218 Nostrand Avenue, both of Flatbush, Brooklyn. They said they wanted to see the world and had left home to do so.

Foster said the $30 was his, and that he had got it from his mother. He did not explain just how. The police held the lads until Mr. McKenzie arrived from Flatbush in the evening and took them both home. He said he should endeavor to show his son some of the hardship of life with which the boy apparently was not sufficiently acquainted.

WEST SIDE COURTS FRIGID.

Lack of Coal Halts Sessions—Butts's Out for Vengeance.

There was no coal yesterday morning in the West Side Court Building in West Fifty-fourth Street, where there are three courts, one Magistrate's and two Municipal Courts, and as a result the temperature was frigid. Magistrate Butts had to halt his session, and while Justices Noonan and Snitkin in the Municipal Courts held to their respective benches, the lawyers and clients couldn't stand the cold and asked for adjournments.

In the prison department, with its stone floors and walls, there were forty-one prisoners, who suffered keenly. In the "Ten-Day House," which is more exposed than the other parts of the building, the prisoners were taken into the main prison, where it was not so cold, but still very uncomfortable. This is the second time within a week that Magistrate Butts has had to adjourn court for this reason.

LA FOLLETTE BITTER AGAINST ROOSEVELT

His Collapse Thought Partly Due to Disappointment Over the ex-President's Boom.

WON'T ENLIST WITH COLONEL

Progressive Movement Is All Adrift and Taft Men Rejoice—President Gains Southern Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Increasingly strong representations yesterday and today of the embarassment he is causing his firends and the Progressive campaign have failed to move Senator La Follette a peg from his determination to leave his name as a Presidential candidate before the country, though he has practically decided to leave the country for many weeks and drop out of the lists of active campaigners. The situation which this has developed in the insurgent camp is giving great joy to the supporters of President Taft and the steady little stream of telegrams reporting progress toward electing Taft delegates in various parts of the country adds spice to the Administration's cake.

The distrust which Mr. La Follette feels for Col. Roosevelt has been commented on before, and it is now more than ever certain that the Wisconsin radical will not yield his strength to the silent candidate from Oyster Bay.

His Attitude as to Roosevelt.

The withdrawal of Mr. La Follette would mean his strength would go to Col. Roosevelt, as no one has taken seriously the candidacy of Senator Cummins, which was manifestly aimed to keep Iowa Republicans away from Taft. Mr. La Follette's breakdown has been attributed in part to his anger and disappointment at the progress of the boom of the Sphinx of Oyster Bay. His attitude toward Mr. Roosevelt is set forth clearly in a statement attributed to the radical Senator here to-day and which at the La Follette headquarters is said fairly to represent Mr. La Follette's views.

"I have been the standard bearer of principles, not of individuals," Mr. La Follette is quoted as saying. "No possible change in circumstances can change the great issues for which I have fought and will continue to fight. I can enlist in the ranks of no man unless he adopt publicly in binding terms the true principles of progressive government by the people."

Many of Mr. La Follette's followers, however, have no such hesitancy in enlisting in the Roosevelt ranks. The statement issued last night by the La Follette headquarters was intended to establish a sort of local option in the matter of the candidate to be supported by the progressives in particular States, and this permission was promptly used by Medill McCormick of Chicago, once Mr. La Follette's manager, as justification for a switch to Col. Roosevelt.

The truth of the whole situation is that the progressive movement, as an insurrection against the Administration, is drifting aimlessly about without head or goal. The most that Progressives can say is that they will keep up their fight in their own localities as best they can, awaiting Mr. La Follette's return.

Meanwhile the turn that came in the Taft prospects a few weeks ago continues. There was talk then that the South would depart from its traditional loyalty to the Administration in favor of Mr. Roosevelt, but every report from the South has served to show the error of that prediction. The White House to-day received telegrams from three Southern States, and they all told of definite Taft victories.

Henry S. Chubb, committeeman for Florida, wired that the Republican State Convention adjourned to-day with six delegates at large elected—all instructed for Mr. Taft. In addition, he reported, delegates from three districts had been instructed for Mr. Taft.

From Georgia, Committeeman Jackson wired that returns from county conventions indicated that all delegates were being instructed for Mr. Taft.

Committeeman Mosely of Mississippi wired a resolution, adopted by the State Republican Committee, indorsing Mr. Taft's work and pledging support for his renomination.

FLIES ABOVE HUDSON, ON IT, THEN IN IT

and would the fireboats please be sent out to make a rescue?"

The tug and the loose raft floated down very close to the hydroplane, while the tug's skipper planned ways to attach a rope. A negro deckhand finally jumped aboard the raft, chopped a hole through the six inches of ice overlaying it, and made a rope fast to a point of projecting planking.

As he worked the usual procession of ferryboats rushed from the four points of the compass. Two waves from the wash in their wake rolled over him while he was on his hands and knees attempting to make fast the tow line. He grinned up at those on the tug and kept right on at his work as though nothing unusual had happened.

A purse was hastily made up among the cheering guests of Mr. Coffyn. It was handed to the deckhand as he stepped aboard the tug, and it was seen that the line he had fixed in place was drawing taut, while another line, which he had thrown to Gannon aboard the hydroplane, was holding tug, raft, and hydroplane together.

Capt. Bradley would have nothing to do with any more attempts to tow the weakened raft against the tide and the ice. It was decided to float southward, as far out of the ferry paths as possible, to Governors Island in the hope that the military authorities there would make the hydroplane welcome for the night. The ferryboats, however, could not be induced to keep away while such a strange sight was visible for a mere veering from their course of a notch or two.

Strong Language from the Skipper.

They flocked close, kept the aeroplane bobbing about on its boatlike understructure, and kept Capt. Bradley swearing fearful things upon the heads of his brother skippers because of their curiosity. He was fearful that every minute the few remaining planks of the raft would go to pieces, and then there would be nothing on which to rest the hydroplane, even if a place to tie up along the shore could be found.

At sunset—the flights began at 4 o'clock—Gannon was still aboard the hydroplane in soaking wet clothes, while Coffyn was riding along on the raft, looking for a convenient place to make the shore. Capt. Bradley spied the breakwater in front of the Police Station of Harbor Squad A, near the Aquarium. He decided that if the air-and-water craft could be towed in behind the granite wall of the breakwater it would be safe for the night against either storms or tide.

Deputy Dock Commissioner Cresson happened to be passing along the Battery wall and saw the strange-looking craft, with wings like an aeroplane and understructure like a boat, bobbing about in the ice floes.

He ordered Launch A to put out to its assistance, and, as Launch A is a small boat with a low deck and can handle itself well in the ice, it soon had Coffyn's craft and his mechanician safely within the granite inclosure. Another trip of the launch brought in the remaining portion of the raft, and on this the seabird and iceboat combination was perched for the night.

Mrs. Coffyn, who left for the aviator's home at 43 East Fifty-eighth Street as soon as the May McGuirle touched the Police Department's pier, called out to her husband on leaving that he musn't forget the Charity Ball, to which they had accepted invitations. It was well after the time for the ball to open when Coffyn saw that his craft was securely tied down for the night and he could begin to think of such comforts as dry clothing and supper.

First Craft of Its Kind.

Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, had charge of the party aboard the May McGuirle. He said that in addition to being equipped with skids and the pontoons the hydroplane carried a self-starting device which obviated the necessity of carrying an extra man to recrank the machine should it come to rest on the water. The craft is the first air-and-water machine turned out from the Wright factory. It is a development of the canoe device used by Wilbur Wright in his first flights from Governors Island to Grant's Tomb and around the Statue of Liberty. The canoe permitted landing but not starting from the water, as a portion of the propellers were submerged.

Glenn Curtiss, in his flight from Albany to Governors Island, carried pontoons, which would have kept his aeroplane afloat in case of a drop into the water, but would not have permitted a fresh start. Curtiss has developed his pontoon idea until he now has in operation a combination aeroplane and motor boat in which all of the aeroplane's machinery is carried in the boat.

Coffyn's craft, while sitting, with power off, on the water, listed heavily backward, almost submerging the rear ends of the pontoons. As power was applied to the propellors it took an even keel and held it until it rose from the water.

In the air Coffyn had trouble with a loose bolt which got in the way of his magneto clutch. He pulled off a glove and in spite of the biting cold at a 400-foot altitude he adjusted the bolt, allowing the machine to fly while he did it without touching the controlling lever. Coffyn said that it required no longer a run over the water to get away than over the land, and that he could land on his pontoons on any stretch of ground on which the old type of skid-machines as first built by the Wrights could land.

QUINCY AND WILSON SILENT.

As to Report of Campaign Money from F. C. Penfield.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Josiah Quincy, former Mayor of Boston, would neither deny nor affirm to-day the report published in The New York World that he had helped Col. Watterson obtain a sum variously stated at $10,000 and $50,000 from Frederic Courtland Penfield to aid Woodrow Wilson's campaign fund.

"I have absolutely nothing to say," was the sum total of Mr. Quincy's replies to questions. He referred all inquirers to W. J. McCombs, Gov. Wilson's campaign manager.

Mr. McCombs could not be found at his office yesterday. Gov. Wilson, who was in Trenton, had nothing to say.

FLORIDA LAND SALE INQUIRY.

Engineers Said to Have Been Dismissed for Making Adverse Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Another investigation of the Department of Agriculture, involving orders of Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe, similar in many respects to the recently concluded McCabe-Wiley controversy, but which embraces charges of suppressed reports and influence of land speculators over Government officials, is to be instituted by the House Committee on Expenditures in the agricultural department.

Circumstances relating to exploitation of Florida Everglade lands, millions of acres of which have been sold throughout the country by syndicates in the past few years, were brought to the attention of the committee to-day, following the summary dismissal from Government service by Secretary Wilson last Saturday of C. G. Elliott, chief engineer of the drainage division of the department, and Assistant Engineer A. D. Morehouse, and the suspension of F. E. Singleton, an accountant, on a technical charge of transference of public funds.

Representatives Frank Clark of Florida and E. R. Bathrick of Ohio, who have instigated the investigation, charged before the Congressional Committee today that officials of the Department of Agriculture had been influenced by Florida Everglade land promoters in the suppression of a report on the condition of the lands made by the drainage department that Chief Engineer Elliott was threatened by agents of the land promoters unless he would revise a circular letter to the public which did not contain laudatory references to the lands they were selling, and that upon his refusal, the circular and a subsequent fuller report were suppressed by the order of Secretary Wilson and that later Engineers Elliott and Morehouse were removed from office.

Solicitor McCabe, who was called before the House Committee, of which Representative Moss of Indiana is Chairman, denied to-day that the dismissal of the department officials was in any way caused by the Florida land case, and declared that the action was taken following charges that the dismissed men had misapplied funds. All the papers relating to this feature of the case, he said, he had turned over to the Department of Justice for possible prosecutions.

Representative Carlk said to-day that Secretary Wilson would be summoned as a witness, and that he would be asked concerning an interview he had with the Florida representative some time ago, in which the Secretary is said to have admitted that he had suppressed the report on the everglade lands. Mr. Clark charges this was done at the request of the land companies. W. R. Hardee of Jensen, Fla., recently made a statement that Secretary Wilson said:

"I am not running this office for the protection of fools who do not know any better than to buy something that they never saw and do not know anything about."

A part of the evidence submitted to the House Committee is a copy of a letter written by Mr. Elliott to Secretary Wilson last November, in which he names E. C. Howe and Thomas H. Will of the Florida Everglades Land Company.

The charge against the discharged officials is that several years ago they ran short in the appropriation for the drainage division because funds had been irregularly loaned to the irrigation division of the department. The total was about $900, but no financial gain accrued to any of the officials.

JOEL WILL IS PROBATED.

Surrogate Recites Tragic Story of Tuberculosis in the Family.

Surrogate Fowler admitted to probate yesterday the contested will of Isabelle Joel, who died Aug. 27 last at Monticello, N. Y., of tuberculosis. The will disposes of $4,000 realty and $1,000 personalty, and names Rosalie Joel of 144 East Sixty-second Street as sole beneficiary.

The will was contested by A. Louis Joel, himself a sufferer from tuberculosis, whose residence was given as the Oakes Home, Denver, Col. Another brother, Joseph A. Joel of Belvidere, Neb., did not oppose the probate of the will.

In his decision Surrogate Fowler rehearsed the tragic history of the family. The two brothers and two sisters were orphans. Their mother, Mrs. Louise Joel, had been made a widow by the death of their father, Col. Joel. Then she died. Shortly after her death her eldest daughter, Lucy Joel, also died. Both Louis and Isabelle contracted tuberculosis, the disease that killed their sister Lucy, who died intestate.

In the midst of this visitation of disease the children began to quarrel over the undistributed property which they had inherited. Surrogate Fowler found that the two surviving sisters were brought closer together by their family misfortune and were a great comfort to each other. He held that there was nothing suspicious in one sister making the other her sole legatee.

Bitter letters from A. Louis Joel, the contestant, written to his sister figured in the case. They called on her to settle with him, because he needed money in his fight against disease.

AUTHORS ON DIRECTORATE.

Broadhurst and Bartholomae with Brady in New 48th Street Theatre.

The William A. Brady Theatre Company, that has taken a lease of the new theatre that is being built by Felix Isman in West Forty-eighth Street, close to the Brady Playhouse, has on its Directorate two authors, Philip Bartholomae and George Broadhurst, both of whom will be financially interested in the new house. Mr. Bartholomae is the author of "Over Night," the farce that had a long run at the Hackett Theatre last season, and, of course, Mr. Broadhurst has many successful plays to his credit.

Mr. Bartholomae, in his connection with the new theatre, is to become a producing manager. One of the plays he has written since the appearance of 'Over Night' he will produce on his own account early in the season, with Arthur Aylesworth in the leading rôle. Another of his plays, "Little Miss Brown," has been accepted for production by Mr. Brady. Some of Mr. Broadhurst's plays will be put on at an early date after the opening of the house.

NEW SUIT TO CLEAR 'DEATH AVENUE'

Based on a Flaw Found in New York Central's Title to the Strip in Riverside Park.

GEO. L. WILLSON PLAINTIFF

He Is W. R. Hearst's Father-in-Law—His Contention, if Sustained, Will Oust the Railroad.

A definite attempt to oust the New York Central Railroad from its present holdings on Twelfth Avenue and Riverside Park and to obtain a permanent injunction against the use of tracks in the upper section of Riverside Park was begun yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Pendleton. The court has held that the franchise permitting the railroad to operate in the city streets is good for 500 years.

Recent investigations by Clarence J. Shearn, who is the attorney of record for G. L. Willson of 137 Riverside Drive, the present complainant, are said to show that upward of $80,000,000 worth of property claimed by the New York Central was being held under titles that are not clear. It was ascertained yesterday, in the preliminary hearing, that a great deal of the city's property is being used by the railroad.

In the suit begun yesterday by Mr. Willson, who is the father-in-law of W. R. Hearst, he charges in his complaint that the New York Central is maintaining a public nuisance incident to the running of trains in the direct vicinity of his private property on the corner of Riverside Drive and 105th Street. He contends that the noise of the trains, the stench and disturbances due to the cattle cars, the odors of smoke and steam and gas, have caused him damages which he estimates, for the sake of a technical charge, at $15,000. He asks that the railroad be enjoined from operating upon property which is not its own, but which belongs to the City of New York.

The particular strip of land, title to which is questioned in this test case, was obtained by the old Hudson River Railroad in 1846. The use of the land between 105th and 107th Streets was acquired by private grant from one Moffat, the owner of the property, in 1847. Moffat agreed to grant to the railroad a strip sixty-six feet wide, then under water, with the proviso that the property should revert to the Hudson River Railroad Company if the land was ever saved from the river. Before land was saved the city grant of 1852 to Moffat reserved for the city what was to become Twelfth Avenue and what was later changed into a portion of Riverside Park.

It is, therefore, contended that the property in question was never lawfully conveyed to the railroad after having been reserved by the City of New York.

Counsel for the New York Central, A. S. Lyman, contended yesterday that the railroad was there before the park was, thus invalidating the city's claim for a park reservation. In answer to this Mr. Miller of the firm of Cleary, Dilworth, Miller & Fay, which is assisting Mr. Shearn, alleged that the reservation by the city was in view of a future improvement of the property.

The case is being privately tried by Justice Pendleton in the library of the Judges' chambers.

LOVESICK YOUTH A SUICIDE.

Shoots Himself Because Girl Preferred Attentions of His Cousin.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—Joseph Sulman, 18 years old, son of a silk importer, committed suicide to-day by shooting himself through the head when he discovered that Miss Rose Lisner, with whom he was in love, preferred the attentions of William Kurtz, his cousin.

Sulman left a note addressed to Miss Lisner declaring his love for her.

Man Who Arrested Caruso Retires.

Police Commissioner Waldo yesterday retired on an annual pension of $700 Patrolman James J. Cain, who was attached to the West Forty-seventh Street Station. Cain achieved fame several years ago, when he arrested Enrico Caruso, the tenor, in the menagerie in Central Park. Cain joined the force on Jan. 3, 1891.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
PRR
About Courteous Treatment
When a passenger goes to a railroad train and is met by an attentive porter who takes his bag, and a courteous conductor who assigns him to his seat or berth in a welcoming tone, his trip has begun pleasantly.
Later on, when the conductor comes along and takes up his ticket as if it were a pleasure instead of a duty, he begins to feel that he is in the hands of friends who have his welfare and comfort at heart. And when he meets a pleasant greeting and has a good meal promptly and deftly served in the dining car, and afterward finds some companionable people in the club car, he realizes that there is genuine enjoyment in the modern means of travel.
It is the constant aim of the Pennsylvania Railroad management to set and maintain this standard on its trains. Its employes are instructed and trained in the school of civility, courtesy and good manners. As far as they are concerned, every passenger is on a pleasure trip, and it is a part of their duty to lend all the aid they can to make it so.
A passenger chooses his train very much as he does his hotel, and his patronage is an asset which increases with the manner in which it is cultivated. The management knows this and its golden rule is "Strive to please."
There is a good deal of heart in a corporation after all.

GOMPERS DENIES CONTEMPT.

Editorials Not Intended to Aid Bucks Stove Boycott, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, made an unequivocal denial of any intent to disobey the injunction of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia when he took the stand today in his own defense against the charge of contempt in connection with the Bucks Stove and Range Company boycott case. His testimony was not completed and he will be a witness again to-morrow.

Mr. Gompers insisted under oath that his editorials in the American Federationist and the utterances of himself and other officials of organized labor during the campaign of 1908 were not intended to aid or abet the boycott of the company. For these alleged acts in violation of the court's order, Mr. Gompers was sentenced at hte time to one year, John Mitchel to nine months and Secretary Frank Morrison to six months in the Washington jail.

Mr. Gompers explained that his speeches were based on his understanding of the American right of free speech. He denied that the boycott of the Bucks Stove Company was in his mind when he uttered them.

Gouverneur M. Thompson Dead.

Gouverneur M. Thompson, 65 years old, a retired lawer and a member of the Union League Club, died of heart disease early to-day in his apartments at 47 East Thirty-first Street. He was heard to fall on the floor of his bedroom by persons in the building, who found him unconscious and who summoned a neighboring physician. He died without regaining consciousness.

DEATH AND PANIC IN FACTORY EXPLOSION

One Killed and Three Seriously Injured by Disaster in Westinghouse Plant in Newark.

GIRLS FLEE FROM FLAMES

Gas Oven Blows Up, but What Caused It to Do So Puzzles Fire Department.

Over the rumbling of two trains which rolled into the Newark (N. J.) station of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad about 9 o'clock last night there sounded the dull roar of an explosion. A brilliant flash of light glared in the top floor windows of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's plant, a short distance away in Lackawanna Avenue, between Orange and Plane Street, and then died down.

Railroad men and persons in near-by streets rushed to the plant whence came the cries of girls and the shouts of men. The plant is four stories high, and from the upper windows frightened young women began to crawl upon the fire escapes. Others, having fled down the stairways, soon reached the street. Some did not know what had happened except that there had been a deafening explosion, which smashed the windows in the drying room next to which they had been at work, and caused the whole building to shake as though rocked by an earthquake.

It was an hour or more afterward before the police and officials of the company learned that a big gas oven used to dry the motors and dynamos and other articles of manufacture made by the company had exploded. Then it was found that one man had been killed outright and three injured so badly that they will probably die.

The Dead.

LOTOS, PETER, 117 Sheffield Street.

The Injured.

FELDMAN, ISRAEL, 82 Barclay Street; bruises and internal injuries.

MICHELE, MICHAEL, 55½ Barclay Street; internal injuries.

SEDLECK, STANLEY, 47 Rankin Street; internal injuries.

Explosion Is a Mystery.

What caused the accident was not determined last night, though it is known that it was gas which exploded. What occurred was told by some of the twenty-five-odd men who were in the drying room.

This room is about 150 by 100 feet and occupies the middle third of the top floor, on one side of it being a packing and boxing room and on the other a room in which 100 girls prepare the company's products for the japan finish. This is put on in the drying room, in which are several ovens or furnaces, composed of sheet steel covered with asbestos. They are grouped about the room like so many huge boxes, each about 14 by 16 feet around and 12 feet in height. They are heated by gas jets placed within them.

Overtime work is required at the factory now, and besides the girls at work in the finishing room there were the twenty-five-odd men in the oven room, whose time expired at 9 o'clock. Some of them were in a small dressing room built into one end of the oven room, while a few still remained about the ovens. Work was over for the night.

None of the men knew what caused the explosion. Of a sudden there was a report which deafened them and a concussion which tossed them from their feet into far corners of the room. Their ears were assailed, too, with the sound of crashing glass as thirty or more windows fell outward into the street. The oven which exploded was torn into pieces, and these were hurled into the walls and ceilings. There was a blinding flash as the burning gas darted into the room, and a fire started about the floor where the oven stood. Many of the men were stunned. Those that were not rushed wildly for the doorways and the fire escapes.

Foreman Rescues the Girls.

In the room where the girls were at work General Foreman Paul Schoenemann quelled the panic. He hustled the girls down the stairs and the fire escapes, ignorant himself of what might be happening in the next room. It was not until the last girl was safely out that he investigated. Some one had turned in a fire alarm and the firemen were with him when Mr. Schoenemann entered the drying room.

The firemen quickly put out the blaze in the floor and then aided Mr. Schoenemann and other employes who had found Lotos and the injured men. They were carried into the street, where ambulances from the City Hospital were waiting. The injured men were rushed there.

With the fire out it was found that very little damage had been done to the plant except for the wrecked oven and the broken windows. General Supt. E. F. Harder started an investigation, but said he could not decide what had caused the gas to explode. He said the oven had been passed recently by the Bureau of Combustibles and Fire Risks of the Newark Fire Department. Capt. C. Albert Gasser, head of the bureau, corroborated this. He will hold an investigation to-day.

LOWEST DEATH RATE YET

But More Marriages and Births in the State in 1911.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The death rate in New York State for 1911 was the lowest ever recorded, while the number of births and marriages increased substantially, according to the annual report of Dr. Eugene H. Porter, State Commissioner of Health, which was transmitted to Gov. Dix to-day.

There were 2,092 fewer deaths reported throughout the State during 1911 than during 1910, and the urban rate was but a little more than the rural, the death rate being 15.5 per 1,000 population, as against 16.1 for 1910.

The births exceeded the deaths by 75,288, the total registration in the State being 220,825 births and 145,537 deaths.

Returns from marriages indicate that there were about 90,000, or 5,000 more than the previous year.

Epidemic influenza has been a large factor in the death rate. By means of this disease there has been a reversal of the incidents of mortality. The Winter mortality has been higher than the Summer; there were 38,600 deaths in the last Winter months, and 34,200 in the three Summer months. Pulmonary tuberculosis caused 14,179 deaths last year, nearly the same as in 1910. For the entire period of the last twenty-five years, 11 per cent. of the deaths have been from consumption.

Cancer has reached a mortality of 8,000, and deaths from this disease are increasing rapidly. There were 3,000 deaths in 1891 as against the 8,000 this past year, and, comparing cancer with the almost stationary mortality of consumption, it would appear that within the next twenty years there would be more deaths from cancer than from consumption.

The lowest death rate ever recorded from typhoid fever was shown this year—14 per 100,000 population, a total of 1,310 deaths. Measles, scarlet fever, and diphtheria each show a saving of several hundred lives.

About 1,000 more deaths from accidents and 42 less deaths from suicide than in 1910 are recorded.

Acquit Boy of Policeman's Charge.

Seventeen-year-old Robert Rubin of 145 West 142d Street, who was arrested on Jan. 7 last for an alleged assault upon Policeman Michael A. Patto of the West 125th Street Station, was acquitted of the charge by the Justices of Special Sessions. In discharging the boy Justice Steinert said that he believed the policeman had struck the boy first.

Brass Company Elects Officials.

MAY BE POWER GRAB.

Proposed Water Storage Corporations Allowed to Market Their Securities.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—There is the greatest divergence of opinion at the Capitol as to whether the water storage bills introduced last night really would work for the benefit of the State or whether they conceal a scheme to benefit the water power interests in Northern New York. The interests for many years have wielded a strong and sinister influence at Albany. The bills presented last night are the result of an exhaustive investigation by a legislative committee of the problem of water storage in this State.

There are two bills and one of these in particular suggests in its verbiage so much draftsman skill that it has aroused at the Capitol thoughts of Ray B. Smith, the former Republican Clerk of the Assembly, whose workmanship in connection with the "midnight charter" for New York City which failed of passage at the last session compelled the unqualified admiration of even his political opponents in Tammany Hall who hired him to do the work.

One of the committee bills empowers three or more persons to incorporate themselves for the purpose of building reservoirs to promote the even flow of waters in the streams and to dispose of water or of electric energy developed from water power. The thought as expressed, first in the committee's report and later in the measures presented, seems to be that these should be quasi-public service corporations operating under the joint control of the Conservation Committee and Public Service Commission for the Second District without any profit to the stockholders except a reasonable interest on the money invested.

These apparently public spirited private corporations are to begin operations only after receiving the permission of the Conservation Committee created by Gov. Dix.

The bill also contains a provision to the effect that if the income shall prove sufficient (which it is bound to be) there shall be repaid to the stockholders "such sums as shall have been paid by them to the corporation for stock, together with interest thereon." It also provides that "at any time after provision shall have been made for the payment of all outstanding charges and obligations and for the payment into a fund of the proportionate amount required for the repayment or amortization of the cost of all improvements and for contribution to a proper reserve fund for emergencies and contingencies, the surplus income shall be ratably rebated and paid to the parties who shall have paid for the benefits."

Some persons who had an opportunity to examine the bills declared to-day that at last the water power trust in Northern New York seemed on the point of realizing what it has been contending for many years at the capital through its advocates in and out of the Legislature, if these bills and the Constitutional amendment providing for the flooding of State forest lands for water storage purposes become law.

Also, riparian owners intending to benefit from the storage plants of such corporations must surrender in perpetuity to the corporations all their rights to the waters impounded except what proportion of it is required to produce an even flow of water in the stream below the storage reservoir. And on that surplus water which the corporation can convert into power and market at the highest rate the Public Service Commission will permit it to charge, it will be required to pay to the State only a tax at the rate of at least $3 for each million cubic feet of plant capacity annually in lieu of all other State taxes.

The powers of condemnation, it was pointed out to-day, would be a most effective club over smaller corporations who might show reluctance in disposing of their property to the "no profit" corporation. Thus, under the guise of acting as the State's agents with no profits, these corporations could derive for fifty years all the incalculable benefits in power privileges for their own plants and in addition pocket large profits from surplus power sold to outsiders.

The one question asked here is: Where does the State come in and what will become of the promises held out by the Dix administration of power at nominal cost for every municipality and hamlet in the State from power trunk lines maintained by the State?

BIERMAN SUES EXPRESS CO.

Asks $25,000 for False Arrest on Charge of Stealing a Check.

Frederick Bierman, who was held in jail for seventy-three days on the complaint of the American Express Company that he had stolen one of its traveler's checks for $100 belonging to Frederic N. Coudert, and who was subsequently acquitted in General Sessions, began suit yesterday in the Supreme Court to recover $25,000 damages from the express company for false arrest.

Bierman says that he bought the check in Bremen, Germany, for 416 marks. When he presented it in New York for cashing the express company put its Inspector, Frederick Lobstein, on the case, and Bierman was later arrested. The company contends that the check had belonged to Frederic N. Coudert, and that his signature as purchaser had been burned out. Bierman's explanation of the burn on the check was that he had accidentally let his cigar fall on the paper.

The case is being tried before Justice Ford and a jury. Archibald Palmer is counsel for the plaintiff, and the express company was represented in court by Edward Hymes of the firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn.

SEEK HABEAS CORPUS TO SET BRANDT FREE

Sentence of Schiff Burglar to be Attacked on Ground of Error in Burglary Plea.

HE DENIED OPENING DOORS

Didn't Know Nature of the Crime to Which He Confessed, It Is Now Declared.

It became known yesterday that certain persons are contemplating asking for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Foulke E. Brandt, the former servant of Mortimer L. Schiff, who was sentenced to thiry years' imprisonment by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky after he had pleaded guilty to burglary in the first degree, confessing that he entered Mr. Schiff's home and stole two stickpins after striking Mr. Schiff over the head with a ninepin.

The grounds upon which the writ will be asked for are said to be that Brandt did not know the nature of the crime to which he pleaded guilty, and that Judge Rosalsky did not inform him that he could not be guilty of burglary in the first degree if it was not true that he had forced an entrance into Mr. Schiff's home. According to the stenographer's minutes taken at the time Brandt was sentenced the prisoner repeatedly denied that he had opened any door, saying that they were all open. There was no direct evidence to contradict this statement by Brandt, and it will, therefore, be the contention that Judge Rosalsky should have informed Brandt that he had no business to plead guilty to burglary in the first degree, but should have pleaded guilty to assault, as he admitted that he struck Mr. Schiff over the head with the ninepin.

On the other hand Brandt at times denied that he had any intention to inflict any injury upon Mr. Schiff, and then later calmly told Judge Rosalsky that he had struck Mr. Schiff over the head as he entered the room. Regarding this point, Judge Rosalsky said, according to the record:

> Q.—Was not your mind made up to take Mr. Schiff's life? A.—I went up to ask him for help, and Mr. Schiff recognized somebody was in the room before I had a chance to speak to him, and I hit him.

In another part of his testimony he said in reply to a question from the Judge, who asked him why he had the alley pin:

> I thought I might be attacked, and that Mr. Schiff might think there might be a burglar in the house and I could protect myself.

Regarding the open door Judge Rosalsky said:

> Q.—How did you gain admittance to the House? A.—The basement door was open.
>
> Q.—Didn't you get in there through the hoistway by opening up a door? A.—There was a grating there which was also open.
>
> Q.—You mean unlocked—you don't mean open—you mean unlocked—you had a razor? A.—It was open.

There was some more testimony regarding a glass door which Brandt said was open, and he repeatedly denied that he had opened any door on the night of the crime.

Late yesterday afternoon Clarence J. Shearn appeared at District Attorney Whitman's office and was with Mr. Whitman for more than an hour. At the close of this conference both Mr. Shearn and Mr. Whitman refused to make any statement as to what they had discussed. Mr. Shearn is W. R. Hearst's attorney.

The District Attorney also received a visit from one of the members of the Grand Jury which indicted Brandt. It was learned that this Grand Juror told the District Attorney that at the time he voted to indict Brandt he was under the impression that the charge was one of extortion and not of burglary in the first degree and assault in the first degree.

The stenographer's minutes taken before the Grand Jury in the case cannot be found and the stenographer cannot be located.

MANCHUS DICTATE TERMS.

PEKING, Feb. 6.—A complete armistice has been arranged, but bargaining between Premier Yuan Shi-Kai and the Republican leaders is likely to continue for several weeks before the Court finally retires.

The Chinese papers publish the terms laid down by the Empress Dowager, which includes the perpetuation of the titles of the entire Court, the retention by the imperial family of the palaces in Peking, the continuation of the Imperial Guard at the expense of the Republic, and the right of the Court to exact regal homage from the nation. It is not believed that the Republicans will accept all these terms.

Gen. Tuan Chi-Jui, acting Viceroy of Hu-Nan and Hu-Pé provinces and commander of the second imperial army, has withdrawn his forces, which were formerly stationed at Hankow, to Pao-ting-Foo.

Gen. Chang-Hsun, in command of the imperial army which was recently at Nanking, has been instructed to receive a Republican emissary and arrange for peace.

Anarchy in Manchuria is causing much concern and a Japanese battalion has been moved into Mukden. The Japanese Legation declares that except for this change no troops have been moved.

NANKING, Feb. 6.—The answer of the Republican Government to Yuan Shi-Kai's requests on behalf of the Manchus has been forwarded to Peking. In nearly all the essential points the reply is in the affirmative, and an answer from Yuan Shi-Kai will, it is expected, reach here promptly.

The conservative element among the Republicans does not insist on making Nanking the capital, and it now appears probable that Peking will continue to be the capital of China pending the final action of the National Convention on the future form of government.

Prof. Tenney, Chinese Secretary of the American Legation at Peking, has arrived in Nanking and has arranged to make an unofficial call on the members of the Republican government. His mission here is to investigate the stability of the Republic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Fifteen hundred Chinese Imperial troops were killed or wounded and five hundred captured in a battle at Chui-Chow, Kiang-Su Province, yesterday, according to a cablegram received here to-day by The Chinese Free Press.

Gen. Lim-Chang of the Canton army led the Republican forces, numbering 6,000. The imperial forces, numbering 5,000, were commanded by Gen. Chung-Fung.

It is added that the revolutionists have captured Soo-Chow, in Ngan-Hwei Province.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 7.—The Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says:

"Premier Yuan Shi-Kai carries an edict in his pocket naming him as High Commissioner with absolute powers and making him a virtual dictator.

"The retention of the Throne's dignities, which are carefully guarded by capitulations divided into three chapters of twenty articles, makes the future government a commonwealth rather than a republic."

Huson Begins Agricultural Duties.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Calvin W. Huson of Penn Yan to-day qualified as State Commissioner of Agriculture and formally assumed the duties of his new office, succeeding Raymond A. Pearson.

T. B. ENOS'S ESTATE SUED.

Mrs. L. B. Leavitt Seeks to Recover $7,500 Advanced on His Inheritance.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger began hearing testimony yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Lillian B. Leavitt to recover $7,500 from the estate of Thomas B. Enos. Enos received $55,000 for his share of the estate of Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the "American dentist," who rescued the Empress Eugénie from the fury of the Parisian mob following the defeat of Napoleon III. at Sedan.

Enos was a distant relative of the dentist. When Dr. Evans died Enos wanted a loan, and assigned $7,500 of what he was to receive from the Evans estate to Mrs. Leavitt, who was then the widow of Joseph B. Friedlander, a wealthy glass manufacturer, though she later was married to Louis Leavitt.

J. Noble Hayes, administrator of the Enos estate, asserts that Enos got only $5,000 for making this assignment and that, as the whole transaction was usurious and void, the assignment cannot be enforced.

Evening Clothes for Men at Saks'

¶ When it comes to Dress Clothes, we agree with you that it is a serious matter. An ill-fitting sack coat is a tragedy, but a Tuxedo, or a swallow-tail, that fails of its object—that is a blunder. The very words Dress Clothes presuppose dressiness. So do the very occasions upon which they are used. The very adjuncts therewith—the glistening Sahara of linen with its oases of pearl studs, the immaculate gloves, the lustrous pumps, the stoical silk hat, or its collapsible brother—all demand the company of a coat that fits itself to the occasion.

¶ We go out ourselves occasionally, and are not one whit less fastidious than you about the fit of our evening clothes. And if it were possible for our cutters to cut something exceptional for us, they would do it. But the best that is in them—the best cutting that money can buy—is expressed in every Tuxedo or Full Dress Suit we carry in stock. There is not a single innovation in cutting that is not embodied in every coat. There is not a single Tuxedo but has received the individual attention of an expert, nor a Full Dress Coat but displays in the symmetry of its seams the skill of the most practiced hand.

DUKE GETS CASTLE, BUT SO DOES 'VASSAL'

Apparent Meaning of Scottish Verdict in Action Brought by Duke of Argyll.

OLD CLAN LAWS INVOLVED

Ruined Fortress of Dunstaffnage Always Occupied by Campbell Vassals, but Argylls Could Enter It.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A curious case involving the old Scottish clan laws was decided in the Edinburgh Court of Session to-day, when the Duke of Argyll made an appeal against the judgment of a lower court awarding the proprietorship of the ruined castle of Dunstaffnage to Angus John Campbell.

Lord Dunedin, in giving judgment, said the castle was one of the oldest fortresses of Scotland, the date of its erection being lost in antiquity. Up to 1747, it was abundantly clear, the Argylls were the proprietors of the fortress. From the earliest times there seemed to have been a Campbell as Captain of Dunstaffnage. These Dunstaffnage Campbells were vassals, and as such had not only the right but the duty to occupy and possess the castle, which nevertheless remained the property of the superior.

The Clan act, which was passed in 1747, Lord Dunedin went on to say, effected no change of proprietor from superior to vassal, and the obligations to keep the castle open to the superior and to furnish fuel still held good, not being struck out by the act. There was still the duty and right of the vassal to remain at the castle. with the difference that he might occupy it with peaceful servants instead of with armed men. The service demanded of the vassal gave him the right of possession of the castle.

Consequently Lord Dunedin, while granting to the Duke a declaration that he was the proprietor of the castle, refused to make a statement that Mr. Campbell had no right or title of any kind in or to the property.

Dunstaffnage Castle is in the County of Argyll, 2½ miles northeast of Oban, on Loch Etive. It played a part in early Scottish history as the home of the Scottish monarchs, and is of unknown antiquity. Loch Etive is a lake twenty miles long in an inlet of the Atlantic Ocean on the West coast of Scotland.

The "Stone of Destiny," now forming a part of the Coronation Chair at Westminster Abbey was kept at Dunstaffnage before its removal to Scone in A. D. 840.

The Stone is the "Lia Fail" of Scotland and in ancient times was kept in the halls of the Kings of Ireland at Tara. Upon it all of them were crowned. It was known as the "Fatale Marmor," meaning "Stone of Destiny," from the inscription carved upon it, a translation of which is: "Where'er this stone may be, such is the Fate's decree. There the Scottish race shall fill the highest place."

It was taken from Ireland to Albany, Scotland, by Fergus, leader of the Dalraidic colony in Argyllshire. Kenneth the Second of Scotland, conqueror of the Picts, removed it from Argyllshire to Scone in 840 Edward I. took the stone to London, where it has since reposed in Westminster Abbey. Over it is a rude chair upon which all the British monarchs have since been crowned.

DISCUSS ITALIAN ADVANCE.

Gen. Caneva Returns to Rome to Confer with Authorities There.

ROME, Feb. 6.—The return of Gen. Caneva, Commander in Chief of the Italian expeditionary force in Tripoli, who arrived here to-day, is said to be due to a desire both on his part and on that of the Italian Government to discuss by word of mouth the position at the front.

A consultation will also take place as to the best means to adopt for the decisive advance which, it is said, Gen. Caneva has planned, with the aim chiefly of attaining his object with the least sacrifice of men. This is said to be the real reason for the slowness of the war operations.

A report is in circulation that, as Gen. Caneva is suffering from nephritis, he may not return to Africa or will return only for a short time so as to hand over the command to his successor.

BRUSSELS. Feb. 6.—The Interparliamentary Peace Council, summoned to meet here on Feb. 10, will have an important programme for consideration.

Because of the trouble which arose at a meeting of the Council of the Interparliamentary Union in Paris last October, owing to the adoption of a resolution criticising the Italian declaration of war, the Italian delegates forwarded a notification that they would not attend the coming meeting unless the council agreed to the principle that any discussion or expression of opinion for or against two conflicting governments, especially when war had resulted, should be prohibited.

The President of the council, in reply to the Italian delegates, questions the interpretation placed on the resolution adopted at the October meeting, and points out that it was simply an expression of regret at the suddenness of the declaration of war, which had made intervention with a view to an amicable settlement impossible. He adds that he at no time permitted a discussion of the facts which brought about the Turkish-Italian war.

KING GEORGE OFFERS THANKS

Royal Family with 5,000 Others at Service in St. Paul's Cathedral.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A National thanksgiving service to commemorate the safe return of King George and Queen Mary from India was held to-day in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Their Majesties, with the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, Queen Mother Alexandra, and other members of the royal family, drove to St. Paul's through a chilly damp fog and deep slush. Nevertheless immense crowds stood along the streets and cheered the procession, which consisted of five carriages and an escort of Household Cavalry, as it passed slowly toward the city.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York, with nineteen bishops and many other clergy, received the King and Queen on the steps of the Cathedral. A procession was then formed, which marched down the centre aisle toward the altar.

There were more than 5,000 persons in the congregation. The service consisted of the National Anthem, a "Te Deum," five prayers of general thanksgiving, and the "Hallelujah Chorus." Then came a short address by the Archbishop of Canterbury, after which all stood and sang "Now Thank We All Our God."

The Westminster City Council presented an address of welcome to the King and Queen in Trafalgar Square, while the City of London dignitaries received their Majesties at Temple Bar with the ancient ceremony of presenting to the King the city's pearl sword.

BALLOON CAN CROSS OCEAN.

Belief of Hans Gericke, Who Won the Gordon Bennett Race Last Year.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Hans Gericke, the young German engineer who won the 1911 Gordon Bennett balloon race in the United States, told the Berlin Aero Club last night that he regarded the crossing of the Atlantic in an ordinary balloon as altogether feasible.

Steady westerly to easterly winds, said Herr Gericke, blew along the fifteenth latitude, which, with fair luck, ought to enable a balloon to get from America to England in three or four days.

He thinks the chances with a balloon at least as favorable as with a dirigible airship.

SUCCESSOR SCORES SHUSTER

Extraordinary Disorder in Persia's Finances, Says M. Mornard.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 6.—M. Mornard, the Belgian Treasurer-General who succeeded Mr. Shuster in control of Persian finances, has sent to Brussels a note dated Teheran, Jan. 29, with regard to the present financial situation of Persia, in the course of which he makes several criticisms of the financial administration of his predecessor, Mr. Shuster.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 6.—The Belgian Minister of Finance has received a long telegram from M. Mornard, who succeeded Mr. Shuster in charge of the Treasury Department at Teheran, denouncing the "extraordinary disorder" in which he found Persia's finances and, according to the Brussels Gazette, citing facts of grave importance.

M. Mornard makes an appeal to his compatriots in Persia, and adds that the customs receipts during the last nine months have increased $4,000,000 in spite of Persia's troubles.

ATTACK CZAR'S FAVORITE.

Papers Which Denounce the Mystic Rasputin Are Confiscated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 6.—The evening editions of the Novoe Vremya, a leading St. Petersburg newspaper, and of the Octobrist organ the Golosmesky, a Moscow publication, were confiscated to-night for describing Gregory Rasputin, a reputed mystic, who is wielding enormous influence at the Court, as a "corrupter of bodies and souls."

The recent exiling of Bishop Hermogenes of the Saratoff diocese and the reactionary priest Heliodorus, Abbot of Tsaritsyn, is said to have been due to antagonism on the part of Rasputin.

Boris Suvorin, editor of the Novoe Vremya, will, it is announced, be prosecuted on the charge of libel, which is punishable by a maximum of eight months' imprisonment.

CONNAUGHT GOING FISHING.

Duke, Duchess, and Princess Patricia Plan Outing in New Brunswick.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 6.—It is announced here that the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, with Princess Patricia, will spend some time salmon fishing in New Brunswick next Summer, and that for their accommodation a magnificent lodge on the Tobique River will be built by Lord Strathcona.

The Tobique Salmon Club, which has a lodge at that place, will entertain the Duke and his party in the course of their visit. The President of this club is Eugene Delane of New York, and the Secretary-Treasurer is Arthur D. Weeks, a lawyer, also of New York.

GIVES FACTORIES TO FIFTY EMPLOYES

Millionaire French Manufacturer Transfers Buildings, Plant, and Stock to Workmen.

DUE TO OLD SERVANT'S TEARS

She Told M. Delatour She Was Afraid of What Would Happen to Her When He Died.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—A stroke of good fortune has befallen fifty employes of M. Delatour, a wholesale boot and shoe maker, who has two factories, one in Paris and the other at Liancourt.

M. Delatour is a self-made man, and for over forty years worked harder than any employe. To-day he is a millionaire, but has neither wife nor children to share his riches. Recently he was obliged to remain at home through indisposition, and as he passed the kitchen surprised an old servant in tears. She said she was depressed at the thought of what would happen to her if he died.

The incident set M. Delatour thinking, and the next day he sent for a lawyer and settled an annuity on the old woman. He did not stop there. He resolved to hand over the works to his employes, and under his instructions the lawyer drew up a deed transferring the buildings, plant, and stock to fifty men who had helped him to make his fortune. This is equivalent to a gift of about 2,000,000f. ($400,000) among the fifty.

The donor, however, stipulated that for the next three years the direction of the factory should remain in his hands and that none of those who benefited should be at liberty to realize on his share before the end of that period.

The announcement of the intention of M. Delatour was not received by his employes with unmixed joy, owing to the fact that only 50 of 300 men share in his liberality.

REMOVES A BELFAST PERIL.

Engagement of Ulster Hall Canceled—Troops Ready Nevertheless.

BELFAST, Feb. 6.—Another danger has been eliminated with the official announcement this afternoon that the engagement of Ulster Hall by both the Unionist and the Liberal associations has been canceled at the request of the hirers.

The Corporation of Belfast has given an intimation that no meeting of any sort will be permitted in Ulster Hall on Feb. 7 or 8. This practically disposes of all active incitement to political trouble on the occasion of the home rule meeting, at which Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, is to speak on Thursday, but the authorities as a precautionary measure drafted into the city this afternoon a large body of soldiers, to each of whom fifty rounds of ball cartridges have been served out.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Prof. Wilhelm Paszkowski, the Director of the Scientific Information Bureau of the University of Berlin, will start for the United States on March 9 to deliver lectures in various cities on German culture. LIMA, Peru, Feb. 6.—Finance Minister Ernesto Raez is indisposed and unable to fulfill the duties of his office. Luis F. Villaran has been appointed temporary Finance Minister during his absence.

OCTOPUS WITH SEARCHLIGHT

Amazing Marine Monsters Described by the Prince of Monaco.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Prince Albert of Monaco at a meeting of the Academy of Science to-day read a paper by Prof. Joubin of the Oceanographic Institute on the deep-sea monsters captured during the last cruise of his Serene Highness in the yacht Hirondelle.

Two gigantic octopuses, said the Prince, were captured at a depth of nearly 1,500 feet. One was almost transparent, like a jellyfish, and its anatomy could clearly be discerned through the matter which surrounded it.

The other possessed a great solitary eye divided into two parts. The upper part was for seeing, while the lower part projected a phosphorescent light ahead of the monster, enabling the upper or seeing part to come into use in the sombre depths of the ocean.

WOULD BUY OFF EX-SHAH.

Persia Willing to Pay Him $100,000 a Year If He Quits the Country.

TEHERAN, Feb. 6.—With the consent of Great Britain and Russia, the Persian Government, through the Russian Consul at Astrabad, will inform the ex-Shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza, that it is willing to allow him a pension and grant amnesty to his adherents on the condition that he quits Persia without delay.

The Foreign Minister in an interview to-day said:

"The Government is willing to grant the ex-Shah 50,000 tomans ($100,000) yearly. Russia is not willing that he shall reside in Russian territory, and his place of residence will be settled in subsequent negotiations.

"The Government will allow Shua-es-Sultaneh, a brother of the ex-Shah, to resume possession of his property, and will grant to Salar-ed-Dowleh, another brother, 12,000 tomans yearly and remove the ban of confiscation from his property provided he lives abroad."

Zia-ed-Dowleh, ex-Vice Governor of Azerbijan Province, was to-day found shot dead in a room in the British Consulate at Tabriz, where he recently took refuge. He is believed to have committed suicide.

Mohammed Ali Mirza was dethroned in July, 1909. He proceeded to Russia, residing in Odessa until June, 1911, when he returned to Persia for the purpose of regaining his throne.

The ex-Shah gathered around him many supporters and fought several engagements with varying success. The Russian Government denied that it was lending aid to him, and recent dispatches from St. Petersburg said that Russia and Great Britain had entered into a special arrangement not to attempt his restoration.

1,000 WOMEN, 50 MEN.

French Silk Factory Run Successfully with Hardly Any Male Help.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—An almost Adamless Eden is a silk-spinning factory near Marseilles, founded and managed by a woman, and run on modern lines exclusively by women. It is one of the most important industrial concerns of the neighborhood.

Mme. Garnier, the owner, employs 1,000 women and only 50 men in the factory. The men are stokers or do other work not suitable for women. The factory was constructed according to Mme. Garnier's own plans. Perfect economy of production enables her to pay her hands more than the average wages and at the same time to compete successfully with her rivals.

For the benefit of her workpeople she has established an infirmary and a crèche. The whole of this work is carried out with female assistance only, the bookkeepers, Inspectors, Directors, and controllers all being women.

There has never been a strike.

KIEFF POLICE HEAD ACCUSED.

Money Voted for Czar's Entertainment Said to Have Been Stolen.

KIEFF, Feb. 6.—Col. Kuliabko, who was the head of the secret police of this city at the time of Premier Stolypin's assassination last Sept. 14, and to whom was intrusted the duty of the protection of the Emperor and Empress during their visit here was arrested to-day in connection with the alleged embezzlement of funds allotted by the city authorities for the festivities arranged on that occasion.

Gen. Orozco Affirms Loyalty as He Takes Post of Governor—Strong Force After the Rebels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Ambassador Wilson in a dispatch from Mexico City deplored the effect on public feeling in Mexico of the sensational headlines in papers in the United States, which are evidently prompted by some influence, favoring the use of the United States Army on the international boundary or on the soil of Mexico. The State Department received only assuring dispatches from consuls in Mexico to-day, and a statement was given out at the Department this afternoon, saying in part:

"Quiet still prevails at Juarez and no disorder has been reported from there since last Thursday morning. New troops arrived there early yesterday morning from Villa Ahumada, and business and interurban traffic was resumed at the same time. Though the town of Chihuahua is tranquil, the situation in that State is very uncertain and apparently the soldiers are the controlling element of the situation. Many passengers went north on yesterday's train from Chihuahua.

"The Governor of Chihuahua has resigned. It is likely that Gen. Orozco will be made military dictator of Chihuahua, if he has not already become so. In Durango there has been no organized outbreak, but brigandage and lawlessness are said to continue in that vicinity. In the South there has been no marked improvement, though the Government succeeded in getting a train through to Cuernavaca yesterday. The Americans at that place are considered safe.

"Sensational press dispatches from the United States, announcing prospective or possible intervention, are said to be causing much excitement in Mexico."

No orders of any kind were issued to United States troops to-day, looking to any movement to the border. Major Graves, Secretary of the General Staff, stated that stories of such a movement were brought up this afternoon by some newspaper men and categorically denied.

The War Department has given orders to army posts throughout the country to be ready for possible mobilization, but further than that it has not gone. In addition the Department of Justice has instructed its agents to exercise all possible vigilance in enforcing neutrality laws, while the State Department has asked for quick reports from Consular agents of any danger in the interior to Americans or their interests.

There is manifest restlessness among army officers, who are very much interested in news from the Mexican boundary. The discussion of the Army Appropriation bill and the Hay plan of army reorganization in the House of Representatives is being illuminated by references to the present situation in Mexico and the possible need of a strong military establishment to cope with disorder that can be imagined to be under way.

At the same time advices to the State Department show that the Madero Government is gaining control of the lawless element and gradually order and quiet are being restored.

TROOPS TOLD TO BE READY.

Detachments at Forts Throughout Country Receive Orders.

Five companies of United States Engineers, numbering about 500 men, at Fort Totten have been notified to be ready for duty on the Texas border. The companies selected are the One Hundred and First, One Hundred and Fourteenth, Eighty-second, Eighty-seventh, and One Hundred and Sixty-seventh. They belong to what is known as the Torpedo and Motor Corps, but will be detailed for infantry duty.

Orders were received at Fort Hancock, at Sandy Hook, yesterday to have the men of the Forty-eighth, Fifty-sixth, Seventy-sixth, and One Hundred and Thirteenth Separate Companies ready for field service. Last night they were practically ready to answer the call to start.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 6.—Orders have been received at Fort Lawton directing that four companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, "the Brownsville regiment," be held in readiness to move on short notice.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 6.—Telegraphic instructions received at Fort Screven, Tybee Island, are for the One Hundred and Sixteenth, One Hundred and Twenty-first, and Seventy-fourth Companies of Coast Artillery to get camp equipment and field service ready for action.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 6.—For the second time in twelve months two companies of the Coast Artillery stationed at Fort Barrancas have received orders to be ready to leave for the Mexican border.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 6.—Five of the eight companies of Coast Artillery, stationed in forts of Narragansett Bay, have been ordered to prepare for transfer to the Mexican border.

GALVESTON, Texas, Feb. 6.—Major E. H. Blake, commanding at Fort Crockett, has received instructions that the 104 men of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Company, Coast Artillery, be prepared to take the field with full equipment within twenty-four hours.

MADERO TAKES ROSY VIEW.

Orozco's Troops Are in Pursuit of Rebels in Chihuahua.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6.—President Madero to-night thought the situation in the State of Chihuahua materially improved.

Braulio Hernandez, Secretary of State of Chihuahua, who rose in rebellion Sunday and took possession of Santa Eulalia, has joined forces with Antonio Rojas, the Vasquista, freed from the penitentiary last week by a mob. To-day their men were scattered from Santa Isabel to San Andres. Government troops have been sent in pursuit.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 6.—Gen. Pascual Orozco denies emphatically that the State of Chihuahua is on the verge of seceding from the Mexican Federation, or that he is disloyal to Madero. His denial is contained in a telegram received late to-day by the Chief of the Federal telegraph lines in Juarez.

A Chihuahua special to The Herald says the guards at the State Penitentiary have deserted and jailed the Director, Rafael Raembo, after which they took to the hills to join Rojas.

Citizens of Juarez are here, buying guns and ammunition for protection in case rebel bands come to that city.

YAQUIS WON'T RISE.

Most of the Tribe Anxious for Peace, Says Hammond, Back from Mexico.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MARICOPA, Ariz., Feb. 6.—Have just returned from the Yaqui country in the State of Sonora. Broncho Yaquis have killed a few Mexicans during the past month. Those best qualified to judge have no apprehension of a Yaqui uprising. There are said to be not over eighty malcontents there, most of the tribe being desirous of co-operating with the Government to insure permanent peace.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND.

FORBIDS STEEL TRUST TO DESTROY BOOKS

Judge Gray Issues Order on Government Alleging That Needed Papers Have Disappeared.

MAY BRING CRIMINAL CHARGE

Defendants Receive Warning—Farrell Accused of Complicity in Getting Rid of Papers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Government formally warned the United States Steel Corporation to-day of the possible criminal prosecution of some of its members and several of its subsidiary corporations for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. The warning was coincidental with application to the United States Court for the Third Circuit for an injunction directed to all the defendants in the dissolution equity suit to prevent the further destruction of papers and documents which might be of service to the Government, either as constituting evidence or as guides to the Department of Justice in its search for testimony to prove its allegations against the Steel Trust. The charge is made in this application for an injunction which was filed before Judge Gray at Trenton this afternoon that a large trunk full of papers has already been destroyed by persons connected with the Steel Corporation. Judge Gray granted a temporary injunction and issued a rule citing the Steel Corporation defendants to show cause on March 5 why the injunction should not be made permanent.

There has been a belief in Washington lately that the Government was likely to weaken in its prosecution of the Steel Corporation. Consequently the broad intimation in the complaint filed with Judge Gray that criminal prosecutions are under consideration, if not already determined upon, shows that there is no ground for the assumption that the Government was not in earnest in suing the corporation.

The Government bill declares that "there are officers of the Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries who have not yet been indicted for the practices which the said papers tend to show them guilty of."

The Department of Justice was profoundly silent this afternoon on the significance of this language and would not indicate whether it was a threat or merely a statement of fact. But in other quarters it was taken to be a threat that the Government intends to pursue the steel men on a criminal charge when it has obtained the necessary evidence. This course would be in accord with the policy followed by the Department of Justice for the last two years. Wherever possible criminal indictments have been brought, and equity suits for dissolution have been employed as subsidiary to rather than as the chief means of the enforcement of the Sherman law. The fact that certain papers have been destroyed by the Steel Corporation men is also taken here as an indication that the defendants in the suit already filed are not as confident about the outcome as they have seemed to be.

The Government petition filed with Judge Gray alleges that several thousand papers, valuable as evidence in the Government action against the Steel Corporation, have already been destroyed by men connected with the defendants in the present suit. These papers were used by the Government in the prosecution of the men in the wire pools. The defendants all pleaded guilty and were fined from $1,000 to $45,000. It is alleged that a trunk full of these papers was delivered by United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise of New York on June 29 last to Charles MacVeagh, general solicitor for the Steel Corporation, upon the written agreement of Mr. MacVeagh that he would keep them in his personal custody, subject to examination by officials of the Government at any time.

About ten days ago Henry E. Cotton, Special Assistant to the Attorney General, who is assisting Jacob M. Dickinson in the management of the case against the Steel Corporation, undertook to obtain these papers, which were wanted by the Government in connection with the pending case. It soon developed that Mr. MacVeagh no longer had the papers in his possession, and correspondence between Mr. Cotton and Mr. MacVeagh showed that the papers had been destroyed. Mr. Cotton was informed by R. C. Bolling, assistant to Mr. MacVeagh, that the trunk containing the papers had been turned over, on Oct. 1 last, to the American Steel and Wire Company, and that Frank Baackes, Vice President and General Sales Agent of that company, had destroyed them.

The Government petition declares that J. A. Farrell, President of the Steel Corporation—formerly President of the United States Steel Products Export Company—and one of the defendants in the pending suit, not only knew that the alleged pools, such as were prosecuted successfully last year, existed, but actually helped in their operations. It declares, also, that various of the destroyed papers furnished evidence of the guilt of different subsidiaries of the Steel Corporation, as charged in the equity suit.

The petition sets forth at considerable length the correspondence between Mr. Cotton and officials of the Steel and Wire Company regarding the destruction of the papers.

"With occasional interruptions," says the petition, "the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation have from time to time been members of similar pools and agreements in respect to the several products manufactured and sold by them in inter-State and foreign commerce, and there must be, unless they have been already destroyed, among the records of the United States Steel Corporation or its subsidiary companies correspondence, papers, reports, statements, and accounts relating to said pools and agreements."

Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation, would not discuss yesterday the charges made in the injunction proceedings. President Farrell and the corporation's attorneys were also silent.

DICTAGRAPH IN LORIMER CASE

Senate Committee, Weary of Evidence, Will Make Test.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—One day's efforts to determine by experienced stenographers the genuineness of J. E. Sheridan's stenographic report of Charles McGowan's alleged "perjury" admissions at Toronto in January made the Senate Lorimer Committee so weary today that it voted to try another method. It was resolved to put young Sheridan to a practical test in the committee rooms, staged after the fashion of the hotel rooms at Toronto where McGowan was alleged to have talked into a dictagraph.

After the conclusion of the testimony of Milton W. Blumenberg, H. H. Pechin, a local commercial stenographer, and Allister Cochrane, one of the official stenographers of the House of Representatives and an employe of Mr. Blumenberg in reporting the Lorimer Committee, testified as experts. Both said they thought it impossible to make such a record under the conditions under which Sheridan worked.

Sneak Thief at F. D. Winslow's Home.

A negro sneak thief entered the servants' gate in the home of Francis D. Winslow, 4 East Tenth Street, last Saturday, and made his way to the room of Miss Winslow on the third floor, where he gathered together considerable jewelry and was slipping downstairs again when a servant discovered him. The man got out the front door and escaped. Mr. Winslow did not report the robbery to the police, and it was not until last night that they learned of it. The value of the articles stolen is not known.

PINCHOT SEES PLOT TO GRAB FOREST LAND

Suspects Bill Allowing Power Concern to Run a Pipe Through Mono National Reserve.

NO SUCH MOTIVE, SAYS RAKES

Right of Company to Install Pipes Already Laid Is Contested in Pending Federal Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6.—Gifford Pinchot, as President of the National Conservation Association, has written a circular letter to members of the House of Representatives, denouncing the Rakes bill for the relief of the Hydro Electric Company of California as being "directly in the interest of the water power grabbers."

The measure, which will probably be considered by the house to-morrow, grants to the Hydro Electric Company a right of way of 3,800 feet for a pipe line across a corner of the Mono National Forest in California.

Mr. Pinchot charges that while the "question at issue is small," the importance of the "precedent involved is great," that the company is attempting by an appeal to Congress to "establish the right of the water power companies generally to take for their own purposes what National forest land they please in spite of the Government and the courts," and that the "work of controlling the monopoly of water power will be checked and hampered."

Representative Rakes has joined issue with Mr. Pinchot in a circular letter to members of Congress, denying that the bill is it the interest of the water power concerns. He contends that it is for the particular concern named, and that the relief sought by this bill is necessary "because the officers of the Forestry Bureau have considered it their duty under the law to compel the company to waive legal rights and accept a certain form of revocable permit." Mr. Rakes declares that no principle affecting general legislation is in any way involved.

The right of the Hydro-Electric Company to maintain pipes which have already been laid across the corner of Mono Forest Reserve is opposed by the Federal Government, which has a suit for a permanent injunction against the company pending in the Circuit Court at San Francisco.

"This bill will come to a vote," says the letter of Mr. Pinchot. "It is directly in the interest of the water power grabbers. From the point of view of the public there is nothing to be said in its favor."

He points out that the company could have the regular permit issued by the Government in such cases, under which it would be subjected to a certain measure of Governmental control, but that it has rejected that permit and is endeavoring to go ahead in its own way, and that the purpose of the Rakes bill is to help the company thus to avoid Government control.

SEARCH FOR HAWLEY WILL.

Friends of Dead Financier Becoming Anxious Over Missing Document.

So far as could be learned yesterday efforts to find a will supposed to have been made by Edwin Hawley have still been unsuccessful. F. H. Davis, Mr. Hawley's partner in the brokerage business, still refused to comment on the matter, but from other sources it was reported that Mr. Hawley's friends have become not a little worried over the apparent disappearance of the document disposing of many millions of dollars.

It was explained by one man, who had as close association with the late financier as his uncommunicative habits allowed, that Mr. Hawley had decided to incorporate his interests, and with this in mind destroyed the will he had made in 1903. This theory met with little encouragement in other quarters. A friend who was in daily communication with him up to his death said that if Mr. Hawley had actually made a will in 1903 it was probably still in existence.

"Any one who knew his prudent habits would tell you that Edwin Hawley never destroyed an old boat until he had launched a new one," he said. J. S. Auerbach of Davies, Auerbach, Cornell & Barry, who is said to have acted as personal attorney for Mr. Hawley in some matters, was not in the city yesterday, and it could not be learned that he had drawn up a will.

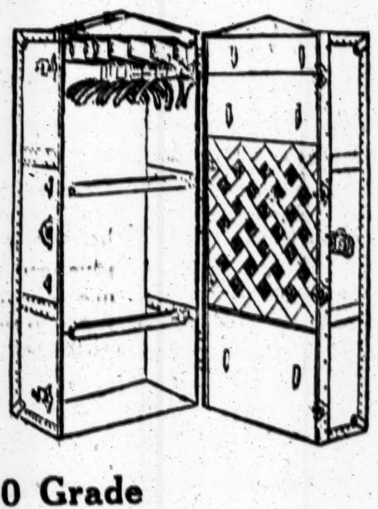
Today the Second Annual GIMBEL Sale of

The Widely Known INNOVATION Trunks

$45, $55, $60, $65 Innovation Trunks, 1911 Model, All Perfect

At $25



About a year ago we announced the first offering ever made of INNOVATION Trunks at less than their full prices. We were astounded at the result, which overwhelmed us, and created what was probably the largest single day's selling on record for Trunks.

We anticipate that the success of today's Sale will eclipse even that of the former. And there are reasons why it will.

First, the Trunks are all in the 1911 model, which divides in the middle, while the Trunk stands on end, like a wardrobe and chiffonier combined.

Second, they are all from regular stock, new and perfect.

Every style of Wardrobe Trunk made by the Innovation Ingenuities, Incorporated, is included in this Sale—in styles for Men and for Women.

Of these 1911 Models, there are precisely 289 Trunks.

103 of the $45 Grade
104 of the $55 Grade
68 of the $60 Grade
14 of the $65 Grade

Today, All at $25 Each

In addition, we have secured from the manufacturers 200 Innovation Trunks in a 1912 Model which we are able to sell at the same low price of $25. The regular retail price of these Trunks has not yet been determined; but in any event it will be considerably more than today's price, $25, which we can offer as the result of a special concession.

Each trunk has one side with hangers for wearing apparel; the other side arranged as follows:

Six drawers, two of which will carry women's hats; or Man's hat compartment with three large and three small drawers;
Women's hat compartment; five drawers (sold only by Gimbels);
Women's Half-size Innovation Trunks, with hat compartment and three or six drawers.

Innovation Wardrobe Trunks are smaller and lighter than the average wardrobe trunk; but will easily carry more wearing apparel than any other style made.

Each Trunk bears the Innovation label, and carries the usual Gimbel repair guarantee.

To add still further to the opportunities of this Sale, we offer a fine collection of Trunks from Dentistry!

Competition is as keen in dentistry as it is in mercantile pursuits. There are many careless dentists whose only claim to public attention is their low prices. Their work is slipshod, and while they may give temporary relief, it is a service that at its best is unsatisfactory and is finally most expensive.

We are striving for an ideal in dentistry—to render the best possible service at the minimum cost—and from the many expressions of confidence that patients have favored us with, we feel we are getting near to our goal. Everything that expert dental work can do for you may be expected here. Sometimes it is valuable advice, which is yours absolutely free. At other times it is gentle and effective treatment, which costs you but a moderate charge.

Why experiment? Come here and let us demonstrate what thousands of people consider the BEST Dentistry, and learn how easily it may be obtained.

We require no payment—in advance or later—unless the work is to your entire satisfaction.

We give you a written guarantee—a guarantee behind which is the name of Bloomingdales'—covering any dental service we render.

ASKS COST TO CITY OF RUNNING SUBWAYS

In Debating Cram's Demand for Figures, Willcox Says He Doesn't Object to City Operation.

ALL THE BOARD QUIESCENT

Negotiators for Interborough Still Out of Town and Conferences Are Delayed—Degnon Co. Gives Bond.

Commissioner Cram brought up again yesterday before the Public Service Commission the suggestion of municipal operation of the subways. He moved a resolution calling on the Chief Engineer of the commission to report on the probable cost of equipment for operation of the Triborough system, when completed, and the equipment required, also to turn in an approximate estimate of the gross and net receipts of the Triborough.

Municipal operation was not discussed by the commission, though the Chairman remarked that he had no objection to it, if it should be shown that public requirements necessitated it. The only objection was on the need of calling on the Chief Engineer to make such a return, as estimates of equipment cost for the new subways are already on file with the commission.

Commissioner Eustis pointed out that all Mr. Cram would have to do if he wished to get such an estimate was to call for what is already on file, and it was not fair to give this extra work to Chief Engineer Craven, who already has more than enough to do.

Mr. Cram refused to be satisfied with this, however, and pressed his resolution. It was carried with only the vote of Commissioner Eustis against it, though Commissioner McCarroll stated that he hardly thought the resolution was necessary.

When the Triborough system was first talked of and before the discussion on operating contracts had begun, the rough estimate of the commission was that the construction work would cost $100,000,000 and the equipment from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. This would include the Loop and the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn Subways, both of which are now approaching completion. Since then the cost has been to some extent cut down owing to a reduction in the size of the bore, but on the other hand the cost of materials has probably increased. The estimate supplied by Mr. Craven is not likely to be very different from the old one.

With Samuel Rea, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and A. J. County, his assistant, still out of the city, the lull in the negotiations dealing with the operation of the new subways continues. Col. Timothy S. Williams, President of the B. R. T., came over to the City Hall and had a long talk yesterday morning with Borough President McAneny. For two hours they went over the estimates of cost of the new subways and sought to fix the difference in cost due to cutting down the bore.

The Directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company hold their regular weekly meeting this morning, and it is presumed that the latest phases of the negotiations will be brought before the board. There may be another meeting between the representatives of the city and the Pennsylvania intermediaries today, but this depends on the return of Mr. Rea and Mr. County, and no definite arrangements for a gathering have yet been made.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission and Travis H. Whitney, Secretary, signed yesterday on behalf of the commission the contract for the construction of the second section of the Broadway line, with H. J. Degnon, President of the Degnon Contracting Company. The agreement calls for the construction of the Broadway Subway from Park Place to Walker Street, with a station at City Hall, for $2,353,828.

Instead of producing a bond for $75,000 for the completion of the contract, the Degnon Contracting Company offered $90,000 in city bonds. These are of the 3½ per cent. issue, and are selling at 87. While this is a much smaller percentage than has been asked in some other cases, the commission increased the withheld payments from 10 to 15 per cent. The money thus held back will not be paid to the contractors till the entire work is complete. Thus the commission is gaining an additional hold over the contractors, while it has fixed the amount of deposit at a much lower basis than on former construction contracts.

THE EXODUS TO NEW JERSEY.

Mayor Gaynor Told That It Is Due to a Lack of Transit Facilities.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in Queens by the publication of a letter addressed to Mayor Gaynor by George W. Pople of the Flushing Business Men's Association. In this letter Mr. Pople states that because of the high taxes, high rents and poor transportation facilities, on an average of 5,000 families a year are leaving New York City and moving to New Jersey.

Mr. Pople reviewed the transit situation in Queens and the heavy assessment under which the people are placed in anticipation of having a share in the rapid transit of the city.

Mayor Gaynor acknowledges receipt of the letter as follows:

> My Dear Mr. Pople: I thank you exceedingly for your letter. It contains many good suggestions. No doubt the city can build all of the subways, but it will take a long time, whereas if we get capital to come in with us we can build those immediately needed at once. Sincerely yours,
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Mr. Pople said the figures had been carefully compiled and that he had nothing to add beyond the fact that it was necessary to do something to stem the exodus now under way from New York City to New Jersey.

JAIL FOR DECEIVING GIRL.

And Ordered by a Jury to Pay Her $2,000.

Esther Klansky won't get Alexander Weinberg for a husband, but a jury in the City Court, sitting before Justice Alexander Finelite, did not take very long to decide yesterday that she should have $2,000 for his broken promises, and that, besides, he should be sent to Ludlow Street Prison and kept there until he had paid every cent of it. The breach of promise suit which Esther Klansky, aged 22, brought against Weinberg for breaking her heart after two years of sedulous courtship brought crowds of the girl's friends to court yesterday and the day before. Esther, who is little and black-haired, lived at that time in the boarding house of Mrs. Salbses at 252 East Third Street. She and her still younger sister were all alone in the city when they met Weinberg in 1909. Their parents had died twelve years before in Russia, and the two children had come to America to seek their fortune.

According to Esther's testimony, which was corroborated by the housekeeper and her daughter, Weinberg had come to the house every evening to see her. The good woman had taken Esther under her protection, and together they used to discuss the marriage that was to take place as soon as Weinberg got the job he expected. It was all decided at last that the wedding should be Jan. 1, 1911.

In order that they might start life in a well-furnished home, Esther turned over to him each week a large portion of her salary. And then, although the girl never forgot to give this to him, he steadily put off the marriage. Finally Esther became frightened and spoke out her mind. Weinberg answered her with a sneer.

"If you have been fool enough to give me money every week, why should I marry you?" he said, and left her. Suicide was the first thought of the girl, but her friends learned the truth in time and advised her of her legal redress.

HATCH ESTATE REFEREE.

Robert E. Deyo Appointed Following Application by Lord & Taylor.

Surrogate Fowler appointed Robert E. Deyo, an attorney of 111 Broadway, referee yesterday to take testimony in an acounting of the estate of Edward P. Hatch, for many years President of the dry goods house of Lord & Taylor. Mr. Hatch, who was 77 years old, died in Burlington, Vt., on Sept. 20, 1909.

The application for a referee was made by Gould & Wilkie of 2 Wall Street, attorneys for Lord & Taylor. The firm has some claim against the estate. A representative of Gould & Wilkie refused to discuss the case yesterday, when the appointment of the referee became known.

The executors are represented by the law firm of Spencer, Ordway & Wierum of 27 William Street. Samuel H. Ordway of that firm said yesterday that the principal objection to the accounting was based on an allegation that the executors had not sold certain securities to their best advantage. He said that the executors were confident that they could prove this allegation baseless.

Mr. Ordway declared that the estate would show a balance of $2,500,000 over all indebtedness.

Col. Gaston's Country Home Burned.

BARRE CENTER, Mass., Feb. 6.—Fire to-day destroyed the country home of Col. William A. Gaston, President of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston. The house was a rambling, old-fashioned structure, to which a large ballroom had been added recently. It is believed that the loss will exceed $35,000.

FRENCH DINERS CHEER FOR PEACE TREATIES

Ambassador Jusserand Praises Taft as a Statesman of Lofty Ideals.

EXAMPLE TO THE WORLD

When France, England, and America Are United by Treaty—Others Speak for Peace.

The Franco-American Societies of New York held a dinner at the Café Martin last night. More than 200 diners were present. Ex-Ambassador Henry White was toastmaster.

At the conclusion of Mr. White's speech, a woman garbed as Columbia appeared in the balcony, which was crowded with women guests and sang "The Star Spangled Banner." She appeared garbed as France at the conclusion of Ambassador Jules Jusserand's speech and sang the "Marseillaise" waving a French flag. Both songs were greeted by the diners standing, waving their napkins and cheering.

The dinner was given to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the signing of the treaty of alliance between France and the American Colonies, then engaged in the War of Independence. It was also in celebration of the recent negotiations for an arbitration treaty between France and the United States.

Mr. White spoke in French. His statement that there could never be a war between the United States and France was applauded. His reference to the treaties as a guarantee that perpetual peace would exist between the two countries was enthusiastically received.

Ambassador Jusserand also spoke in French. He praised the French societies of this city for their public spirit. He said that at the dinner of the French Bazaar recently he sat next to Mayor Gaynor and that the Mayor had expressed surprise at learning that there were so many Franco-American philanthropic organizations in existence. He said the Mayor also informed him that there were no French names on the police records of the city.

Ambassador Jusserand said that Feb. 6 would always be a unique date in history, because it was the first on which one Nation had ever come to the aid of another struggling for independence. The glory of giving this kind of assistance, he said, belonged to France alone. He declared that the treaty entered into on that date between the two countries was a model for all time, and that the friendship between the two peoples was remarkable for its truth and frankness.

He referred to the recent entente cordiale entered into between France and England, and declared that if the proposed treaty between the United States and France and that between this country and England should be ratified the world would see the spectacle of "three liberal Nations united in liberal treaties as an example to the whole civilized world."

The Ambassador praised President Taft for his efforts in behalf of the treaties and said that the President was a statesman of lofty ideals and humanitarian impulses.

Attorney General Wickersham followed Ambassador Jusserand, speaking in English. He said that "Never did a sovereign more deserve the appellation of 'Most Christian King' than Louis XVI." He also spoke of the great debt of gratitude the United States owed to France for the cession of Louisiana from Napoleon, and applause greeted his repetition of the words of Ambassador Livingston on the occasion of the signing of that treaty:

> On this day it will be said that the United States took its place among the great nations of the world.

Ex-United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, speaking of the referendum and the recall, said:

"Our country has reached its present position of peace, power, and happiness because trained statesmen have been deemed by our people better fitted to enact our laws, with the deliberation, the study and experience which are the characteristics of representative government, than to have them made by the passion of the hour and the voice of the agitator willing to fire the Temple of Ephesus if it may lead to power and fame for himself."

At the speakers' table were Lloyd Griscom, ex-Ambassador to Italy; Prof. Adolphe Cohn, George A. Davies, M. G. Dessaulniers, Prof. A. Georges, E. Lanel, French Consul General at New York; Macdougal Hawkes of the British Consulate General, J. Leroy White, Felix Levy, Consul G. Goiran, J. J. Wells, Lucien Jouvaud, and Jules Weber.

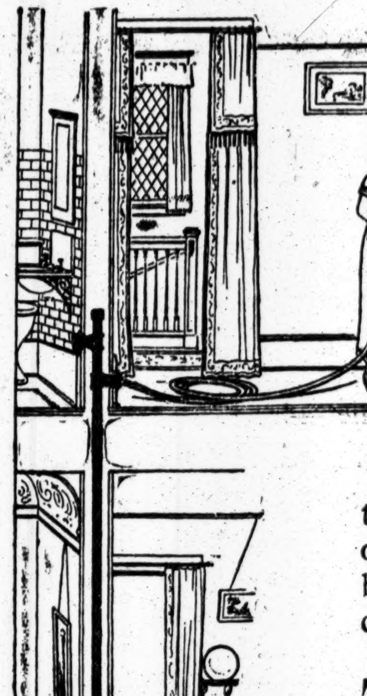
Dust is filth—don't stir it up!

AN EMINENT surgeon writes: "The United States War Department has banished the feather duster from all its offices and buildings because it is believed to favor the dissemination of diseases. Dust is filth—it enters our bodies through the mouth, nose, eyes and the pores of the skin. Get rid of dust—but don't stir it up with broom and duster, for as soon as it gets into the air it is beyond your control."

For several years past we have experimented, tested and demonstrated in over one hundred different kinds of buildings the practical working qualities of the ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner. Our great corps of inventors and highly skilled mechanicians in America and Europe have thus perfected and fully tried out under all conditions this ideal cleaning machine, and which we now offer broadly on the market everywhere, with our full guaranty, and backed by our high reputation. The ARCO WAND is a finished production, the first genuine, complete, permanent Vacuum Cleaner placed on the market.

ARCO WAND VACUUM CLEANER



Shows the way to put in the Arco Wand Vacuum Cleaner; simple and out of sight

THE ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner is a permanent, automatic machine set in cellar or on lower floor. Iron suction-pipes lead (between partitions or otherwise) to inlet openings at base of room or rooms on each floor. All that the housekeeper has to do is to slip the end of light rubber hose into nearest pipe opening, turn an electric button which instantly starts the machine to running in basement. With the dainty ARCO WAND at other end of hose she becomes a veritable household magician, as with a few gentle strokes of the magical wand passed over covered or uncovered floors, rugs, portieres, walls, ceilings, picture frames, chandeliers, cracks and crevices in tufted furniture, mattresses, in dresser drawers, under low furniture, etc., the steady, powerful suction draws into the tube-like, hollow wand all dirt, lint, threads, cobwebs, insect eggs, etc. All this dirt, trash and germ-laden air is drawn through the iron suction piping and down into the big, sealed dust bucket in basement.

IT becomes a fascinating pleasure for a child or an adult to run the graceful, magical ARCO WAND over anything to be cleaned and see the dust, lint, threads, cobwebs, etc., disappear in a jiffy, down the hungry, bottomless throat of the wand. The ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner is not a toy, not to be laboriously dragged from room to room, not to have its dust collections emptied into the rooms and the enfouled air passed back into the room to be rebreathed. Instead, the ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner puts dust—the destroyer—completely out of the living-rooms, and the air that has been freed from dust is exhausted. A pipe empties it into the outer air. The rooms are thus ventilated as well as cleaned—and the whole house is sanitarily sweetened and freshened. With utmost simplicity the machine and the few necessary iron air-suction pipes are put into old or new houses, flats, stores, offices, schools, churches, banks, theaters, libraries, hospitals, waiting rooms, hotels, etc. The sole running expense is just a little added to your monthly electricity bills.

If You Are Intemperate

you may not know how to remedy the harm drink is doing you. Alcoholism is primarily a stomach disease. The repeated introduction of alcohol into the stomach gradually destroys the digestive functions. The result is that the organs become totally incapable of performing their functions if alcoholic stimulation is withdrawn, and an irresistible craving is created. The alcohol so introduced is diffused through every part of the system. Muscles become weak and flabby, nerves lose their steadiness and reliability, the mind grows dull and inactive.

DICKENS DINERS HEAR HOW CHILD WON HIM

Kate Douglas Wiggin Couldn't Hear Novelist Lecture, but She Captured Him on a Train.

NEW MARKHAM POEM READ

Lovers of Dickens Feast on Centenary Eve in Room Decorated with the Scarlet He Loved.

Three hundred and fifty lovers of Dickens sat down to dinner together last evening at Delmonico's—last evening because it was the eve of the hundredth anniversary of the novelist's birth, and Delmonico's because it was at that restaurant, then further down Fifth Avenue, that Dickens was the guest of honor just before he sailed back to England nearly forty-four years ago. And this gathering on the eve of the centenary was different from the hundred and one big dinners that are held in New York each Winter, for it called forth people who cannot easily be induced to leave their homes for late hour festivities—elderly folk, many of them, white-haired men and women with lace shawls, who just had to be there to laugh and applaud, and perhaps to chuckle delightedly at intimate allusions to the Marchioness or Sairey Gamp.

In a room gay with the scarlet that Dickens loved they ate ices from boxes adorned with an unmistakable portrait of the immortal Pickwick, and later turned their chairs to face a speakers' table, over which were arched the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack, draped together above a painting of the man whose memory this dinner was to honor. They were there to hear Agnes Repplier tell of "Dickens in Our Daily Speech," and William Bayard Hale on "Dickens and the Spirit of Youth," to listen while Kate Douglas Wiggin spoke of "A Little Girl's Journey with Dickens," while Charles Rann Kennedy described "The Sentimentality of Dickens," and to laugh heartily as F. Hopkinson Smith reveled in the "Humor of Dickens."

Besides all this they were, the programme said, to hear Edwin Markham read an unpublished poem on "The World That Dickens Made," and it was not till it came time for Seth Low, the toastmaster, to rise and summon the poet that they learned that Mr. Markham was too ill to attend the dinner. It was Mrs. Charles Rann Kennedy, the Edith Wynne Matthison of the stage, who gave her exquisite voice to this task. This is the poem that she read:

THE WORLD THAT DICKENS MADE.

> When I saw those Venetian palaces, I thought that to leave one's hand upon the time, lastingly upon the time, with one tender touch for the mass of toiling people—a touch that nothing could obliterate—this would be to lift one's self above the dust of all the Doges in their graves.
> —CHARLES DICKENS.

I.

They came, a thronging and beloved band,
Charles Dickens, when you raised your wizard hand—
A thousand and a half a thousand more,
They came to wander on this earthly shore—
Your folk called into Time from No-Man's Land—
Beings not high and lordly and far away,
But fashioned of the stuff of every day—
A whimsey, motley race
Mixed of all the noble and the base—
Of seraph and of satyr, like the souls
That walk our world to their unreckoned goals.

II.

You called them into life a hurrying crowd;
Some came with nature's knack
Of joy, tasting of life with pleasant smack—
Some with their own wild sinning bent and bowed,
Each with his own hell loaded on his back.
And some came bending under the world's wrong,
Till men, your holy anger had made strong,
Rose up to smite for God the fatted greed
That grows and gorges on a brother's need.

III.

And some came young and innocent to move
Unharmed among the dark and vile, to prove
How valiant and invulnerable is truth—
How silver-armored in immortal youth.
Gently you lit us with the light of day
The unpublished virtues of the common way—
Showed how the old humanities endure
Down in the hard-pressed coverts of the poor.

IV.

You were the friend of the rejected ones,
The witness for the humble, for the sons
Of misery forgotten in their tears,
And trampled by the hoof-beats of the years.
You raised for human rights a world-heard cry
That still is sounding on from sky to sky.
Yet not with sword you came
To batter down the walls of sham and shame;
But with a wind of laughter, warm and strong,
You hurled away the props of ancient wrong.

V.

Your mimic world sweeps by upon its way,
A pageant on a lighted stage rehearsed,
A curious host now grieving and now gay—
Each in his little whirl of dust immersed—
Each caught into his ring of circumstance—
Some moved by law, others by whimsey chance.
Tragic, heroic, wise, grotesque, absurd,
They came and vanished at your sovereign word;
All foolish and fantastical as we Appear perhaps to angels as they see
Our crooked gait and gesture and grimace,
As we plunge on into the heated race,
Forgetting stars for pebbles of no worth—
Forgetting, too, our high immortal birth.

VI.

Wizard, you sent from your creative hand
Strange shapes to walk and peer in life's old land—
Shapes kin to those we jostle in the street,
Shapes friendly as the forms we daily greet;
They live and move among us as a part
Of all that share the memories of the heart.
And some of all their sorrow and their mirth
Will stay to cheer and chasten the old earth,
As long as there are any mortal tears
In men, or any laughter down the years.

VII.

And so Shakespeare looks back and smiles to see
Pickwick and Falstaff in one roistering glee,
Immortal now, beyond Time's hurt or harm,
Going down the world together, arm in arm;
Where Little Nell and sweet Miranda go,
Straying green fields with April flowers ablow;
Where Mistress Quickly by the evening lamp
Sits nodding and babbling on with Sairey Gamp;
Where dwarfed Dan Quilp and squatted Caliban—
Warped effigies of man—
Wrestle in wolfish hug,
Snarling and grinning in a savage tug.

VIII.

And so, Charles Dickens, whatsoe'er betide,
You have the master's smile; be satisfied.
Fare gladly on, content where'er you are Doing your happy work in any star.
Shakespeare looks back and thinks the look worth while:
Be satisfied, for you have won his smile!

When Kate Douglas Wiggin had finished the story she had to tell, and the diners had clapped till they were weary, they knew why it would never have done not to have had her name on the list of speakers and saw more clearly just why when she spoke at the Arnold Bennett dinner there was the suspicion of a sting in her tribute to the guest of honor, who had said harsh things of Charles Dickens.

For Kate Douglas Wiggin is of the ardent Dickens lovers, and she frankly confessed that sometimes in the sunlight of her idol the other writers, those "more flawless" Victorians, seemed a "little faded."

The Child Talked With Dickens.

For the "little girl who journeyed with Dickens" was Kate Douglas Wiggin herself in pinafore—a little slip of a girl, heartsick at not having been taken with the older folk to hear him read at Portland, Me., and filled with a reverent awe when she found herself on the same train the next day with this man who had written the books that were part of her very existence.

She said she never knew how she did it, but, as though drawn, she slipped away from her mother and found a seat in the same coach with Dickens, and then, when the seat next him was vacated for a moment, she plumped into it. There she sat, with her heart in her mouth, but glad for all that that her bonnet was tied with new ribbons of blue. For a time he did not notice her, and then, as he turned from the window, she heard his surprised tones:

"God bless my soul, how did you come here?"

Then it all came out, how much she would have cared to have heard him read the night before, how she had read and read all his books, except the missing one that her mother was to buy that day in Boston.

"And have you really read those long, thick books?" Charles Dickens asked, his eyes wide as he looked at the wisp of an enthusiast beside him. Some of them three and some four times, she eagerly volunteered, but then, goaded by her New England conscience, she added that she had skipped some of the "long, dull parts."

"Ah, the long, dull parts! I don't hear enough about those"—and out came his notebook, while he cross-questioned the critic in hair ribbons, who, as she said in her recital, delivered "infant stabs, under the impression that they were bouquets."

Dickens's Arm Around Her.

Then he put his arm about her, told her he was glad she liked Copperfield the best, for so did he, and how much he "cared" that she had missed the reading in Portland. Finally they both came to earth when he asked if she were traveling alone.

"I have a mother, but I forgot her," the child faltered, and one who was on that train told the little girl afterward that Dickens cried out:

"Forgot your mother? My dear little person, you are a past mistress in the art of flattery."

He kissed her as they parted on the station platform, and that ride Kate Douglas Wiggin will never forget.

Agnes Repplier spoke sadly of the "supercilious younger generation who have no idea what they are losing by not reading Dickens."

"I would rejoice," she said, "to agree with Andrew Lang, who declared that he was almost reconciled to education when he realized that every English-speaking child who learns his letters makes one more reader of Dickens, but it is most disconcerting to find the rising generation too busy with Bernard Shaw and Mr. Wells to know 'Bleak House' and 'David Copperfield.' When we weave his words and people into our speech these young people haven't the faintest idea what we are talking about. It is almost as bad as venturing on some Biblical allusion."

And she then told of one woman who the other day enriched a chance remark with a flavor of Sairey Gamp, only to be suspected by one young hearer of quoting "that Josh Billings," and by another of borrowing from "The Playboy of the Western World."

Answers Caricature Charge.

Walter Bayard Hale, who defined himself as a "humble sort of contributing editor," spoke of the novelist who when he became a man "did not put away childish things." He answered the charge that Dickens was a caricaturist by denying that it is a charge, and Mr. Kennedy answered the accusation of sentimentality by crying out:

"Some of us have hearts and blood as well as heads. The entire universe isn't made up of intellectuals, business men, and empire builders, and thank God for it!"

F. Hopkinson Smith, who spoke on "The Humor of Dickens," made a few preliminary remarks on Arnold Bennett's recent unfavorable criticism on the technique of Dickens. Mr. Smith did not mention Mr. Bennett by name, but he said of him:

"How dare any man say that another man has or has not reached a certain standard of art until time has proved it so? The greatest art is that which has pleased the greatest number of people for the greatest length of time, and knowing what Dickens is and has been to so many thousands of people, he must indeed be a bold man who will say that he has not reached a very high standard of art."

Mr. Smith then read a portion of a chapter from Pickwick and the story of the meeting of the Brick Lane Chapter of the Ebenezer Junction Temperance Society where Tony and Sam Weller and Stiggins, the red-nosed man, meet.

At the close of the dinner Sydney Valentine, the English actor, read a chapter from David Copperfield, the one called "Peggoty Hears the News that Emily's Run Away."

The diners sat down to a menu that was headed by that classic encouragement of Sam Weller's:

> And a very good notion of a lunch it is. Now, gentlemen, fall on, as the English said to the French when they fixed baggi-nets.

Drink Toast to Dickens.

And before all this speaking began the diners stood and drank a silent toast to the memory of Charles Dickens, for that is the custom at any dinner given, as was last evening's, by a branch of the Dickens Fellowship.

Among those present were David A. Ansbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper Benedict, Miss Lucy M. Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. John I. D. Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Miss Mary B. The instructive character of the articles in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th edition, may be gathered from a glance at some of the FULL-PAGE PLATES which accompany them.

THE new Encyclopaedia Brittanica is a vast treasury of human knowledge, a repository of modern thought, learning and achievement, and as such it covers the whole field of the world's activities, the text alone comprising some 44,000,000 words, the largest body of information ever included in one work. While editors and contributors have collaborated fully to exploit the value of illustration as a means (and in some cases it is the only means) of conveying information, pictures, as such, do not occur. In a large number of cases it was found that the purpose for which illustrations are properly employed could best be achieved by line drawings, of a more or less diagrammatic character, in the text. Of these there are some 7,000.

But in addition there are more than 400 full-page plates (many in colour, with from 2 to 23 printings) the originals of which are in great museums, in private collections, or were gathered by the editors from contributors on scientific subjects, and which have been here reproduced with a fidelity only to be achieved by photography.

Painting, Sculpture, Architecture

As might be supposed, the greater number of such plates represent objects of art, and the summary which follows will suggest the treatment afforded in the new edition both to the fine and the applied arts. For example, in the new edition Professor Baldwin Brown was at liberty to choose for reproduction such characteristic pictures as would illustrate the arguments of his article, Painting (82,875 words). The ten plates which accompany this article give over 30 examples. The article, Miniatures, again, by Dr. G. C. Williamson, is illustrated by reproductions of 19 examples from the collections of King George V., the Duke of Portland, Mr. Pierpont Morgan, and others. Illuminated Manuscripts, by Sir E. Maunde Thompson, has four plates showing 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th century examples, besides one which reproduces in colours a page from the wonderful Lindisfarne Gospel, of which the date is about the beginning of the 8th century. Sculpture, an article of 45,000 words by Mr. M. H. Spielmann and others, gains incalculably from the reproductions of 41 examples, drawn from all ages and many countries.

A like service is performed in connection with Architecture (106,700 words, 114 cuts) by the 16 plates which accompany the article. The whole subject of architecture was in the hands of Mr. Phene Spiers, who, in a carefully planned series of some 600 articles (varying in length from 2,000 words in Arch, Column, Capital to two or three hundred words in Entablature, Gable, Frieze), supplements in every direction the main article, while affording the information desired by the inquirer who looks up this or that term in architecture.

A separate article of 4,500 words, under the heading House, traces the development of domestic architecture from the earliest Egyptian models to the flat of to-day. The plates which accompany this article show beautiful examples of timbered, Renaissance and 18th century houses. Other architectural articles which are illustrated by plates are Vault, Amphitheatre, Aqueduct, Triumphal Arch.

The Arts of Certain Nations

While the articles upon Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, and upon applied arts, such as Ceramics or Embroidery, naturally pursue their several subjects among all people, ancient and modern, the arts of certain nations and periods call for independent treatment. Thus Professor Flinders Petrie contributes a section to the article Egypt (165,000 words, 112 text cuts) dealing with the arts, and illustrated with 48 examples, arranged in four plates according to their periods. Similar illustrations accompany the article Babylonia and Assyria by Professor Sayce, Mr. L. W. King of the British Museum, and Professor Jastrow of the University of Pennsylvania. Of all the archaeological discoveries which have been made since the 9th edition appeared, none are more significant than those connected with the labours of Professor Arthur Evans and Dr. D. G. Hogarth in Crete. Dr. Hogarth accompanies his article, Aegean Civilization, with four plates exhibiting graphic and plastic arts as illustrated by finds at Cnossus, while Professor Evans adds to his article Crete some remarkable views of the actual site where the finds were made.

Ancient Art

Greek Art (33,225 words) by Professor Percy Gardner, and Roman Art (17,525 words) by Mr. H. Stuart-Jones, have many plates. The illustrations accompanying the latter article show portrait heads; bas-reliefs of the times of Augustus, Titus, Caracalla, Antoninus, Constantine; Pompeian and Christian mosaics and frescoes; cameos and cups. Mr. Lethaby's article Byzantine Art is illustrated by architectural examples from Constantinople, Athens, Delphi, Ravenna, Venice.

Chinese paintings from the 4th to the 15th century, and vessels dating from 1200 B. C. to 1700 A. D., are reproduced in the section contributed by Mr. Laurence Binyon to the article China (113,000 words). Mr. Binyon also selected material for the eight plates accompanying the article Japan (188,000 words) by Captain Brinkley. These show paintings by Kanaoka, Kano Motonobu, Sesshiu, Korin, Ganku, and others; sculptures of the 7th, 12th, and 13th centuries; famous bronzes, lacquer work and pottery.

Of extraordinary interest are the five plates which accompany the article Central America, and illustrate the arts of the central portion of this continent before the advent of Europeans. The materials for these plates were selected by the greatest authority on the subject, Dr. Walter Lehmann, partly from unpublished photographs taken in the course of his recent investigations in Central America. Here, too, may be mentioned the plates accompanying the article Archaeology (16,275 words), and showing engravings and paintings of animals done in the cave period. Some authorities assert that the wall paintings here reproduced from the cave of Altamira in Spain are 50,000 years old.

Furniture, Embroidery, Lace

It was characteristic of the limitations exhibited by the 9th edition that it dealt nowhere with Furniture—a subject in the treatment of which illustrations serve the most useful purpose. It should be possible to learn, from the pages of an encyclopaedia, the features which distinguish a Charles II chair from a Queen Anne chair, a Chippendale chair from one in the style of Hepplewhite or Sheraton. These are things that cannot adequately be discribed in words, even by so interesting a writer as Mr. Penderel Brodhurst, who contributes the main article Furniture to the new edition, and further deals with the subject under some 90 headings, such as Chair, Sideboard, Bureau. But this essential information is given in one of the plates to "Furniture," which reproduces 15 specimens, ranging from a Venetian folding chair of the 16th century to a First Empire chair once in the possession of the Napoleon family. The indications as to styles and periods are further developed in the remaining plates which reproduce typical tables, coffers, bureaux, book-cases, beds—English and French.

The German, Italian, Flemish, French and Arabian specimens shown in the four plates to the article Woodcarving, and a similar range of examples afforded by the six plates to Embroidery, the four plates to Tapestry, the six plates to Lace, the two plates to Textile Printing and the four plates to Carpet, perform an instructive purpose of the highest value. Space forbids more than a mention of the plates accompanying the articles Ceramics (10 plates, of which 6 are reproduced in colours), Plate, Enamels, Drinking Vessels, Glass, Gems, Numismatics, Photography, Ordnance, Clouds, Bible, etc.

While the arts claim the greater number of plates to be found in the work, such illustrations are also employed to assist the exposition of other subjects. Indeed, the largest number of plates attached to any one subject illustrate Sir Philip Watts's great article Ship (81,000 words), which has 28 plates showing 94 examples. Important, again, are the remarkable telephotographs reproduced in illustration of the articles Sun, Moon, Planet, Comet, Nebula, Spectroheliograph (by Mr. George E. Hale); and the micro-photographs exhibiting morbid states of blood and tissues in the articles Pathology, Neuropathology, Parasitic Diseases, and minute structures in the articles Petrology, Alloys, Fibres. Instructive, also—essential, indeed—are the reproductions of photographs showing different breeds in illustration of such articles as Cattle, Horse, Sheep, Dog, Cat, and the coloured plates accompanying the articles Flags, Uniforms, (historical and modern, representing all nations), Orders of Knighthood, Robes, Medals, and Decorations. It is believed that the article contributed under the last heading by the late Mr. Laurence Swinburne represents the first authoritative and connected account of the subject.

THE NEW ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA [11th Edition]

28 Vols. and Index.

The new 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is offered by the Press of the University of Cambridge as a fresh survey of the practical and useful, no less than of the learned and recondite things of life. Nothing is alien to it that interests or concerns the members of a civilized community, and it contains the largest body of information to be found in one work. At once exhaustive and comprehensive in the fullest sense of these terms, this great repository of human knowledge comprises 40,000 articles, 44,000,000 words, 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full page plates, and 569 maps. It is of even date, 1910, throughout, the entire text having remained under editorial control until the whole was released to the printer. Among the 1,500 scholars, specialist authorities, and practical experts of 21 countries who wrote its articles were included the Chancellors, Presidents, Professors and Lecturers of 81 Universities or Foundations of Learning. 202 of the contributors were Americans. The overhead editorial cost of production was $1,500,000, which was disbursed before a single volume was printed for sale.

A BOOK FOR EVERYBODY, the new 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is offered at a price and on terms which bring it WITHIN THE REACH OF EVERYBODY. For Prospectus, particulars of the present special offer, etc., write (or if convenient call on)

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

Rug Discords

People who buy the highest priced rugs are nearly always the MOST anxious to get expert opinion.

They not infrequently employ a professional decorator to assist in the selection.

Why should not the intending purchaser of a MEDIUM PRICED RUG seek expert advice?

Especially when it is courteously and freely given?

A rug, if it cost but $75 or $100, may be selected to so perfectly fit its surroundings—including the other rugs in the house—that it will accomplish as much in the general scheme of decoration as a $1,000 rug.

Wild's Orientals, being selected INDIVIDUALLY, furnish a greater variety of decorative possibilities than any other collection in the country.

To select a series of rugs of different weaves and sizes to fit a suite of inter-communicating rooms—each rug appropriate to the character of its particular room, yet the color tones of all harmonizing perfectly, is always one of the puzzles of the rug business.

Discord in such an arrangement means a most disappointing effect.

You are not getting the FULL VALUE of your rugs, no matter what their quality may be.

This phase of supplying rugs has been intelligently considered in the selection of Wild's Orientals.

The versatility of this collection in the matter of "filling in" a series is acknowledged by the leading decorators and architects of this and other cities.

When a new house is to be furnished, or a large apartment with its foyer hall and sweep of reception and drawing rooms, this feature is of prime importance.

We are always pleased to send a competent expert to make a survey of the room or rooms, whether one or a dozen rugs are desired.

This service is rendered without charge and involves no obligation to purchase.

It invariably results, however, in ADDED SATISFACTION to the customer and, necessarily, to ourselves.

BOY OF 71 SAVES HILL FOR COASTERS

He's the Village Blacksmith, His Name Is Friend, and He Surely Is the Friend of Youth.

FOILS MAN WHO GREW UP

Leases Sheepshead Bay's Only Sliding Place and Turns It Over to the Kids—He's One of 'Em Now.

Out of the suburbs of Brooklyn there came yesterday a Winter's tale appealing to the hearts of all boys who are real boys, a tale of a merry old man who was himself a boy, in the long ago, and who had not forgotten. Down at Sheepshead Bay last night the folks were saying that August Friend really had never recovered from the attack of boyhood he had early in life and that he was still "one of der fellers."

It's one thing for a chap to live up in the Berkshires or the Ramapos or some such place, where he can have his pick of any number of long slopes to coast on, with none to say him nay; but it's an entirely different thing when a fellow's lot is cast in the lowlands of Sheepshead Bay and there is only one hill, and that a pathetically little one, and on private grounds. That's just the way it was with the boys of Sheepshead when the snow came this Winter and they gleefully got out their gayly painted prides on runners.

Neighbor Had Complained.

It seems that at the foot of the hill, at Neck and Shore Roads, lives William Thompson. He has grown up and isn't a boy any more, like Mr. Friend, who lives near the top of the hill. It isn't known in Sheepshead whether Mr. Thompson was given to coasting when he was a lad, but anyhow he objected to such a thing on the hill by his house. He said his wife was nervous and the shouts of the coasters annoyed her. So he told the boys they would have to go somewhere else to coast. Now, that was easy enough to say, but how could it be done, with not another hill around? Of course, it couldn't be done, so some way had to be thought out to circumvent, which means get around, or fool, Mr. Thompson.

"Reddy" Burke, who has an eagle eye, was picked to "lay bones," that is to watch out for Mr. Thompson the first afternoon. Every time Mr. Thompson appeared "Reddy" would yell "cheese it, fellers," and the "fellers" would stop coasting. But the next day a big policeman, supported by Mr. Thompson, appeared, and there was "nuttin' doin,'" as "Reddy" disgustedly expressed it. So it was for several days and only the most daring of "der bunch" would attempt to take a slide.

Mr. Friend looked upon all this—the objections of neighbor Thompson and the discouraging presence of the policeman—with growing disapproval. The boy in him was beginning to appeal.

Mr. Friend is seventy-one years old, or young, as it may be taken. He is a blacksmith and many times he stood outside his smithy watching the boys being shooed away from their precious hill. At last the boy in him would stand it no longer. Taking off his leather apron the smith trudged determinedly to the Sheepshead Bay Police Station. He tried to have the police guard withdrawn from the hill. His plea was earnest, but it failed. Mr. Friend was disappointed, but not beaten. Yesterday he went to the office of a real estate agent in Coney Island Avenue.

"I would like to lease that hill at Neck and Shore Roads," he announced. "How much do you want for it for sixty days;"

The puzzled agent told him and the deal was made.

When Mr. Friend got back to the hill the boys were standing around with their idle sleds, wrathfully eyeing the policeman.

"Now, you fellows," said the blacksmith, "I'm the boss of this hill for sixty days. "I'm going to sub-lease it in consideration of one good cheer, here given, to all you chaps and you can do your darndest with it. Go ahead."

The boys, wild with delight, paid for the sub-lease over and over again. Their yells brought the policeman up. Mr. Friend smiled. He exhibited his lease.

"I am the lessee of this hill now, officer," said he, "and these youngsters are the sub-tenants. They can coast on it to their heart's content."

The policeman went to the station and reported. He did not come back.

"Just a minute boys," said the triumphant blacksmith, to his young friends. "To close this deal between you and me you shall give me the first ride down the hill under the lease."

There was almost a fight over the question of who should take the lad of seventy and one years down. He finally got on a bob and steered it to the bottom, with a sprawled out, sliding, yelling crew of delighted small boys following.

"I think I'll take a slide or two down with the kids every evening," said the jolly blacksmith yesterday afternoon. "I was a boy once. My memory's pretty clear about it. Blamed if I don't think I'm one still. I'm starting to build those kids a big bob, one that'll carry a dozen or so of them. You can bet we fellows will hold on to this hill until the Fourth of July, if the snow lasts that long."

ACTRESS WED IN SECRET.

Mrs. Cohan's Niece, Marjorie Rhodes, Weds Rochester Merchant.

Mrs. Jerry J. Cohan learned last Monday that her niece, Marjorie Rhodes, had been married at All Saints' Church on Jan. 22 to James Troup, a merchant of Rochester. The ceremony was performed by Father Burke.

MR. LHEVINNE'S RECITAL.

The Russian Pianist Appears Alone for the First Time This Season.

Josef Lhévinne, the Russian pianist, who had hitherto been heard only in concerts with orchestra in New York on his present visit to this country, gave a recital yesterday afternoon at which a large audience was present. His prevailing mood at this recital seemed to be somewhat reflective, even elegiac, and he did not often find the note of passion or of eloquence.

The qualities of his playing are well known here now, but he seems to devote less attention to the solution of technical problems than was his wont on previous visits, and to make less prominent his technical facility and the bigness of his tone, although it never could be said that he had the virtuoso's love of display. He is a conscientious and unpretending artist; he is wholly absorbed in the music he is playing, and there is no suggestion in his performance of personal display, of any appeal to the wonder of the unthinking. And yet it does not seem that he has gained greatly in imagination, in poetical feeling. His readings give evidence of being carefully thought out, but not much of being inspired by any high flight of imagination or fired by contagious enthusiasm. They are all commendably planned, well laid out in detail, and executed with abundant command of all the mechanism of piano playing. They are sincere, and are in many ways musical, and they command respect.

Such was his performance of Beethoven's sonata in A, Op. 101; a sonata overflowing in rich and delicate fancy, though it is not much affected by pianists, because it gives little scope for bravura and because much of its beauty lies below the surface. His performance was reserved in feeling, finely graduated in nuance; but he did not lay bare all the beauties and all the vitality of the work. There was much delicate charm in his playing of a "Pastoral Variée," by Mozart—what, exactly, is this "Pastoral Variée," and is it Mozart untouched by a modern hand?—and the right touch of aerial fleetness in Mendelssohn's E major presto. Of his Chopin numbers he was most successful in the F sharp minor Polonaise, played with pregnant rhythmic power and brilliancy; and the B minor Etude from Op. 25, a magnificent reproduction of its spirit.

Mr. Lhévinne closed with Schumann's "Carnival." He puts into his playing of this more of its teeming fancy, animation, tenderness, and sentiment than he used to; but there is still something more for him to find in it, fine as his presentation of many of the movements is.

KLAW BACK FROM EUROPE.

Brings Several Musical Plays, Including "The Little French Cafe."

Marc Klaw of the firm of Klaw & Erlanger returned yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria from a trip to Europe, where he went to see the Kino-Plasticon moving pictures, which give the impression of real people moving about on the stage. Mr. Klaw said that after seeing the pictures in Berlin he declined to buy the American rights for $25,000.

Mr. Klaw said that he saw "The Marriage Market," in Budapest, the scenes of which are laid in California, and in Vienna he witnessed a performance of Franz Lehar's new opera, "Eva," which will be produced here next season by Klaw & Erlanger. Another musical play obtained for America by Mr. Klaw was "The Little French Café," by Bernard French, which will also be produced next season, he said.

Debussy's Music for the First Time.

Kurt Schindler, the conductor of the MacDowell Chorus, announces that the entire fifth act of d'Annunzio's "Le Martyre de St. Sebastien," with Debussy's music will have its first performance anywhere at the next concert of the MacDowell Chorus, when that work is to form the larger part of the programme, on Feb. 12. It appears that when "Le Martyre de St. Sebastien" was given at the Châtelet in Paris last June its great length necessitated the omission of the last act, and this act has not since been performed. It thus falls to the lot of the MacDowell Chorus to be the first to make known the important fragment of Debussy's music.

Theatre Party for Miss Robbins.

Mrs. John W. Minturn gave a theatre party and supper last night, followed by informal dancing, for her sister, Miss Julia Robbins, the débutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian W. Robbins. After seeing Eddie Foy the guests, who numbered about twenty-four, were taken to the Ritz-Carlton for supper, and afterward about twenty additional guests came in for informal dancing. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Minturn and Miss Robbins, the party included, among others, the Misses Marion Hollins, Josephine Nicoll, Maud Kennedy, Angelica Brown, Mary Rathbone, Leonie Burrill, T. Markoe Robertson, Newton Rae, R. Thornton Wilson, Wistar Kendall, Elliot Cowdin, 2d; Reginald Waterbury, Richard Whitney, Charles Lanier, Marshall Russell, Robert T. Breese, and Frederick Frelinghuysen.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

William Raymond has been engaged by Charles Frohman for Billie Burke's company in "The Runaway," and will join the organization in St. Louis next week.

A version of "Oliver Twist" for vaudeville purposes has been written by Frank Ferguson and will be played by Jane Courthrope and company. There will be two scenes, Fagin's Den and London Bridge, and eight characters will be required.

Maurice Campbell announced yesterday that Henretta Crosman would continue to play "The Real Thing" for two more years, because of the success she has had on tour.

To-day the afternoon and evening performances at the Kinemacolor Theatre will be attended by most of the Canadian societies of the city. As a special feature, views of a trip from Liverpool to Canada and across the continent by the Governmental Transcontinental Railroad will be shown.

Politicians Join the Poor of His District in Paying Tribute to His Memory.

BODY BURIED IN CALVARY

Legislative Committee of 100 Attends the Funeral and the Amen Corner Sends a Wreath.

The funeral of the late Senator Thomas F. Grady, which took place from the Senator's home at 151 East Thirtieth Street yesterday, was one of the largest seen here in years and was remarkable because of the representative class of citizens who attended. St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church in Twenty-eighth Street near Third Avenue, was not half large enough to hold the 5,000 or more mourners. The crowd filled the entire block between Lexington and Third Avenues and overflowed into adjoining streets.

Tammany Hall for two generations was represented, for Mr. Grady had been active in the organization's affairs all his life, and many who have been out of politics for years and whose names are mere memories to braves of to-day, knew "Tom" as boy and man and remembered yesterday that "Tom" never forgot them.

Among these old-timers was Tommy Shields, who was a power in the old Seventh Ward when John Kelly was the Big Chief of Fourteenth Street. Feeble and old he tottered into the Grady home and gazed with moist eyes upon the face of his old friend. Another was W. P. Kork, who was Alderman in 1884, and who played with Grady when both were boys. Then there was John R. Voorhis, Superintendent of Elections, although he is over seventy, and Michael T. Daly, former Commissioner of Public Works when Richard Croker was Boss.

About everybody of importance in the Tammany organization was there and with them mingled many prominent Republicans, including Timothy L. Woodruff, M. Linn Bruce and Justice Alfred R. Page.

Members of the State Senate and Assembly, 100 strong, attended in a body, coming down from Albany on an early train for the purpose.

At the home of the late Senator, where the body lay in state before it was taken to the church, a steady stream of people filed past the casket, which was placed in the centre of a room that was filled almost to the ceiling with flowers. A solemn requiem mass was sung in St. Stephen's Church, which Senator Grady had attended all his life. Following the custom of the Church, no sermon or eulogy was said.

The honorary pall bearers were Senators Edgar T. Brackett, Republican, of Saratoga, and Robert F. Wagner, who succeeded Senator Grady as Senate leader; Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., representing the Republicans in the Assembly, and Alfred E. Smith, representing the Democrats, and these members of the Democratic City Executive Committee and Tammany Society: Thomas F. McAvoy, former Sheriff Thomas Foley, Sol Lichtenstein, Col. Charles Judson, Patrick A. McManus, Dr. Edward Donlin, James E. McEntee, and Justice Edward B. La Fetra.

Following them came the legislative members, Executive Committee members of the Columbian Society, and delegations of the National Democratic Club and the Tammany Central Club. The members of the Legislature were seated on the right of the centre aisle of the church and members of the judiciary and other organizations on the left. A great many at the end of the line had to stand.

The requiem mass and services were conducted by priests who had long been the friends of Senator Grady, and other friends of his of the clergy were in the sanctuary during the service. The Rev. Joseph P. Donahue of St. Stephen's celebrated the mass, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Henry P. Tracy, deacon; the Rev. Edward M. Smith, sub-deacon; the Rev. James Fogarty, master of ceremonies, all of St. Stephen's, and in the sanctuary were Mgrs. Lavelle, Edwards, McMahon, and Mooney; Auxiliary Bishop Thomas F. Cusack, the Rev. Dr. John P. Chidwick, and the Rev. John J. McCabe of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

After the services the body was taken to Cavalry Cemetery, the pallbearers accompanying the body to the grave. A large wagon carried the flowers. Among the conspicuous wreaths was one sent by a committee consisting of Thomas Smith, T. O. McGill, Louis Siebold and William Leary, representing the Amen Corner.

Elections Board Wins.

Supreme Court Justice Davis dismissed yesterday the petition of Frederick Rohde, a Staten Island Postmaster, for an order removing the present Board of Elections from office. Mr. Rohde said that in making up the board the counties of Queens and Richmond were neglected and that only New York and Kings Counties had representatives. In denying the application Justice Gerard said that no good and endless confusion would result from declaring the board illegally constituted.

A HOSPITAL FUND CONCERT.

New York Symphony Orchestra with Josef Hofmann at Carnegie.

The New York Symphony Society gave a concert last evening at Carnegie Hall to raise a fund to endow a hospital bed in memory of the late Samuel S. Sanford. Mr. Sanford was a member of the musical faculty at Yale, and was the President of the Symphony Society until his death, and the hospital bed is to be for the use of members of the orchestra. It was evident from the numbers of the audience that the fund must have benefited largely from the proceeds of the concert. The sum of $4,500 was assured before the opening of the box office. Musically the affair was wholly worthy of the man in whose remembrance it was given and of the object and justified the great interest that was manifested in it.

The orchestra sounded to better advantage than it can in its usual habitat, the Century Theatre. The orchestra numbers included Goldmark's overture to "Sakuntala," the adagio from Elgar's first sypmphony and the finale from Rimsky Korsakoff's symphonic poem, "Scheherazade," which has recently figured on the programmes of the society's regular concerts.

The greatest distinction of the concert, however, came from the participation in it of Mr. Josef Hofmann, who played in memory of his old friend, Prof. Sanford, in such a manner as he has rarely played here before, the D minor piano conecrto of Rubinstein, with unexampled fire and noble eloquence transfiguring the music and arousing the audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. He was recalled again and again, and added first Rubinstein's "Mélodie" in F, then Rachmaninoff's Prelude in G minor.

BACK ON THE ELIGIBLE LIST.

Justice Gerard Orders Civil Service Board to Restore Four Names.

Supreme Court Justice Gerard ordered the Municipal Civil Service Commission yesterday to place the names of four candidates for patrolmen on the eligible list.

The men, Luke Smith, Frederick Price, Emil von Berthold, and Frederick K. Manke, qualified by passing the mental and physical examinations before last May. The next eligible list was not made up until September. Menatime the four men had passed the age of 30 years. On the ground that the law provides that no one more than 30 years old may be appointed to the police force, the commission omitted their names.

In ordering their names restored, Justice Gerard calls attention to the fact that such men might be discriminated against by holding up the formulation of the eligible list.

M'FARLAND EASILY OUTPOINTS BURNS

West Side Boxer Makes Good Finish in Ten-Round Bout at Fairmont A. C.

Packey McFarland of Chicago outpointed Kid Burns, the local boxer, in a bout that went the ten rounds at the Fairmont A. C., last night. McFarland won with considerable to spare, as he clearly outpointed the New Yorker practically all the way but he left the ring with a mark of the battle that will not erase for some time to come. Burns proved a harder opponent for McFarland than had been generally expected and he finished up by completely closing Packey's left eye. The punch that did the trick was in the ninth round and it furnished Burns with the confidence that had been so lacking in the earlier rounds. As a result Burns finished in a blaze of glory and gave McFarland a great battle of give-and-take in the closing chapter. But it was far from enough to wipe out the big lead which Packey had piled up.

Burns proved an adept at assimulating punishment. He took every thing that Packey could send in, and failed to go to the canvas during the bout. His face was badly swollen and was cut in two or three places at the close of the bout. Packey tore in during the latter rounds, intent on scoring a knock-out but the best he could do was to shake Burns up.

HOWARD AND HICKEY DRAW.

Fast Contest Between Lightweights at Brown's Gymnasium.

Willie Howard of Brooklyn and Young Hickey, two rugged lightweights, fought through ten slam-bang rounds last night at Brown's Gymnasium A. A. without either being able to gain a decision. Both boys were evenly matched and used the same style of work, and although the affair was fast, it did not allow either boy to show to advantage. In nearly every round as the bell sounded they rushed out to the centre of the ring, and, fighting toe to toe, exchanged hard body punches without a letup for long periods.

The first three rounds ended on even terms, with both boxers doing plenty of forcing. Hickey several times scored with straight left jabs to Howard's face, doing little damage, while the Brooklynite had the better of the work at close range by ripping over hard, short uppercuts. Hickey was the first to gain a lead, when, in the fourth round, he carried all the attack to Howard and frequently beat him to the blows, landing often to the body and then crossing his right to the face.

They again fell back to even terms in the fifth and sixth rounds, when Howard met the attack of his opponent and always gave in return for blows received. In these two rounds both boys landed several telling blows, but both, being rugged and strong, were able to ward off their effects.

Howard showed a good flash in the seventh and had his man on the receiving end nearly all the time the boys were in action. He caught Hickey on the ropes with a left uppercut on the ribs and then followed it up with light left jabs.

The eighth, ninth, and final sessions were also even affairs, and although Hickey did the best scoring his blows lacked the strength to have effect on the rugged Brooklynite. In the ninth he jabbed Howard several times and then shot over a few rights to the stomach, but none of the blows had any force. They both fought nip and tuck in the last round, standing in the centre of the ring with their heads locked and pounded away at the body, but the final bell found both strong and willing to mix.

Frenchman Outpoints Coster.

Louis De Pontheiu, the French lightweight, outpointed "Joe" Coster last night in a ten-round bout at the Royale Athletic Club of Brooklyn. Coster exhibited plenty of cleverness, but the rugged work and hard body punches of the Frenchman tired him considerably before the end. Coster gained the honors in but two of the rounds, three were about even, and the other five all in favor of Pontheiu. The Frenchman constantly worked to close quarters with Coster, and landed many hard blows to the stomach and ribs, which always slowed the Brooklynite up. In the eighth round Coster was staggered with a hard right to the jaw, and went over on the ropes, where he managed to hang on until the end of the round. In the last session Coster made a hard effort to come back and even up the score, but the long lead of the Frenchman was too much for him to overcome.

Gibbons vs. Cashman To-night.

Mike Gibbons of St. Paul will have a chance to-night to show whether or not he was overrated by New York critics after his bouts with Willie Lewis and Walter Coffey. In his bout with Jack Denning, Gibbons did not show the wonderful cleverness expected of him, and the cry was immediately raised that he had been overrated. To-night Gibbons clashes with Mike Cashman, New York's most sensational youngster, at the Empire A. C. Cashman lacks the experience of the Western boxer, but he possesses a fair amount of cleverness, a knockout punch, and much ruggedness. It will be Cashman's first big bout in high-class boxing society, and it is attracting considerable attention.

May Repeal Nevada's Boxing Law.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 6.—Friends of Gov. Oddie said to-night he is considering asking a repeal of the law licensing prize fighters, if he calls a special session of the Nevada Legislature. The Governor had received complaints from Elko County against the proposed Johnson-Flynn fight.

Henry Knocks Out Uvanni.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Kid Henry of Troy scored a clean knockout over Joe Uvanni of Glens Falls in the fourth round of a ten-round bout to-night. Uvanni was knocked down three times before he was put away with a left to the jaw.

Stagg Wins by Big Margin.

In a ten-round bout at the Mount Vernon Sporting Club last night, Tommy Stagg of this city fought Shamus O'Brien of Yonkers. It was Stagg's fight by a big margin.

Caledonian's Curling Victory.

Scotia's national game, curling, was seen last night under rather unusual auspices at Dunwoodie, where two rinks of the Caledonians lined up against teams of the Dunwoodie Country Club, with the result in favor of the visitors by 32 to 25. The feature of the match was the appearance of the four Archibalds in the second rink, in which they defeated the rink skipped by T. H. McLoughlin by 22 to 9. Dunwoodie's first four won by a score of 16 to 10. The line-up:

RINK NO. 1.

DUNWOODIE C. C.	CALEDONIANS.
W. R. Moon,	G. Beveridge,
F. A. Peene,	R. MacFie,
W. Macfarland,	T. Wigley,

Jack Gleason to Show Dogs.

The work of tabulating nearly 3,000 entries for the thirty-sixth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club at the New Grand Central Palace, Feb. 20 to 23, is being rapidly carried on under the supervision of James Mortimer, the Secretary and Superintendent of the club, and a staff of clerks. Since the date of closing the entries several important additions have been made in the list from the West, where the entries were mailed before the time of closing. Among the prominent exhibitors are W. Stetheimer and Jack Gleason of San Francisco. The latter will exhibit two champions which have never been benched in the East.

BROWN DEFEATS CONKLIN.

Big Surprise in Billiard Tournament at Hanover Club.

Morris D. Brown of the Hamilton Club of Brooklyn furnished a big surprise in his match with Charles F. Conklin of Chicago last night in the National amateur 18.2 balk line billiard tournament at the Hanover Club. The international champion was defeated in a long drawn out match by a score of 400 to 363.

Brown averaged 12 4-33, and he rolled up a run of 81 in the nineteenth inning. His position play was especially good, and, although Conklin was always dangerous, he was never able to overcome the advantage which Brown gained by timely runs. The champion's average was 11 11-32 and his best run 36. He displayed steadiness, but Brown's game was at times brilliant. At the finish of the game Brown received a flattering reception from the large gallery. Score by innings:

Morris D. Brown—0 17 4 25 4 0 17 0 0 4 39 11 14 1 11 4 1 81 15 3 0 31 10 1 1 1 42 5 18 0 20 20. Total—400. Average, 12 4-33; high runs, 81, 42, 39.

Referee—Tom Gallagher.

Dr. W. G. Douglas of the Amateur Billiard Club won his first match in the tournament from D. W. E. Uffenheimer of Philadelphia in the afternoon by making a sensational rally in the last six innings. The score was 400 to 339 in 34 innings. Douglas trailed the Quaker for 30 innings, and then suddenly settled down to fast, smooth carroming, and with a fine run of 61 overtook his opponent and reached the 400 mark in three more innings, his final effort being an unfinished run of 41 in the thirty-fourth. Score by innings:

Dr. W. G. Douglas—3 41 7 1 1 1 5 5 0 0 0 0 0 29 7 52 2 0 30 3 1 15 2 5 16 0 16 3 39 0 61 9 5 41—400. Average, 11 26-34. High runs, 61 52 41.

TERRY WINS FROM CLARKE.

Amateur Champions Play Close Handicap Billiard Game.

C. B. Terry, who recently won the amateur Class C billiard tournament, last night defeated G. P. B. Clarke, the Class B champion, in a special handicap match by the score of 175 to 218 at the Morningside Billiard Academy.

The purpose of the match game was to show the playing quality of the two different class players. Clarke was marked at 250 and the Class C champion was required to score 175. Clarke had high runs of 33, 15, and 15, while the victor's best efforts netted him 16, 10, and 10.

Terry made several clever open shots which took the full course around the table for three carroms, which brought the applause from the onlookers. At the conclusion of the thirty-fourth inning both men were close to victory, and a good possible high run would have put either player out. Clarke, with a string of 204, needed only 46, and his opponent, with 140, required only 35 to annex victory. Had Clarke showed the form in the early part of the contest that he did at the close, he would probably have annexed the victory. In the last six innings he managed to get into double figure tallies four times, with his best run of 33. The score:

C. B. Terry—2 8 7 0 2 0 5 0 1 4 1 4 1 3 15 1 0 2 4 12 3 7 9 10 14 1 4 2 4 7 1 6 3 1 9 10 16. Total, 175; high runs, 16 10 10; average, 4 27-37.

G. P. B. Clarke—0 2 0 7 15 0 14 1 7 1 7 4 8 14 7 0 3 1 3 0 15 2 7 14 1 2 6 2 3 10 4 11 33 13 0 1. Total, 218; high runs, 33 15 15; average, 5 33-37.

Norton Wins from Danbury.

"Chick" Norton easily defeated F. W. Danbury last night in the second game of the play-off of the triple tie in the Harlem Class B amateur 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at Paul's Riverside Billiard Academy, 105th Street and Lenox Avenue, by the score of 100 to 69. Norton was playing at the 100-point mark and made his necessary tally in forty-four innings. Danbury had only to make 75 points and win the game. The score:

Norton—0 1 1 1 3 3 3 4 0 7 0 1 0 5 1 1 0 3 1 1 0 11 2 7 0 0 4 0 0 6 3 0 9 0 3 0 5 4 2 1 0 2 2 3. Total—100. High runs, 11 and 9. Average—2 12-44.

Danbury—1 0 2 1 1 0 3 2 0 0 2 2 1 0 1 0 2 2 6 0 1 3 0 1 0 0 4 6 5 1 2 1 1 4 1 2 2 1 2 3 1 1 1. Total—69. Average—1 26-43.

Quakers Lose Billiard Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—Farrar of St. Louis defeated Campbell and Jones of this city in the second game of the National three-cushion billiard championship to-night by the score of 50 to 30 in eighty-one innings. Farrar made a high run of 6 and Campbell 4.

Amateur Pool Tournament.

Two games were decided yesterday in the amateur pool tournament at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. In the afternoon game Dr. William Horne defeated Otto Modra by the score of 75 to 54, in nine frames. The winner made a high run of 15 points. In the evening contest H. Shoemaker defeated William Dowling by the score of 35 to 64, in ten innings. Both contestants made a high run of 15 points. This evening H. Smith will oppose J. E. McCafferty.

MIKE MURPHY IMPROVING.

Athletic Coach Will Go to Brown's Mills for Rest.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—Mike Murphy, the track coach of the University of Pennsylvania, has so much improved in health recently that he is about to be removed to Brown's Mills, N. J., where he will remain for at least a month in an effort to regain his health so that he may resume his duties at the university.

After his return from the New Jersey resort Murphy will rest completely until the outdoor season starts, when, if his health permits, he will resume the training. The work of training the track men for the indoor meets has all been left to substitute Coach Haydock.

Bronx Church House Games.

The senior boys' club athletes of the Bronx Church House held their regular monthly set of games last night in the clubhouse gymnasium. The programme consisted of six events, and some keen competition was witnessed. Summary:

20-Yard Dash.—Won by W. Smith; E. Muhlfeld, second; E. Eames, third. Time—0:03 1-5.

Running High Jump, Handicap.—Won by J. Hopkins, (2 inches,) 5 feet 1 inch; E. Eames, (3 inches,) 5 feet 1 inch, second; E. De Vere, (5 inches,) 5 feet 1 inch, third.

Three Standing Jumps, Handicap.—Won by C. Ritchie, (7 feet,) 30 feet 4½ inches; W. Gore, (4 feet 4 inches,) 29 feet 2¼ inches, second; E. Muhlfeld, (4 feet 6 inches,) 28 feet 3¼ inches, third.

Eight-Pound Shot Put, Handicap.—Won by E. Gardner, (scratch,) 40 feet 7¼ inches; J. Riley, (penalized 2 feet,) 40 feet 2 inches, second; W. Smith, (4 feet,) 34 feet 6 inches, third.

Potato Race, Six Potatoes.—Won by D. Grenzel; T. Cantwell, second; J. Hopkins, third. Time—0:22 3-5.

Three-Mile Road Race, Handicap.—Won by H. S. Earle, (scratch;) L. Wood, (2 minutes,) second; E. Wosen, (1 minute,) third. Time—21:02.

MEMBERS TO FIGHT AUTO CLUB CHANGES

Petition Filed to Call Special Meeting to Protest Against Action of Board of Governors.

The radical changes in the by-laws of the Automobile Club of America proposed by the Board of Governors have aroused a storm of protest from many members of the organization, and at a meeting yesterday of the Board of Governors at the clubhouse on Fifty-fourth Street, west of Broadway, a petition was presented to President Henry Sanderson and the members of the board, requesting that a special meeting of the club be called on Feb. 15. The object of the petition is to protest against the propositions to revise the constitution and by-laws, to take action to preserve the traditions of the club as a social institution, and not as a business organization; to call for the appointment of a committee to ascertain how the business operations of the club are being conducted, and to what extent the annual dues of the members are being used to make up a deficit incurred in the business operations of the club.

The petition was signed by seventy-seven members, including several of the original founders, who object to the contemplated changes. Under the by-laws a petition of twenty-five members asking for a special meeting for a particular object makes it incumbent on the President to call the meeting, and notices will be sent out to-day.

Two amendments which have been proposed originated the trouble in the organization. A year ago similar changes were advocated by the Board of Governors, but were rejected. The notices were sent out under the name of Henry Sanderson, President of the club, together with forms of proxies, which the members were requested to sign and return to a committee of the club representing the present Board of Governors. The letter follows:

> Gentlemen: By next mail you will receive a notice of a special meeting of the club to be held on Feb. 19, a copy of a proposed revision of the constitution and by-laws made by a committee of the Board of Governors and a proxy issued by the board and returnable to a committee of the board which will vote for the revision.
>
> The proposed revision is, in the opinion of many members of the club, most radical and objectionable. We urge you not to sign this proxy. A call for a prior special meeting of the club, to be held on the evening of Feb. 15, is being signed, notice of which will reach you in a few days. We ask you to investigate and attend the meeting of Feb. 15, where there will be a free discussion.
>
> COMMITTEE OF MEMBERS.
>
> P. S.—Please do not sign any proxy until you know the facts.

Many of the old members of the organization are not in sympathy with the proposed changes, asserting that the control of the club should be in the hands of the members and not directed entirely by a small committee which would be perpetuated if the amendments were approved. There is a growing disposition to maintain the social status of the club, and not permit it to become a huge business organization, which would defeat the aims of the founders.

One of the principal causes for dissent is the conduct of the garage and the business end of the club. It is asserted that the garage falls far behind and the dues of the members are used to make up the losses. In addition, it is freely stated that the club is run on a basis that is too expensive for the organization. Objections have also been raised to the salary list of the club officials, which is said to be excessive, and a general curtailment of expenses is advocated.

HARVARD'S SQUASH VICTORY.

Crimson Players Swamp Columbia in Metropolitan Tourney.

Squash players of the Harvard Club and of the Heights Casino scored their matches yesterday in the series for the Metropolitan League championship. The Harvard team of seven players on the home courts at 27 West Forty-fourth Street smothered the team of the Columbia University Club by a complete line of victories and a tally of 210 aces to 90. The team of the Heights Casino on the Brooklyn courts won three matches out of five against the team of the Princeton Club. The tally at this series was 175 aces to 103. The summary:

Harvard vs. Columbia.—Dr. H. S. Satterlee, Harvard, defeated Lyle E. Mahan, Columbia, 15—3, 15—5; F. H. Davis, Harvard, defeated H. D. Bulkley, Columbia, 15—3, 15—11; Prentice Sanger, Harvard, defeated H. H. Boyesen, Columbia, 15—2, 15—13; G. O. Winston, Harvard, defeated F. S. Keeler, Columbia, 15—9, 15—10; W. H. Y. Hackett, Harvard, defeated R. E. Wigham, Columbia, 15—7, 15—1; Henry Morgan, Harvard, defeated R. H. White, Columbia, 15—4, 15—12; Hamilton Hadden, Harvard, defeated Harold Kellock, Columbia, 15—4, 15—6.

Heights Casino vs. Princeton.—J. O. Low, Casino, defeated O. De G. Vanderbilt, Princeton, 15—3, 9—15, 15—2; Dr. D. D. Roberts, Casino, defeated Philip Le Boutillier, Princeton, 15—3, 15—7; S. H. Bird, Princeton, defeated R. Goepel, Casino, 18—17, 15—7; A. W. Riley, Princeton, defeated C. M. Bull, Jr. Casino, 15—7, 11—15, 17—14; George Abbott, Casino, defeated J. C. Little, Princeton, 15—3, 15—10.

Hamilton Wins by Close Score.

The Hamilton Institute basket ball team defeated the Berkeley School five in a close and exciting game yesterday in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory by the score of 13 to 10. The score at the end of the first half was 7 to 5 in favor of Hamilton Institute. The line-up:

Hamilton.	Position.	Berkeley.
Taylor, Spetilberg	Right forward	Brant
O. Hammerstein	Centre	Porter, Girdner
Robin, Bach	Right guard	Wagoner

Goals from the field—Spetilberg, 1; Rodman, 1; Hammerstein, 2; Brant, 1; Miller, 1. Goals from foul—Taylor, 4; Minroth, 1; Brant, 3; Miller, 3. Time of halves—Twelve minutes.

Columbia Ready for Dartmouth.

When the fives of Columbia and Dartmouth meet for their second game to-morrow night on the former's floor, the result will in a large measure determine the contenders for the championship title. Pennsylvania, Cornell, and Columbia are now tied for second place with two defeats each, with Dartmouth leading the league with but one defeat and four victories. The Columbia team will strike to pull the Green team from first place. Both teams have been putting in some very strenuous practice in preparation for the struggle. Though the midyear examinations have been occupying the time of the Morningside Heights boys, there has been no let up in their work, and, under Coach H. A. Fisher's tutelage, the team has acquired a far greater degree of accuracy, both in shooting and passing, so that the close teamwork, which has characterized the Columbia fives of the past years, will again be in evidence.

Good Shooting by Iowa Schoolboy.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Feb. 6.—Philip Newburg of the Iowa City High School rifle team is believed to have broken the world's record for individual interscholastic shooting here to-day, when in the Iowa City school's match against the Southern High School of Philadelphia, he shot a standing score of 95 and a prone score of 100. The team's total score against Philadelphia was 945.

McGRAW OUTWITS MACK.

Giants Land Nohowel While Athletics Were Angling for Him.

Manager McGraw of the Giants yesterday signed a college baseball player that Connie Mack of the Athletics has been angling to land for a long time. He is Frank Nohowel, who was a team mate of Eddie Collins at Columbia. McGraw has been dickering for the player for two seasons, and yesterday persuaded him to sign his name to a contract, although he has been much set against playing professional baseball.

Nohowel was third baseman on one of the best baseball teams that ever represented Columbia. That was in 1905 and 1906, and on the same team was Eddie Collins, now ranked as perhaps the best second baseman in the major leagues. Collins and Nohowel made a great combination in the Columbia infield. Nohowel in his college days was considered as good a player as Collins.

Nohowel told the New York management yesterday that he would be ready to sail with the advance guard of recruits from here next Friday. McGraw does not intend to have him play the infield, but will try to develop him into a hitting outfielder. He is a great pegger and a capable fielder. His success with the Giants will depend much on how he hits the ball at Marlin Springs.

The Giants signed another pitcher yesterday on the recommendation of Mike Finn, who was scouting for the Giants last Summer. The twirler is George Pierce, and he is a real giant, being over 6 feet tall. Pierce had the hardest kind of luck last year in the Eastern League. He was with both Providence and Buffalo, but out of 15 starts he only won two games. Two years ago Pierce was tried out by the Boston Red Sox, but was sent to the Providence team. Late last season he went to Mobile, and Finn thought so well of his work in the South that he recommended him highly to McGraw, and the big slabman will get a try-out at Marlin Springs.

Next Monday President Frank Farrell and Manager Harry Wolverton of the Yankees will go to Chicago to attend the American League schedule meeting on the same day, Tuesday, that the National League meets here. The adoption of the schedule will not take up much time, but there is sure to be more or less activity in trading and selling players. The Yankee management is keen to land a good experienced catcher. Other American League clubs who are anxious to make trades are St. Louis and Washington. Washington is well supplied with catchers, and if Clarke Griffith could see a chance to land a promising player it is not unlikely that he would part with one of his back stops. Wolverton has made no advances to Washington yet, but it would not be surprising if something of interest to New York fans developed at the meeting next week.

Eddie Zimmerman, who played third base for Brooklyn for a time last season, has kicked over the traces over the contract that has been tendered him by the Newark management of the International League, and says he is through with baseball. Zimmerman was looked upon to be the Captain of the Indians next season, and his fast work as third was one of the team's best assets. He is very much disappointed over his salary, and announces that he will quit before he accepts. Zimmerman runs a billiard academy in York, Penn., during the Winter and has a good business investment.

Pittsburg has asked for waivers on Vincent Campbell, the fast outfielder, but Boston has refused to waive. Campbell's case is puzzling Pirate fans, for he has shown promise of being a fine ball player. President Dreyfuss, however, has his reasons for getting rid of him, and it is said that Campbell is not pleased with his contract. Unless a compromise is made Campbell will probably go to Boston. Third Baseman Bobby Byrne has signed his contract for next season.

U. S. LEAGUE BULLETIN.

Circuit Completed and Playing Season Will Open May 1.

READING, Penn., Feb. 6.—William Abbott Willman of this city, President of the new United States League of Baseball Clubs, issued his first official bulletin to-night, announcing the completion of the circuit. The season will open on May 1. Contracts with players will be made from one to three years, at the option of the men themselves. At the expiration of their contracts they will be free agents. There will be no reserve clause. The owners of the franchises are:

New York, Charley White; Brooklyn, A. W. Hussey, Jamaica; Reading, William Abbott Willman, Reading, Penn.; Washington, Hugh Mackinnon, Washington, D. C., and F. L. McCabe, New York; Richmond, E. L. Langraff, New York; Pittsburgh, Capt. Marshall Henderson and William T. McCullough, Pittsburgh, Penn.; Cincinnati, John J. Ryan, New York, and Cleveland, M. T. Murphy, Cleveland.

Thirty Baseball Games for Penn.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—The University of Pennsylvania baseball schedule for the coming season, made public to-day, is one of the best the university has adopted in years. Thirty games will be played, and among the teams that will appear here will be Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, and Michigan. The schedule is as follows:

March 23, Navy at Annapolis; 27, Franklin and Marshall at Philadelphia; 30, New York University at Philadelphia.

April 3, Holy Cross at Philadelphia; 5 and 6, Swarthmore at Atlantic City; 10, Philadelphia Nationals at Philadelphia; 13, Yale at Philadelphia; 15, Dartmouth at Philadelphia; 19, Holy Cross at Worcester; 20, Army at West Point; 24, Ursinus at Philadelphia; 27, Brown at Providence.

May 2, Virginia at Philadelphia; 4, Princeton at Philadelphia; 8, Fordham at Philadelphia; 11, Yale at New Haven; 15, Lehigh at Philadelphia; 18, Princeton at Princeton; 22, Lafayette at Philadelphia; 25, Michigan at Philadelphia; 30, Harvard at Philadelphia.

June 1, Cornell at Ithaca; 5, Columbia at New York; 8, Pennsylvania Alumni at Philadelphia; 12, Albright at Philadelphia; 17, Cornell at Ithaca; 19, Cornell at Philadelphia; 22 and 26, Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Kid Gleason Gets New Job.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Jack (Kid) Gleason, formerly of the Philadelphia National League team, has been appointed assistant manager by Manager Callahan of the White Sox. He will go on the Spring training trip with the club and when the team splits up will take charge of the second division.

Fogel Lands Another Outfielder.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—The Philadelphia National League Baseball Club announced that it had signed Lee Hart, outfielder of the Fulton Club of the Kentucky-Indiana-Tennessee League. He led his league in batting last year.

Recruit for White Sox.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Manager Callahan of the Chicago American League Baseball Club today announced the purchase of Jules Fournier, a utility infielder, from the Boston American League Club. Fournier probably will be tried out at second base, the big hole in Callahan's infield.

Davenport to Run at Brooklyn.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Ira H. Davenport of the University of Chicago, the conference champion quarter, mile, and half-mile runner, decided last night to take part in the events at the meet to be given by the Knights of St. Anthony in Brooklyn next Monday night. He will meet D. B. Young of Amherst, the Eastern intercollegiate quarter-mile title holder, in a special invitation 440-yard race. The event is intended to take on the aspect of an American championship race.

WANDERERS GAIN HOCKEY RACE LEAD

Hockey Club Defeated by the Score of 4 to 3 at St. Nicholas Rink.

The Wanderers' hockey team had their work cut out last night to maintain their lead at the top of the championship ladder of the Amateur Hockey League race through the determined opposition they met with at the hands of the Hockey Club, which they defeated by a score of 4 to 3 at St. Nicholas Rink after a stubbornly contested game.

That a surprise was in store for the leaders was soon evidenced by the fact that the Hockey Club contingent tallied the first scores of the initial period on plays by Britton and Carter, these tallies only being equalled by the hardest kind of play by the Wanderers, and through the special efforts of Harmon and McGrath, who were enabled during the last minute of play in the opening half to make the score read 2—all.

The second period was still more fiercely contested, the play waxing so fast and furious that at times the field, after a particularly forceful rush, resembled a ten-pin alley with most of the objects bowled over. Two men, Lacken of the Wanderers, and Britton, Hockey Club, were disciplined for cross-checking and hoking respectively, these penalties marking the extent of the occasions when players were sent to the box.

The Hockey Club stock took a decided upward turn in the second half, after ten minutes of play, when Britton, the rover of the team, picked the disk out of a scrimmage in which the Wanderers were seemingly trying to waste time. Britton grabbed the rubber and with some deft dribbling circled through the opposition to the end that when he got ready he slammed it through for the third point for his team.

McGrath made the point score all even at three a bit over a minute later, when he was able to poke the puck through after a scrimmage in which seemingly all of the players were mixed up in, and in which five of the men were thrown to their knees as the result of the various collisions.

From here on ensued a batle royal, during which probably the greatest scrimmage ever seen in a league contest occurred. Both teams battled in front of the Hockey Club cage for almost a minute, during this interim, the Wanderers pouring a bombardment at the defense which did such good work as to nullify all of the attack.

Garon for the Wanderers pulled the game out of the fire after 16:34 minutes of play by a purely individual effort of perfect stick work and clever dodging which finally netted him a tally from a rather difficult angle. This proved to be the last scoring of the match, despite the effort of the tailenders to again even matters. The summary and line-up:

Wanderers.	Position.	Hockey Club.
Ellison	Goal	Regensburger
Rogers	Point	Tisne
Garon	Cover point	Norseworthy
Bulger	Rover	Britton
Lacken	Centre	Mackenzie
McGrath	Right wing	Wadelton

Goals—By Britton, 12.33; Carter, 18.48; Harmon, 19.09; McGrath, 19.43. Second half—Britton, 10.09; McGrath, 11.22; McGrath, 16.34. Penalties—Lacken, 2 minutes for cross-checking; Britton, 2 minutes for hooking. Referee—Sars Kennedy. Assistant Referee—R. Strange. Goal Judges—J. Berry and A. Woods. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Skater Lamy Injured.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Edmund Lamy, who won the professional skating championship last week from Morris Wood, had a nasty fall on the ice here to-day, and as a result will be unable to skate for several weeks and probably the rest of the season. Lamy was practicing short turns in a hockey pen, when he was accidentally tripped by another skater and fell into the net, wrenching his ankle and bruising his thigh. He was carried to the office of a physician, who ordered the champion to take absolute rest for several weeks. Lamy has canceled all dates.

HARVARD FOOTBALL DATES.

Crimson Will Open with Maine at Cambridge on Sept. 28.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDE, Mass., Feb. 6.—The Harvard 'Varsity football team next Fall will have practically as hard a playing schedule as it did in 1911, when the last five matches of the season were against Brown, Princeton, Carlisle Indians, Dartmouth, and Yale. While the schedule has not yet been ratified by the Athletic Committee, the dates have been arranged and only a few changes are shown on the list. The schedule follows:

Sept. 28, University of Maine at Cambridge; Oct. 5, Holy Cross at Cambridge; Oct. 12, Williams at Cambridge; Oct. 19, Amherst at Cambridge; Oct. 26, Brown at Cambridge; Nov. 2, Princeton at Cambridge; Nov. 9, Vanderbilt University at Cambridge; Nov. 16, Dartmouth at Cambridge; Nov. 23, Yale at New Haven.

New Soccer League Organized.

An organization which promises to be a power in soccer football circles in the United States came into existence yesterday when a special meeting was held at the Boys' Club, at which delegates from ten of the clubs affiliated with the old New York State Football Association attended. What was formerly the State Association went out of existence when the delegates unanimously voted to accept the constitution, by-laws, and regulations which had been submitted and read at a previous meeting. The new body is known as the American Amateur Football Association, and in addition to the allegiance of the New York and District Amateur League and the Metropolitan Football Association, expects to affiliate with it in the near future associations and leagues in other parts of the country. H. Agar, President of the old association; W. A. Campbell, Vice President; G. Bourne, Treasurer, and Robert MacCulloch, Secretary, retained their respective offices in the American Association. The clubs represented at the meeting to ratify the constitution were the Clan McDonalds, Critchleys, Camerons, New York Celtics, St. George, Eureka, Clan McDuff, Washington, and German Clubs, and the New York State League.

Penns Football Schedule.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—The football schedule of the University of Pennsylvania has been passed on by the Athletic Directors, but must be ratified by the University Committee on Athletics before it is official. There is one new game on the list and it is to be played with Swarthmore on Oct. 12, Villanova being dropped. The Indian game has been moved forward on the schedule so that the Quaker eleven will be in the best of shape when it meets the redskins. The schedule: Sept. 28, Gettysburg at Franklin Field; Oct. 2, Franklin and Marshall at Franklin Field; Oct. 5, Dickinson at Franklin Field; Oct. 9, Ursinus at Franklin Field; Oct. 12, Swarthmore at Franklin Field; Oct. 19, Brown at Franklin Field; Oct. 26, La Fayette at Franklin Field; Nov. 2, State College at Franklin Field; Nov. 9, Michigan at Franklin Field; Nov. 16, Carlisle Indians at Franklin Field; Nov. 28, Cornell at Franklin Field.

Manhattan College Winners.

Manhattan College basket ball players defeated the five of the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn last night in the latter's court by a score of 26 to 15.

CYCLISTS RIDING FAST.

New German Record in Berlin Six-Day Race.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The third day of the Berlin six-day cycle race concluded to-night with little change in the position of the teams. Brocco sustained serious injuries resulting from a fall shortly before 8 o'clock, and his partner, Jacquelin, gave up entirely. Rolledri discontinued at 1:30 A. M., and his partner, Georget, is now riding with Collins. The President of Police, V. Jagow, occupied the royal box.

The result of the first seventy-two hours of the race is 1,350 4-10 miles, beating the previous German record by 3 miles. The leaders are Folger, Moran, Root, Hill, Walthour, Connies, Rutt, Stoll, Halstead, and Drobach. Hoffmann and Ehlert are one lap behind; Suter brothers 3 laps; Nowack and Rotnick, 4 laps; Wegener and Kudela, 5 laps, and Collins, Georget, Schallwig, Munzner, Esser, and Zander, 6 laps.

BALTUSROL LANDS TOURNEY.

Metropolitan Golf Championship to be Played Next May.

The Executive Committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association has selected the course of the Baltusrol Golf Club for its next amateur championship tournament. May 22, 23, 24, and 25 are the dates, and they correspond with the usual period chosen by this association, incidentally clashing with the women's metropolitan body, which will begin its championship at Englewood on May 20.

At the same time the Executive Committee arranged for the open championship, as well as several invitation tournaments. The open will be decided over the links of the Apawamis Club, July 10 and 11. The Montclair Golf Club was awarded June 13, 14, and 15 for its annual invitation meeting, while June 20, 21, and 22 were granted to the Apawamis Club for a similar affair. Sept. 25 and 26 have also been given to Apawamis for its annual seniors' meeting.

Robeson Leads Pinehurst Golfers.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 6.—Keen play ruled in to-day's qualification round in the eighth annual St. Valentine's golf tournament, and while the scores were not low the finish was a pretty one. At the head of a field of contestants was F. K. Robeson of the Oak Hill Country Club, who won the qualification golf medal with an 82, duplicate rounds of 41. In the second position C. L. Becker of Woodland and H. C. Fownes of Oakmont tied at 83. Scores in the first of the seven divisions which qualified for the match play rounds, which continue through Saturday, follow:

First Division.—F. K. Robeson, Oak Hill, 82; C. L. Becker, Woodland, 83; H. C. Fownes, Oakmont, 83; B. T. Allen, Fox Hills, 85; N. W. Dean, Oakley, 86; C. H. Gardner, Wannamoisett, 86; C. N. Phillips, Atlantic City, 86; Robert Hunter, Wee Burn, 87; Herman Wendell, St. David's, 88; Spencer Waters, Apawamis, 88; R. S. Frothingham, Apawamis, 91; I. S. Robeson, Oak Hill, 91; Joseph Curtis, Rochester Country, 92; F. B. Boyd, Belle Rive, 93; C. M. Fink, Dunwoodie, 96; W. L. Milliken, Indianapolis, 96.

New Record for Belle Air Course.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLE AIR, Fla., Feb. 6.—A new record of 73 for the Belle Air golf course was made to-day by Willie Leith of Duluth in a match against Gil Nichols and Fred McLeod. As Alexander Smith could not play, the tournament scheduled for to-day was postponed until to-morrow. The former record of 74 was held by Smith.

TROTTERS BRING GOOD PRICES

Midwinter Sale at the Garden Shows Interest in Horses.

Good prices for the class of trotters and pacers put under the hammer were obtained yesterday at the opening session of the mid-Winter horse sale in Madison Square Garden under the auspices of the Fasig-Tipton Company. There was the usual attendance of close observers augmented by a host of non-bidders who helped to bring the onlookers up to a respectable gathering in point of numbers.

The prices obtained for the horses shown by Al Thomas, a veteran reinsman, were fully up to the worth of the various consignments, and the generous bidding augured well for the success of the sale which will be continued to-day and to-morrow.

The top-notch price of the afternoon session was obtained for King Redwood, an eleven-year-old trotter, with a record of 2:15¾, which brought $725, being purchased by John Deitsahler of Buffalo. Closely approaching this price was that of $705, which gained Glenister, a six-year-old stallion for George F. Finney of Onancock, Va. It was said that the consignee of this animal, W. A. Weingert of Harrisburg, Penn., had refused $2,000 for him just before the sale.

Druida, a four-year-old black filly, roused no end of commotion when she was being put through her paces by leaping over a five-foot fence at the Fourth Avenue end of the Garden. She was being shown in tandem trotting style and seemed not to relish the pace. Thomas was forcing her around the short turn of the tenth of a mile ellipse. After several minutes of coaxing she was brought back to the bidding section, but her manners had created an adverse impression, with the result that she went to J. L. Tarleton of Lexington, Ky., for what was conceded to be a throw-away price of $160.

Trotting Races at Red Bank.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, Feb. 6.—Several trotting races were held on the Broad Street Speedway at this place this afternoon. Among the horses and owners who raced were Charles H. Borden's King Allmond and Membrinen King of Red Bank, George Schenck's Sleepy Jack of Holmdel, Edward Fenton's Dick Crocket of Shrewsbury, Albert A. Truax's Vice Roy of Red Bank, Dr. Dixon's Jack of Fair Haven, and William Pope's Marion of Little Silver. Al Truax's Vice Roy captured several races. In all of the races Edward Fenton's Dick Crocket came in a close second and George Schenck's Sleepy Jack third. All of the races were very close. The most exciting were trotted between Al Truax's Vice Roy and Edward Fenton's Dick Crocket.

THE GOLD EXPORT MYSTERY.

Our foreign friends who are taking our gold, and we are glad to oblige them, are unable to understand how they get it on the basis of the state of the exchanges. They know that they are our debtors on the balance of the merchandise movement, and on the credit situation as well, and they figure that we are losing money by sending them gold. There is no doubt that we choose to do both domestic and international business in a way as cumbersome and expensive as possible, but it does not follow that we are deliberately throwing away money because we let gold go at less than other nations ask for it. We get all that it is worth to us, and relieve ourselves of an oppressive weight upon the domestic money market. The Treasury statement issued yesterday disclosed that during January we added $18,694,318 to the money in circulation. We did this at a time when the surplus bank reserve, according to the statement of Saturday, was the largest at this season during the economic era which began with this century, and when there is no large demand either for currency or credit. Naturally this excess of currency seeks a use. Since there is no real service which it can perform it tempts those who have it in their possession against their will to put it to speculative use, in the hope that it may earn its cost. And when, as the markets show, even speculation is not thus goaded into activity, the redundancy of paper automatically releases or even expels gold to serve those who know how to put it to work.

The Treasury statement discloses that at this time of quiet trade we have the largest total of currency in our history. This happens in two ways, and both of them discreditable to our common sense. We organize our finances in such a way that when we are prosperous the Treasury absorbs the currency which is needed by trade. When trade is quiet, and the Treasury collections run below its expenditures, then currency is disgorged upon a money market which is disorganized by its presence. Another source of unwelcome and unwholesome redundancy of currency is the banknote circulation. The comparisons for last week, last month, and last year, all show larger figures, the first of the present month being a maximum record. But if there should be a demand to-morrow for a large increase of currency this precious system would not be able to supply it, since our banknote circulation is independent of business conditions. It expands at its own sweet will, and it never contracts.

There is neither rhyme nor reason in such arrangements. The only suitable comment is "such a foolishness." Yet Washington dispatches tell us that the pursuers of the money trust have resolved to confine the hunt to the imperfections of the Aldrich plan. The strength of the Aldrich plan lies less in its perfections than in the imperfections of the present plan, as disclosed not theoretically but practically by the facts of the existing situation. The Aldrich plan puts an end to the issue of currency based upon bonds, and provides a place and use for gold as the basis and reserve for a currency issued upon commercial assets, the promissory notes of the ordinary business man, indorsed by the bank which knows him, and by the association of banks which knows the discounting bank. The idea is novel, it is said, but it is only novel for the United States. It is said to be intricate, but it only seems so because it takes many words to express an idea of such importance and scope, but simplicity itself in its conception. The details may be criticised, but whatever its defects, its virtues shine in comparison with the system which forbids making bank credits convertible into currency or checks at will, and which gives gold a place now denied it in our banking system.

QUIETING ULSTER.

At last common sense seems to have prevailed in the turbulent minds of the Ulster Unionists. The appeal of the Central Committee of the party to all Irish Unionists to refrain from mobbing WINSTON CHURCHILL when he comes to make a home rule speech in Belfast is a recognition of the first principles of representative government.

Mr. CHURCHILL has not an easy or pleasant task. He has to maintain his home rule policy against the famous declaration of his father that "Ulster will fight, and Ulster will be right." But he shows his father's courage and independence in going to the city where the declaration was made, and where it is most likely to be acted on. All Englishmen and most Irishmen will admire his pluck and all sensible men must recognize that there can be no wholesome public life in Ireland, with or without home rule, unless the cardinal right of free and orderly public discussion is maintained for all parties. The most serious charge brought against Mr. REDMOND and his party associates has been that they have denied this and like rights where they have had the power. It would only help them if the Unionists of the North should be guilty of the same unpardonable offense against free government.

SELLERS OF IMPURE FOODS.

Health Commissioner LEDERLE has been active in pursuing the dealers in impure foods, and hundreds of them have been convicted in this city's Court of Special Sessions. The Judges have failed to give jail sentences to these dealers in adulterated and poisonous supplies. They continue buying cheaply, selling dear, and paying their light fines by way of license.

But Justices FORKER, MCINERNY, and ZELLER of the Court of Special Sessions have awakened to the need of imposing heavier penalties. A baker, arraigned on Monday for keeping his shop "filthy beyond imagination," was sentenced by one of these Judges to serve thirty days in prison; butchers, convicted of selling meats and poultry that had been returned too often to cold storage, were fined from $100 to $200 each; and a pastry-maker, found to be using eggs known by the trade as "rots and spots," received another heavy fine. This city, reckoned by its population, is a considerable part of the United States. Most of the crimes of cold storage and adulteration are perpetrated here. If the police and the Judges will do their part a great work of reform in this neighborhood may be effected.

THE INFLUENCE OF DICKENS.

To-day is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of CHARLES DICKENS, but the celebration has been so far anticipated by the overhauling of his books for appropriate themes of comment (of which, when found, a note has been made, according to Cap'n Cuttle's excellent plan) that further remarks biographical or critical would surely be impertinent. At the end of his century the English-speaking world, at least, is agreed that DICKENS was a man of positive genius, who exerted an influence which is still potent, probably still more strongly exerted than that of any other writer of prose fiction, in any language, in the nineteenth century. The one thing worth while on this anniversary may be to consider briefly the quality and the effect of that influence. The question as to whether it is sometimes unwholesome is scarcely debatable. Sentiment overwrought begets sentimentality. Not all the survivors of the Dickens age, who shed tears over the sudden death of the great novelist in June, 1870, can feel now that they were better fitted to encounter the struggles and perils of life, which then lay before them, by the tremendous spell he had exerted on their youthful minds. Emotions painfully yet pleasurably aroused by his extravagant narration of fictitious sorrows, like those of Little Nell and Poor Jo, or his skillful application of artifice to the description of the commonplace and the inevitable, like the death of Paul Dombey, do not help much to train the sympathies for the cruel crises of life. Yet many who are now aging must admit that for them the strong potency of his arrangement of words in such passages survives. Though they may now decry the lack of good taste and good sense in the passages, they cannot read them anew without something of the old feeling. Perhaps the sophisticated youth of this hour reject them, or regard them curiously, as literary relics of a simpler age.

To DICKENS's discredit, therefore, must be ascribed much overwrought sentiment, a great overworking of the sympathies. But his intention was always good. His purpose was wholesome when its effect on the unsophisticated was the reverse. RUSKIN, one of his sternest critics, declared that he was always instinctively right, though his manner was so often wrong. This was after reading "Hard Times," in which RUSKIN felt that a masterful exhibition of some of the evils of modern civilization was spoiled by the gross theatrical exaggeration of Gradgrind and Bounderby. As a reformer of institutions and a corrector of public abuses, DICKENS was exceptional among novelists. His vision was generally clear. His tendency to exaggerate was not only constitutional, but in the custom of his era. AINSWORTH, the most popular novelist of the time, after DICKENS, struck twelve on every page. Yet few thoughtful Americans, familiar with the processes of development in this Republic, can doubt that the American passages in "Chuzzlewit" and the statements in the "Notes" were generally founded on direct and keen observation and ascertained facts—exaggerated, of course, for humorous effect, in the manner of the man. Assuredly, as has often been remarked, he said nothing worse about the Americans than he said about his own countrymen—nothing, in fact, nearly as severe.

In an age when the abolition of imprisonment for debt was an object of the humane, he pictured the absurdities and horrors of the outworn and futile system with a degree of vigor which was instrumental, if not in directly arousing the authorities to action, certainly in creating a state of public opinion which made action necessary. In a similar way he was indirectly responsible for reforms in legal procedure, in the management of criminal prisons, in the restriction of capital punishment, in the purification of Magistrates' courts. Of course, as the unaccredited yet powerful agent of organized reform, he brought nothing to a condition of perfection. He could no more hope to perfect the machinery of State than he could hope to banish hypocrisy and eliminate selfishness from human nature. But the world he left was better than the world into which he was born, and he had helped to make it so.

By and large, he greatly encouraged, with all his wonderful eloquence, the dangerous habit of indiscriminate almsgiving. Any practical amelioration of the condition of the poor seemed foreign to his thoughts. Quick food, with plenty of hot drink, for the hungry, clothes for the shabby, unearned shillings, pounds, and banknotes for the penniless are too plentiful in his books for moral effect. Society can never be reconstructed in that way; but he had suffered want, had toiled in destitution, endured the neglect and scorn of the heedless well-to-do, and his emotions governed him more frequently than his reason. It would be as unfair to blame him for not being a scientific sociologist as it would be to condemn him for doing nothing to lessen the greatest curse of his nation, the drink habit; of doing so much, in fact, in a blithesome, irresponsible way, to strengthen it. What strictly temperate man, who knows his DICKENS, has not yearned to taste, just for experience, pineapple rum, with three lumps of sugar, and hot water to suit the taste? That was a hard-drinking age. Mr. Pickwick in the Pound was a truly comic figure in 1837. The flood of ale and rum and port wine, and Hollands flavored with cloves in the Dickens books, flows also through the authentic annals of the early Victorian era. We must admit also that there is less of drunkenness humorously portrayed in his later books. If patriarchal Riah in "Our Mutual Friend" atones for Fagin, so does Mr. Dolls, measurably, atone for Swiveller and the inordinate thirst of the Wellers.

We must judge the man according to his lights; and when we have said of him that his influence tended to breed sentimentality, that he extolled the virtues his experience had caused him to admire at the expense of others he did not clearly comprehend, and that youth, placed too directly under his magic spell, might have been somewhat handicapped in the battle of life, we have said all that need be said in his dispraise. For technical literary criticism may well be avoided.

For the rest, his fund of native humor is so rich, so nearly boundless, as to forbid comparison with any other writer of England except the greatest of her poets. Beside him, BEN JONSON in his humorous moods, when his irony is so powerful, seems hard and dry. THACKERAY's group of English Humorists included men of broader education, of more varied experience, of higher ideals, perhaps, and subtler moods, but none of them could have invented Joe Gargery, Boffin, Micawber, Crummles, young John Chivery, Pecksniff, Mrs. Nickleby—and one could go on to name a hundred more to the same purpose. Lightness of heart he cultivated in the people, and the brotherhood of man became real in his books. He helped to revive, if not indeed to create, the Christmas spirit, and he left to the world so great a legacy of good feeling and perpetual entertainment that one who has been, at some period of his life, deeply under the spell of DICKENS, feels like shedding a tear of gratitude now that his genial memory is again uppermost in the public mind.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE.

Canada having provided the Empire with a Leader of the Opposition, he is now providing it with a policy. BONAR LAW and SIR MAX AITKEN, also a Canadian, are now in the South of France to "frame a scale of the suggested tariff for the United Kingdom." The daughter will ask the children remaining in the mother's house to pay a higher price for their food in order that the daughter "nation" may get a higher price for the products of its farmers, who want to sell them to us, and have been denied the privilege. The proposal does not lack assurance, since the children remaining in the mother's house are not as lusty as the daughter, and have twice refused to tax themselves for the daughter's benefit. The daughter herself is so far from being ready to tax herself for the mother's benefit that she has just elected a Cabinet whose first act was to repudiate the provision SIR WILFRID's Government had made for co-operating in the grievous burden of imperial defense.

A general election must be fought and won before the Opposition can give the boon of a tariff to the Empire, but the existing Government is not backward in taking a hint from the Colonies which it used to administer. The Charing Cross and Birkbeck bank disasters have startled those who thought that all that is British is perfect, and new ideas are to prevail in the world's financial centre. Canada is informed from London that > the Government will introduce a drastic banking measure in the forthcoming session of Parliament, dealing with private banks. The bill provides inter alia for a rigid system of Government inspection on the lines of that obtaining in some Colonies and for a deposit of ample securities with the Government in the cases of new banks.

Presumably after Canada has taught England how to tax herself for the benefit of the Colonies, and how to run her banks for her own good but on colonial lines, then sundry other chores will be taken in hand. It is odd that Canada, which knows so well what is good for the mother country, is so poor a judge of what is good for herself.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Non-Existent Dangers Proclaimed.

Like everybody else, we, of course, know and highly appreciate the services as well as the intentions of the Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Led by the organization of that name in this city, they have done much work in the way of guarding the young and helpless from maltreatment and exploitation, and they can well claim, as does the local society in a circular just sent out to all the affiliated bodies, that "of all 'matters "'pertaining to the welfare of children' "there is none of such public importance "and usefulness as the work done by "OUR (sic) societies in the rescue and "protection of innocent little ones and "the prosecution of their abusers."

The object of the circular, however, is to excite antagonism to the Borah bill establishing in the Department of Labor a "Children's Bureau," and it is with very sincere regret that we feel obliged to characterize this document as curiously like, in tenor and tone, to those issued for a somewhat similar purpose by the aggregation of quacks, charlatans, and self-illusionists that impudently calls itself the "League for Medical Freedom." The circular shows, that is, precisely the same inclination as does the "literature" of the league to see in the proposed law a deep and dark conspiracy, concocted by people with the wickedest of motives, to bring about interference with and control of State activities.

We can ourselves find in the Borah bill no such purpose, nor do we believe that any of the dreadful consequences foreseen by the society would result from its passage. We are quite unable to understand, moreover, why these good people should feel moved to put contemptuous quotation marks around words like "economics," "sociological problems," "research," and "the limelight of publicity." The officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children should remember that they and their doings have often been criticised with some asperity. To whatever extent they consider such criticism undeserved, at least to that extent should they be careful not to be unjust to others. And, while the best work hitherto done for children has unquestionably been theirs, that fact is very far from precluding the possibility that their work can be supplemented, advanced, and improved by other agencies. Scorn of statistics and of scientific investigation is certainly the reverse of commendable in anybody, no matter how good he is or has been.

There Never Was Any Such Person.

While a little group of New Yorkers, all concerned with large affairs, were taking luncheon recently, the conversation turned to a municipal problem that is receiving much attention just now and deserves to receive even more than it is getting. It is a particularly complicated problem, since it involves both public and private interests of the utmost importance, and, as is usual—or inevitable—in such cases, the two kinds of interests are more or less in conflict. They can be harmonized only by concessions that both sides are reluctant to make, and the natural result has been a free interchange of recrimination, much bitterness of feeling, and of greatly needed action—none.

Some may suspect from these hints that the subject under consideration at the luncheon was the subway situation. Be that as it may, in the course of the discussion one of those present was moved, or inspired, to question the others in about these words:

> What man in the whole city is there with such a reputation for knowledge, wisdom, and disinterested regard for the public welfare that, if he made a careful statement of the facts in this matter as he saw them, explained the facts in their relations and significances as he understood them, and clearly stated what in his opinion ought to be done—what man is there who, if he did this, would speak with an authority which everybody would recognize, with an honesty which none would doubt? In other words, who is the best trusted and most respected man in New York?

The question went unanswered. Name after name was tentatively suggested as that of a man implicity trusted and highly respected in this or that fraction of our population, but it was apparently impossible to recall one commanding personality so high above all others in the city's regard as to escape all criticism and all suspicion.

Very probably this is not a latter-day phenomenon: perhaps there never was in any city such a man. It did seem strange, however, to the participants in this inquest that of the dozen or twenty men in one or another way deservedly eminent who were brought forward for consideration there was not one of whom somebody did not at once say—and say truly—that he would not do because either his competence or his character would be seriously questioned in one or another circle too large to be safely ignored.

Perhaps some of our readers will be more fortunate. Our own impression is that anywhere and at any time such a search would have been without result. The human race is not much given to unanimity in admiration.

Their Works Speak for Them.

One of our correspondents repeated yesterday—not as of personal knowledge, by the way, but on the authority of certain South American friends of his—that in enforcing quarantine regulations at Panama our health officers have sometimes been discourteous and unfair, with the result that desirable trade goes to Europe that ought to come here.

It would, of course, be folly approaching madness to insist that every one of these officials has always been the pink of politeness—that none of them has ever been harsh, unreasonable, or unjust. They are hard-worked men, carrying heavy responsibilities in a most trying climate, and dealing not infrequently with people at once ignorant and irascible. That they have sometimes lost their temper could not safely be denied, and no safer would it be to deny that the effects of irritability thus caused have sometimes fallen upon travelers from both South and North America whose intentions and conduct were irreproachable.

Admitting all that, the fact remains, unquestionable, colossal, and magnificent, that the men whom our correspondent attacks have, by their devotion and their competence, made the building of the canal possible—that their achievements are a National glory ranking close to, if not even with, the achievements of the engineers—that to GORGAS and his subordinates hardly less than to GOETHALS and his is due the new respect with which the name of the United States is viewed all through that part of the world.

And our correspondent worries because they have driven away trade! Nonsense. Of course manners count in business, but it is chiefly in selecting one market or another where the prices are about the same. It can be assumed with perfect confidence that not many South Americans who can get here, more cheaply than in Europe, what they want, will go there for it just because some weary doctor snapped at them in Panama or Colon.

This, it may be stated incidentally, is no defense of official discourtesy, on the Isthmus or elsewhere; it is only an appeal to the sense of proportion.

SETTLING LABOR DISPUTES.

The Canadian Method Is Not Yet Tried in the States.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You print a letter from Mr. Paul Kennaday, Secretary of the New York Association for Labor Legislation, which may tend to create a false impression regarding the "Lemieux" labor law now operative in Canada. I have studied its oprations in Ottowa, visiting also Toronto, Montreal, and Quebec in search of testimony from employers, workmen, Judges, attorneys, and others. Opinion was overwhelmingly in praise of the act.

What was done in the recent laundry strike by our State Board of Mediation does not parallel the Canadian plan in some of its most essential features. In Canada, with the co-operation of the Minister of Labor, both sides select a representative and these two select a prominent public man, usually a Judge of high standing as Chairman. These three men constitute a Court of Inquiry. There is no strike permitted in mine or public utility for thirty days while their investigation continues. The same condition holds good in private business, only when both parties consent.

I have a high regard for Mr. Rogers and his associates of our State Board of Mediation. It is without the slightest reflection on them, or on any other State board, that I suggest that the report of such a Court of Inquiry as Canada arranges carries much more weight, and makes a much deeper impression on public opinion.

In nearly every case that has been presented during the four years of the operation of the Lemieux act in Canada, strikes have been prevented.

It is to be hoped that a similar plan for fair investigation and publicity by a tribunal of judicial character may soon be introduced in our States. Many a calamity will thus be averted.

I have just returned from a visit to Lawrence, Mass. The situation there is critical. The loss to date is colossal. Who can tell the exact rights and wrongs of the situation? Contradictory reports becloud the issue. The State Board has not been successful; neither has the Governor, nor other officials.

There is no worthier nor more important task for the best brains of the Nation than the framing and promotion of simple machinery to automatically throw light on industrial disputes, to help avert strikes whenever possible and, when not, to hasten their settlement.

We cannot be a prosperous nor a happy people if we struggle in the dark, misunderstanding each other and permitting class hatred to thrive on our differences.

Enlightened, disinterested men should step into the breach—not to arbitrate except as a last resort—but to throw a true, clear light on dark places in such a striking way that public opinion will assert itself in favor of the right.

NURSE THANKS TIMES READERS.

Their Generosity Greatly Aided Her in Fight for Health.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those of your readers who responded to my appeal, printed in your columns more than a year ago, for assistance for a trained nurse, suffering from tuberculosis, will be interested to hear of the beneficial results which their kindness has brought about.

I have just received a letter from the trained nurse. It is dated Feb. 1, which date is "the anniversary of the first remittance sent me by THE NEW YORK TIMES." The letter is full of deep gratitude to THE TIMES and to TIMES readers who came forward so splendidly.

"The fund helped me," writes the nurse, "to a state of health in which I am able to do some work, and if I can remain as well for another year, I will probably be able to do my regular work once more. I have a heart full of gratitude for all that was done for me."

I may add that she is employed at present in such a way that her work is not too heavy for her, and that she is in a good climate.

My thanks, please, with hers, to THE TIMES and TIMES readers. J. S.

The Poisonous Match Industry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I fully share the righteous indignation expressed in your editorial article on the poisonous match manufactured which is eating away the bones and destroying the lives of the poor creatures who are compelled by necessity to toil at this murderous occupation. How can any legislator lend his aid to permit the continuance of this cruel industry when a method of manufacture has been discovered which prevents the fatal ravages among the operatives of the old system? Has this great and wealthy republic descended to such a pagan level that the lives and happiness of women and little children are held of smaller account than the accumulation of fat dividends for stockholders?

Roosevelt and Wilson.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a higher destiny for our truly great men than merely holding office. I suggested at Mr. Roosevelt's retirement from the Presidency that he be made Ambassador General, to go on any special mission. Now, if he had tackled the affairs of Persia, for instance, the Russian bears would have taken to the woods and the price of bear hides would have fallen very low.

Woodrow Wilson would make a splendid President, and with Roosevelt as National critic he would be in constant terror of his life for fear he would do wrong.

Chilly Schoolrooms.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Cannot something be done for the small children of Public School 12, Frisby Avenue, Westchester? The water was frozen in the fire buckets yesterday, Feb. 5, also the ink in the wells, and the scholars had to sit with their overcoats on. These class rooms are portable wooden affairs set right on the ground. PARENT.

Mrs. Sage and Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the admirable article in THE TIMES entitled "Mrs. Sage's Stewardship" I regret that you did not mention the many thousands she has given to the cause of woman suffrage, as I am sure none of her benefactions gave her more pleasure.

Higher Telephone Charges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that there is so much said of the reduction of telephone rates, could you tell why since Dec. 20, 1911, the prices have been raised to 10 cents a call in many of the elevator apartment houses? A SUBSCRIBER.

NEW YORK UNCHRISTIAN.

At Least Dr. Pentecost Says So, and Says Nation Is, Too.

The Rev. Dr. George F. Pentecost believes that New York is not a Christian city nor the United States a Christian Nation. They are unchristian in their methods of government, so he told the American section of the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance at the first session of a two-day conference yesterday in Central Church.

The Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts of Philadelphia presided. Ministers and laymen from Canada, as well as the United States, and several from foreign mission fields were present.

Dr. Pentecost, who went to Manila from Yonkers, decried the efforts of Americans and others to take possession of China coast cities. He said that when he was in China a Christian was supposed to be one who was against the Government.

Dr. Williams of the University of Nanking reported that three American missionaries had brought about the peace of Nanking. The city was under siege by the rebels from Nov. 9 to Dec. 2, when the commander of the imperial troops, who were besieged, called into council the American missionaries. The Americans drew up an agreement, got it signed, and brought about peace. Dr. Williams is here to raise $500,000 for the University of Nanking. He related how universities are starting in Cheng Tu and other centres, and American and Canadian Christians are uniting thus to help the Chinese in higher education.

Last night at the Hotel Savoy the Presbyterian Union of New York gave a reception to the delegates to the alliance. Following the reception and addresses there was a dinner at which ladies were present. The principal address was made by the Rev. Dr. James I. Good of Philadelphia. The convention concludes today. A prominent layman attending is Judge Forbes of New Brunswick, Canada.

APPEAL FROM ETHEL DICKENS

Joseph H. Choate Again Asks Aid for Author's Granddaughters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The response to the appeal of the American Executive Committee in behalf of five necessitous granddaughters of the late Charles Dickens has been gratifying, but it will be necessary for our Treasurer to acknowledge still more checks, big and small, before we raise the sum which America ought to contribute as compared with the London fund, now amounting, as we are informed by the English committee, to $30,000. That we shall be finally successful in our appeal to American sentiment we cannot and will not doubt.

In reply to inquiries regarding the circumstances of the proposed beneficiaries, Lord Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice, furnishes us with the following letter, which has hitherto been unpublished in America, and which was addressed to him in his capacity of Chairman of the English Dickens Centenary Fund. It is from Ethel Dickens, one of the five granddaughters:

> I venture, on behalf of myself and of my four unmarried sisters, to bring to the notice of your committee the following statement of fact:
>
> My father, Charles Dickens, Jr., died fifteen years ago, at the comparatively early age of 59. His printing business had—through no fault of his own—failed, and on his death my mother and five unmarried daughters were left absolutely penniless. My mother was subsequently granted a Government pension of £100 a year, which, on her death—three years ago—was continued to my four sisters in the proportion of £25 a year each. Of these four sisters, two (who are not at all strong or fit for work at all) are just barely making a living, one as a kindergarten teacher and the other keeping a home for Indian children. The third is at present out of a post altogether, and while trying to find fresh work has nothing at all but her £25 pension, and the fourth is one of the secretaries at the National Health Society. I, myself, who am supposed to have been fairly successful—I have a copying office—have been working excessively hard for over twenty years. I have had one or two bad attacks of overwork illness, and the doctor now tells me that I have overworked for so long that six months' complete rest is imperative. We have none of us been able to make enough money to save. I do not think, under these circumstances, there can be any question that our circumstances are necessitous. As long as there was no prospect of help of any kind we none of us complained, but have, I think I may say, made the best of a bad job, holding that it is no use fretting about what cannot be helped. Now, however, there seems an opportunity by which anxiety for the future, which naturally gets greater year by year, might be considerably lessened, and we do not wish to throw away such a chance. Poverty through absolutely no fault of one's own cannot possibly be regarded as a disgrace, and I am perfectly sure that my grandfather himself would not, were he now alive, be ashamed of us and of our acknowledgment of our pecuniary position.
>
> I apologize for the length of this letter, which I hope may be excused by the exigency which has occasioned it. I remain, yours sincerely and gratefully,
>
> ETHEL DICKENS.
>
> We, the undersigned daughters of the late Charles Dickens, Jr., desire to indorse the statements which are made in the above letter:
>
> MARY DICKENS,
> CECIL DICKENS,
> DOROTHY DICKENS,
> EVELYN DICKENS.

Americans who read the above will agree that the circumstances are indeed "necessitous" and in part payment of that debt which we in common with all English-reading people owe to the famous author, should hasten to send a gift, no matter how small, to our Treasurer, Mr. Clarence H. Mackay, 253 Broadway, New York.

It is yet time for America to show on the centennial of his birthday whether her people are only grateful for the benefits which they have received from the great English novelist. Please send in your checks at once.

JOSEPH H. CHOATE,
Honorary Chairman of the American Executive Committee.

New York, Feb. 5, 1912.

CHARLES DICKENS.

(1812-1870.)

From time to time men's hearts grow sad—
The night holds earnest of no day,
November's grief forgets the glad
Warm promise of the coming May.
God waits such moments for the birth
Of some great joyous spirit who
Will kindle laughter through the earth
And light the vestal fires anew.

From time to time men's hearts grow hard—
The brotherhood of man's forgot,
The pathos of the children scarred
By want and crime, their bitter lot.
At such an hour God sends to men
A prophet who, with Moses blow,
Cleaves wide the hardened hearts, and then
Doth heal them by the tears that flow.

A hundred years their snows have worn,
A hundred Summer suns have kissed
The hills since thou, O Boz, wast born,
Thou kindly-prophet-humorist.
To us who live to-day it seems
Men must have cried, "Away with fears!
There's come the dreamer of fair dreams.
The king of laughter and of tears!"

NO REASON TO FEAR A GAS ENGINE NAVY

George Westinghouse Says Reported German Plan Would Be a Backward Step.

FEW REAL ADVANTAGES

And Many Objections to the Type, Declares the Inventor—Favors Modified Turbines.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your London cable news of to-day you refer to the British Admiralty's information concerning an internal combustion engine of the Diesel type, to be operated by heavy cheap oils, which is about to be applied to a German war vessel, for which engine it is claimed that if the expectations of its designers are fulfilled it should give the German Navy an immense advantage in its race for supremacy against the British Navy and all other navies of the world.

Is it not possible that the British Admiralty, instead of being alarmed at the prospects of the German dreadnoughts being fitted with Diesel engines, would, as a matter of fact, regard such a step as a retrograde movement of great importance to England?

It has long been known that internal combustion engines operated by oil can produce horse power when running at full load for about six-tenths of a pound of crude oil; but when operating at the low powers required for cruising, the consumtion of oil per horse power would be very greatly increased.

The excessive pressure required for the economical operation of these Diesel engines (800 pounds or more per square inch) has so far proved very difficult of control and has made the wear and tear of such engines excessive, and has rendered the development of the Diesel internal combustion engines of large size a work requiring not only a great deal of time but very heavy experimental expenditures.

From my years of study of the problem, I heartily approve of the following comments of the prominent American naval officer whom you quoted:

> The changing from steam to oil is, however, a thing that will not come in a day by any means. There are too many dangers and too many drawbacks to take chances with a new type of engine until its value is absolutely proved.

The prime reason for giving such weight to the development of the internal combustion engine is the hope of securing thereby a greater cruising radius, which would result from obtaining a horse power for about half of the weight of fuel now required for steam engines, notwithstanding the generally recognized fact that no internal combustion engine of any known type can ever operate with the same freedom from accidents and interruptions as do modern steam engines, turbine or reciprocating.

An objection to the use of oil is the uncertainty of the supply and the certainty that as additional uses are found for petroleum products the cost thereof will constantly increase. A further disadvantage is the fact that oiling stations would be generally required throughout the world and that such stations would be much more easily destroyed than a store of coal.

While the study of internal combustion engines for marine purposes has been going on even greater attention has been given to the better utilization of steam for battleship work, and although the early applications of turbines, with their shafts directly connected to the propellers, have not met the expectations of either naval authorities or engineers, yet it is now possible, by introducing a form of reduction gear between the shaft of the turbine and the propeller shaft, to not only reduce the weight of the equivalent machinery by one-half but also to secure an economy in the use of steam greatly superior to that of the best type of either direct-connected turbines or reciprocating engines for cruising purposes.

The Navy Department has been alive to the importance of this development and has fitted the collier Neptune with turbines and reduction gears, in order to prove the practicability of the latter for large powers, and it may be said that the results obtained in the operation of these gears, coupled with the installation of a number of similar gears which have been operated for many months in land installations, have demonstrated the entire practicability of this method of propelling ships.

Although the Navy Department announced recently a decision not to apply turbines to the new battleships, owing to the superior economy of the reciprocating engines, notably those of the Delaware, especially for cruising purposes, nevertheless it is now said that the department has receded from this determination by awarding a contract to the Fore River Company for the installation of turbine engines in the dreadnought Oklahoma, notwithstanding the North Dakota, with Curtis turbines built by the same contractors, required 40 per cent. more fuel in crossing the Atlantic than was used by the reciprocating engines of the Delaware.

Although I am interested, as one of the inventors and as the manufacturer of the apparatus put in the Neptune, yet I believe I may fairly point out at this moment that it is highly important for the citizens of this country to realize the danger to our naval programme of awaiting the development of an internal combustion engine for marine service, which may never materialize, and at the same time remind them that there is available a class of machinery the adoption of which will put the American Navy in the very strongest possible position.

ILL CONDITIONS IN SCHOOLS.

Mrs. Crane Describes Them Before a Child Welfare Audience.

Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane spoke yesterday before an enthusiastic audience composed of members of the Child Welfare League at the home of the President, Mrs. Walston Hill Brown, 117 East Twenty-first Street. The topic was "Housing Problems in the Public Schools." Members of the city Board of Education were there to hear her. She spoke of the overcrowding of grade schools, due principally to the tendency to build fine high schools and neglect the others, although the attendance, she said, was only 1 to 7; of poor ventilating systems, of dirty schools, due, she said, to the fact that prizes are awarded to the janitor showing the smallest budget, and of poor lighting, where children's eyes were sacrificed to the architect's desire for symmetry in the arrangement of windows. She was followed by Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer, the Honorary President of the league, who spoke of what the league stands for and its object—the protection of childhood.

Among those most interested are Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. John Watson, Dr. and Mrs. Hervey, Dr. Hart of the Sage Foundation Fund, the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Mrs. John E. Milholland, Dr. Albert Shaw, the Rev. Merle St. Croix Wright, Frederick Trevor Hill, Cortlandt Smith, Austin B. Fletcher, Dr. John H. Finley, Mrs. Walston Hill Brown, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, and Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott.

Catholic Charities Incorporated.

Supreme Court Justice Gerard granted permission yesterday for the incorporation of the Association of Catholic Charities. The objects of the association will be to assist the poor, sick, and ignorant by voluntary contributions; to alleviate the condition of defectives, to reform offenders, and to promote co-operation among Catholic workers. The incorporators include Theresa M. J. O'Donohue, D. J. McMahon, Georgine Iselin, Mary E. Kelly, Lucilla P. Borden, Genevieve Garvin Brady, and Mary V. Sleven.

Hebrew Charities Chairmen to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the Chairmen of the various committees of the Board of Patronesses of the United Hebrew Charities on Monday, Feb. 19, at the home of the President, Mrs. Leopold Stern, 27 West Eighty-seventh Street. Important work is to be discussed.

CHARITY BALL BARS THE TURKEY TROT

Oldest Social Body Asks That "Its Dignity Be Preserved," but Dances to Ragtime.

2,500 AT THE WALDORF

Five Ballrooms Crowded with Patrons of Child's Hospital—Mrs. A. S. Sullivan Leads Grand March.

The annual Charity Ball in aid of the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital was held last night at the Waldorf-Astoria and was largely attended. This is not only the oldest public social institution in New York but one which always brings together all sets in society, the dowager dames as well as the débutantes, and a representation of the army and navy.

Many social changes have taken place since 1857, when the first Charity Ball was given. Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan has been leading the grand march for the last thirty years, and last night, in a trailing gown of amethyst velvet with diamond ornaments, she again led the march in which elegant costumes, a notable display of jewels and the dress uniform of the army and navy officers lent unusual brilliancy.

The waltz and Boston were the popular dances indulged in by the patrons, numbering about 2,500, three orchestras furnishing the music. While the Boston is danced to ragtime music, and many danced it to the tune of the Ramshackle Rag and the Rum Tum Tiddle, there was no attempt by any one to introduce the newer forms of dancing. To prevent this a placard was displayed in the cloak rooms of both the men and women, reading: "In order to preserve the dignity of the ball, it is requested that the Turkey Trot and all exaggerated forms of dancing be avoided."

The entire grand suite of the hotel was thrown open, as in former years, for the ball, the main corridor being transformed into an avenue of palms with the ceiling canopied with southern smilax. The west foyer, adjoining the large ballroom, was decorated with Spring flowers and greens. At midnight all five ballrooms, including the Astor Gallery, Myrtle, East, and South Rooms, were crowed with dancers.

Five supper rooms were reserved by the hotel for the exclusive use of those attending the ball. There were many dinners given by hostesses preceding the ball, and many came from the special performance at the Metropolitan Opera and the Junior Cotillion. A large party of members of the St. Christopher League Dances, which is composed of young people, and the Charity Ball Society, which has 400 young men members, were in evidence.

Mrs. Frank S. Witherbee gave a dinner at her home, 4 Fifth Avenue, for her daughter, Miss Evelyn Witherbee, taking her guests afterward to the ball. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt, the Misses Agnes Landon, Louise Knowlton, Beatrice Pratt, Louise Witherbee, and Malcolm Sloane, William Baylis, Seth B. French, Charles Miller, J. Couper Lord, and Alfred Ely. Others giving dinners were Mrs. Edward J. Berwind, Mrs. Jules S. Bache, Mrs. Edmund H. Peaslee, and Mrs. Robert Kelly.

The ballrooms were thrown open at 9 o'clock and the concert music started at 9:30. The rooms began to fill up rapidly about this time, entrance being made to the hotel from the West Thirty-third Street side. Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant was unable to attend, so Col. George Andrews, with his staff, came in his stead from Governors Island. Representing Rear Admiral Leutze, from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, were Lieut. Commander McCormick, Lieut. Commander Bailey, Pay Inspector Littell, and Lieut. Harris.

The Grand March.

The grand march began at 10:45, starting as usual in the Myrtle Room, and as the orchestra began to play the time-honored word "charity" blazed out in electric letters in the large ballroom and the Astor Gallery. The Floor Committee came first, followed by the women of the Ball Committee and officers of the corporation. The Floor Committee passed around the ballroom, forming in line on each side, between which the Ball Committee passed up to the crimson velvet dais at the south end of the room, over which the electric letters shone through a filigree of trailing greens.

Following Mrs. Sullivan in the march were Mrs. Edward J. Berwind, Mrs. Henry Mills Day, Mrs. Charles F. Roe, Mrs. William Robinson, Mrs. Frank S. Witherbee, Mrs. Robert Nicol, Mrs. George H. Benjamin, Miss Ruth Lawrance, Jacob W. Miller and G. Morgan Browne.

Then came some of the prominent guests of the ball, including Col. Andrews and his staff, the other Army and Navy officers. Next in line came the patrons of the ball, especially invited to take part in the opening march, also the consulting and the attending medical staff of the hospital.

The march and ball during its progress was supervised by three Vice Chairmen—James Clark McGuire, Frederick S. Woodruff, and Col. Arthur F. Schermerhorn, and their special aids. It is estimated that the proceeds of the ball will amount to about $14,000 this year.

GRACE MERRITT MARRIED.

Actress Weds Henry K. Merritt, a Businessman of Indianapolis.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6.—Grace Merritt, the actress, known in private life as Grace Merritt Cooke, was married to Henry Keble Merritt, a business man of Indianapolis, in the Church of Mary Magdalene this noon.

The ceremony was performed by the rector, the Rev. Charles Darling, in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride, whose brother-in-law, Charles H. Neely, gave her away, was attired in a white satin gown, with moleskin hat and muff.

Grace Merritt was the first to act the leading feminine part in Bernard Shaw's "Man of Destiny" in this country. She afterward starred for three years in "When Knighthood Was in Flower." For the last two years she has played under the management of William A. Brady and the Shuberts.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The Junior League will hold its annual entertainment for charity this evening at the Plaza, which will consist of tableaux from Dulac's Arabian scenes, and a one-act comedy, "How the Vote Was Won," in which the principal débutantes of the season will take part. The second performance will be given to-morrow night.

The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, who have been at the Ritz-Carlton, returned yesterday to Washington.

The Misses Furniss of 280 Madison Avenue are giving a dinner to-night for Ambassador and Mrs. Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Choate have returned from Europe and are at the Hotel Gotham.

Miss Grace S. Brewster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Brewster, and King Smith will be married this afternoon at 4:30 in the Rutgers Presbyterian Church, Seventy-third Street and Broadway. A reception will follow at the St. Regis.

Mrs. William E. Carleton gave a supper party for twelve last night at the Charity Ball for her daughter, Miss Ruth Carleton, and Miss Patterson of Albany.

Mrs. Franklin Osgood is giving a bridge at the Hotel Manhattan on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Albert Symington and her daughter, Miss Hazel Symington, are booked to sail on Feb. 20 on the Caronia. They will make a motor tour of Italy, France, and England, returning here about June 1 to spend the Summer at Monmouth Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Minturn, (Miss Sarah Robbins,) who spent the early part of the Winter with Mr. and Mrs. Julian Robbins, are now with Mr. Minturn's mother, Mrs. John W. Minturn, at 13 East Sixty-ninth Street.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer and the Misses Alice and Julie Meyer are at the Belmont, en route to Boston.

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Granville Brown, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Post Brown, and C. Alan Hudson will take place at 4 o'clock today in the Church of the Incarnation. There will be no reception, owing to mourning in the bride's family. Mr. Hudson and his bride have changed their plans, and instead of going to South America will sail direct for Europe.

Mrs. James Deering and Mrs. Theron Pierce are giving a small dance at Sherry's this evening.

Mrs. Henry Alfred Todd and Mrs. John Bassett Moore will give a small dance on Friday evening for their débutante daughters, Miss Lisa Todd and Miss Anne Moore, at the Burritt Studios, 35 East Thirty-second Street.

A dance will be given to-night in the studios of A. A. Anderson. The Misses Bessie and Agnes Claflin are the principal hostesses.

LAST JUNIOR COTILLION.

Waltzes and Two-Steps the Only Dances Played by the Orchestra.

The third and last of the season's Junior Cotillions was danced in Sherry's large ballroom last night. A number of dinners preceded it, among the hostesses being Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, Mrs. Albert Symington, Mrs. Francis W. Murray, Mrs. John I. Kane, and Mrs. Arthur Murray Dodge.

The patronesses, who received, were Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. William Church Osborn, and Mrs. Howland Davis. As usual the guests began arriving at 10 o'clock and supper was served at midnight in the small ballroom. As at the preceding dances of this Winter there was no cotillion, and waltz and two-step music was the only kind the orchestra played.

Among the dancers were the Misses Sybil Davis, Mary Kane, Hazen Symington, Anne Hardon, Vieva Fisher, Louisa Johnson, Jane Morgan, Caroline Murray, Eugenie Philbin, Justine Ingersoll, Elizabeth Thompson, Jennie Thompson, Noel Johnston, Hope Warren, Helen Gourd, Elizabeth Stillman Kendall, Winifred Chisolm, Emily and Rosalie Coe, Katharine Sands, Urling Sibley, Anita Merle-Smith, Charlotte and Frances Wyeth, Margaret Knapp, Jean Morris, Ruth Moller, Cornelia and Katharine Chapin, Marjorie and Florence Blair, Bessie and Agnes Claflin, Susan Colgate, Olivia Cutting, Mildred Rives, Alice Damrosch, Augusta Dixon, Mary Chapman Edgar, Alice Ely, Harriet Ferry, Jeannette Whitlock, Constance Williams, Caroline Murray, Dorothy Perkins, Allison Pierce, Beatrice Elliott, Aileen Osborn, Harriet Glover, Helen Huntington, Grace and Frances Henry, Margreta Beekman, Dorothy Porter, Elizabeth Russell, Emily Sherman, Rosamond Sherman, and Nina Chisolm.

MISS JULIANA DEYO WEDS.

Married to the Rev. John B. Voorhees in Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas.

The wedding of Miss Juliana D. Deyo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Deyo, to the Rev. John Brownlee Voorhees, took place yesterday at 4:30 in the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. The Rev. Malcolm James McLeod officiated.

The bride wore a gown of white satin festooned with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers. Her veil of tulle was caught up with a coronet of orange blossoms.

Miss Cornelia Du B. Deyo attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink satin topped with a hat of pink tulle and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses Anna E. Donald, Grace S. Pullman, Mary L. Bloomer, and Margaret Deyo, who wore gowns of blue satin with pink chiffon tunics and hats of pink tulle. They also carried bouquets of pink roses.

Dr. Lane Cooper acted as best man. The ushers included the Rev. Irving C. Berg of Catskill, N. Y.; Howard E. Van Ness of Little Falls, N. J.; the Rev. Clifford P. Case of Poughkeepsie, Dr. Robert Denniston of Dobbs Ferry, David C. Bennett, Jr., and the Rev. H. C. Weber of this city.

After the wedding ceremony a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 64 West Forty-seventh Street, for relatives and intimate friends. Later the couple left for their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

O'NEILL—BLUMENTHAL.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. H. Umsted of 209 West Ninety-seventh Street announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Rhea O'Neill, to Alexander S. Blumenthal, son of the late Gustave Blumenthal and Mrs. M. BROADWAY BLOCKED BY THE OPERA CROWD 400 Standing Places Sold in Record Time and a Ticketless Man Arrested.

JUST TETRAZZINI AND CARUSO

They Sang Together for the First Time in Years in an All-Star Cast —Hence the Excitement.

Traffic was blocked on Broadway last evening, and it was as difficult to walk on the sidewalks as it is on New Year's eve; a performance of opera was responsible for this state of affairs. It occurred to somebody at the Metropolitan Opera House a week or so ago that a performance of "Rigoletto" with an old-fashioned all-star cast might draw a house of large proportions.

Events proved that this prognostication was quite correct. When the experiment was tried last evening, the crowd, even though it was not a subscription night and all the tickets had been placed on sale, was quite unprecedented. Recent seasons, at any rate, have seen nothing like it. About 8 o'clock it was impossible to walk past the theatre, the crowd was so great, and the line extended for over a block down Broadway.

One man who had no ticket tried to get in through the front door. He met with discouragement and finally was led out by John Brown to a policeman on the sidewalk, who escorted him to the Night Court, where he was charged with disorderly conduct. Mr. Bull, who has been at the front door for so long that no regular subscriber of the opera can remember anybody else there, said that he couldn't recall a similar night within the past five years, certainly not on an extra night.

The employes of the house, however, handled the crowd in spendid shape. Opera-goers were rushed through the doors and into their seats as fast as possible. Earl Lewis and his assistants disposed of 400 standing places at the box office in the record time of twenty minutes.

The reason for all this excitement was the fact that Mme. Tetrazzini, Mrs. Homer, Messrs. Caruso, Renaud, and Rothier were gathered together, on one stage. "Star" casts of this description were once common here. It is not so very long ago that Mme. Sembrich, Mr. Caruso, Mr. Scotti, and Mrs. Homer were often heard together in this opera. Casts including Mme. Melba, Mr. Bonci, and Mr. Renaud, have been heard at the Manhattan Opera House within recent years.

Lately, however, since Mme. Sembrich retired, Mr. Caruso has seldom appeared in operas demanding the services of light sopranos. He had not been heard as the Duke in "Rigoletto," for instance, for three years. Mrs. Homer, too, relinquished the rôle of Maddalena some time ago. Mme. Tetrazzini and Mr. Renaud, however, have sung their respective parts in the opera during the current season at this house.

An interesting feature of the performance was the fact that Mme. Tetrazzini and Mr. Caruso have not been heard together since the days, before either of them had achieved fame, when they were both singing in Russia. Of course, they had never sung together in New York before last night. They seemed to take delight in their appearance together, and after the duet in the second act they ran out again and again in response to such applause as is not often heard in this theatre.

The audience intermingled "bis" with its "bravos," but to no effect. As Mr. Caruso left the stage after the last recall Mme. Tetrazzini patted him on the back. The house laughed, but quickly subsided when she began to sing the "Caro Nome" air. Of course she received tribute for that. The other signals for great applause came after the duet between Mme. Tetrazzini and Mr. Renaud in the third act, after the quartet, and after the "La Donna Mobile" air.

All the singers were in good voice. Mr. Renaud has not been heard to such good advantage this season. His Rigoletto is always a consummate piece of acting. As for Mr. Caruso, it seems a pity that he can't sing parts like the Duke oftener, now that he has acquired a moderation and finesse, which were often lacking in his performances when he first sang such parts here several years ago. It is pleasant, too, to hear Maddalena's music as well sung as it was.

Henry B. Herts, Theatre Architect, Ill.

Henry B. Herts, the theatre architect and consulting architect of the New York Fire Department, is ill at his home, 210 West 70th Street, and as a result work on the plans for several new theatres is halted. Mr. Herts was operated on for abdominal trouble yesterday by Dr. John Erdman and Police Surgeon Fred Schoenberger. Mr. Herts designed the New Amsterdam, Hudson, Lyceum, Fulton, Gaiety, Liberty, Harris, Plaza and Jackson theatres, and the Aerial Gardens and Academy of Music, Brooklyn. He has been at work on plans for three playhouses in the Time Square neighborhood, including H. H. Frazee's Longacre Theatre in West 47th Street.

Ted D. Marks Dangerouly Ill.

Ted D. Marks, the old-time theatrical manager, who has been ill for several weeks, was in a dangerous condition last night. He is at the new Hotel Metropole, in West Forty-third Street, but no one has been allowed to see him for several days. Arrangements are being made to hold a benefit performance for him at Cohan's Theatre on Feb. 15. Mr. Marks is suffering from cirrhosis of the liver. He was taken ill while on the road as business manager for "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and had to return to New York. He has become gradually worse ever since.

PROF. GEORGE J. BRUSH DEAD

Emeritus Professor of Yale Sheffield and a Noted Mineralogist.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 6.—George Jarvis Brush, Professor Emeritus at the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, and a Director of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, died at his home here to-day after a long illness.

Prof. Brush was a mineralogist who had written extensively on many phases of geology, and was a member of most of the great scientific societies of the world. He studied under Yale's famous professor of sciences, Prof. Benjamin Silliman. He was graduated from Yale in 1852, and after a year in the University of Virginia and two years' study in Europe he was called to Yale and the newly formed Sheffield Scientific School. He became Professor Emeritus in 1898.

Prof. Brush was born in Brooklyn in 1831, the son of Jarvis Brush. He attended private schools to prepare for college. He was a close friend of Joseph Earl Sheffield, who in 1904 gave a large sum of money to the school bearing his name. Prof. Brush gave to the school recently his collection of minerals, and a fund of $10,000 for its maintenance. At the time of his death he was President of the Board of Directors of the school. He was married in 1864 to Harriet Silliman Trumbull. Three daughters survive him.

Ex-Mayor Hendrick of New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6.—Albert C. Hendrick, former Mayor and former Chief of the New Haven Fire Department, died early to-day at his home here after a long illness. To his work as head of the Fire Department the city owes its present permanent organization. As a fire fighter he was well known during his active life throughout the State. He was head of the Fire Chiefs' Association of the State, a body made up of former actives. Mr. Hendrick was about 70 years old and unmarried.

GEN. JAMES B. WEAVER DEAD.

Twice Candidate for President on Populist and Greenback Tickets.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 6.—Gen. James B. Weaver, Populist candidate for President in 1892, died at the home of relatives here to-day. He was 79 years old. He had been ill only a few days.

James Baird Weaver, twice candidate for the Presidency of the United States, five times a candidate for Congress and three times elected, drove an ox team across the prairies from his home in Dayton, Ohio, to Iowa when he was 20 years old. He was born in June, 1833.

In 1880 he was nominated by the Greenback Party for the Presidency and ran against Garfield and Hancock. He got more than 300,000 votes, most of them in Michigan and Missouri. As the Populist candidate he received twenty-two Electoral votes.

The most notable thing Gen. Weaver ever did was to introduce a resolution into the House in January, 1880, providing for the Government's taking the control of the issuing of money away from the National banks and the banking corporations and placing the sole right to issue money in the hands of the central Government.

Gen. Weaver was a Prohibitionist and a stanch Methodist. He served in the civil war and was brevetted Brigadier General.

Col. Beverly Wrenn.

Col. Beverly Winfred Wrenn, who served in the civil war on Gen. Robert E. Lee's staff, died in Mrs. Malley's sanitarium, 269 West Seventy-first Street, last night as the result of a small cut in his left foot. Blood poisoning set in and last Saturday his left leg was amputated. The Colonel was 67 years old and could not rally from the operation. Having a knowledge of telegraphy, Col. Wrenn joined Gen. Jackson at the outbreak of the civil war. As an aide to Gen. Lee he is said to have carried the message offering to discuss terms of surrender with Grant at Appomattox. After the war he was associated with Henry B. Plant and became General Manager of the Plant lines.

JOHN B. DORIS DEAD.

Old Circus and Theatrical Manager and Once a Politician.

John B. Doris, 65 years old, an old theatrical manager, died at his home, 254 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday morning after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Doris went into the show business when he was 14 years old. He and Dan Rice ran away from home and joined Barnum's circus, where they eventually obtained the lemonade privilege. Doris later became associated with George Bachelder of Providence, and together they put out the John B. Doris Circus in 1865. In 1881 Mr. Doris bought the Bachelder interests, and conducted the show alone until 1889, when he gave up the business and came to New York.

Shortly afterward he opened the Doris Museum in Eighth Avenue between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Streets, and then sold out to Huber, then proprietor of Huber's Museum in Fourteenth Street. Mr. Doris then took over the theatre at Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, which later became the Princess, and produced a number of plays there. He was associated with the Sire Brothers in several productions and with William A. Brady in the production of "The Turtle." He was also in politics for a time, and became a Democratic district leader.

GOLD SHIPMENTS MADE FOR ITALY

At Least This Is the Belief in the Street, Though the Exports Are Going to Paris.

$1,000,000 MORE ENGAGED

Brings the Total on This Movement to $5,000,000—War Between Italy and Turkey Explains the Need.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the shipment of another $1,000,000 to Paris by to-morrow's steamer, making $5,000,000 all told since gold exports began last Friday. All of this has been taken by Lazard Frères. In banking circles the belief has gained ground that this gold is being sent through France to Italy, or at all events is being shipped to Paris to take the place of gold set aside there for Italy's use.

Ever since the war between Italy and Turkey began it has been expected that sooner or later Italy would call upon the other money markets to supply it with gold, and the position of the international markets now and for some time past has been such that the New York market has been the cheapest and the one which could with least inconvenience to itself spare a considerable amount of gold. It was to this market, therefore, that Europe turned when the special demand arose which is being satisfied by this export movement.

The bankers have been silent regarding the reasons for this outflow which is not justified on the ordinary basis of exchange operations. Again, yesterday, when asked whether the gold was really destined for Italy the bankers said that they could not say. This non-committal attitude strengthened rather than weakened the belief that the gold was going to Italy. The possibility that special reasons may exist for a gold demand in Italy at this time might well account, it was thought, for surrounding the export with some secrecy.

It was recalled in this connection that in 1905 a large shipment of gold was arranged through the banking house of Goldman, Sachs & Co. under circumstances which gave to the shipments some such interest as attaches to the present movement. Exchange rates then, as now, did not explain the shipments. It turned out afterward that the gold had been taken for Japan and that it was the expressed desire of the Japanese that the shipments should be kept secret as far as possible. It was immediately known, of course, that the gold had been taken, but its destination was not made known until several months later. Then it appeared in the Government's foreign trade report as having been shipped to Japan from San Francisco. The movement then amounted all told to $5,700,000. The war between Japan and Russia afforded the explanation. This incident is regarded as supporting the present belief that the Italo-Turkish war is at the bottom of the present gold movement.

The bankers shipping the gold were large sellers of French exchange yesterday. They were thus reimbursing themselves, it was believed, for the gold which is to go by to-morrow's steamer. Exchange has been similarly sold against the previous two shipments of $2,000,000 each, one by Saturday's and one by yesterday's steamer. The exchange market was very irregular during the day but closed at a decline. This ordinarily would lessen the chances of further gold shipments, but the special conditions evidently surrounding the present export may well outbalance ordinary exchange market considertions.

It has been reported lately that Italy was borrowing money in Paris, and bankers there think it likely that Italian treasury bills have been placed in Paris as a temporary means of financing expenditures necessitated by the war with Turkey. Exports of gold from New York might well be made a part of such an arrangement, for it would relieve the Paris market of the necessity of giving up any of its own gold to meet the needs of Italy.

SEEKS TRUST CLUE IN HIDES.

Government Confronts Witness in Packers' Case with His Own Letter.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Directing all its efforts against Swift & Co., the Government to-day was able to establish several important points by definite dates. With the introduction of a departmental letter written by John M. Chaplin, chief accountant for Swift & Co., who was on the stand, it was shown that the hide allowance was discontinued by that company Nov. 18, 1907.

District Attorney James H. Wilkerson also brought out the fact that after the organization of the National Packing Company, March 18, 1903, allowances for hides and by-products were gradually reduced, while the killing charge was increased from $1.75 to $2.75.

The letter identified by Chaplin as having been written and signed by him reads:

> Chicago, Nov. 15, 1907.
>
> Mr. W. G. Hopkins—Beef Costs—Effective with killing Nov. 18. Please discontinue making any credit for hides in arriving at dressed cost of beef. Awaiting your reply, yours respectfully.
>
> J. M. CHAPLIN.

The Government charges that the packers, in effecting the alleged conspiracy, discontinued hide allowances by concerted action in November, 1907, and resumed them in April, 1909.

The discontinuance or resumption of the hide allowances increased or decreased the price of dressed beef, according to the Government, and made the operations of the alleged trust easier.

The packers assert, however, that allowances for hides do not affect the price of beef, but that market conditions were responsible for taking off the allowances. In support of this, they point out that comparison of their wholesale selling prices every week shows that the price of beef was as low, and in some instances lower, after the allowance was taken off than before, or after it had been resumed.

RECEIVER FOR CEMENT CO.

Stockholders' Application Gives Overproduction and Competition as Reason.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Feb. 6.—The American Cement Company, a $2,000,000 corporation, was thrown into the hands of a receiver to-day upon the application of stockholders who allege that competition and production had injured the business of the company and that unless it was run under the supervision of the court there would be a great loss to creditors and stockholders.

Judge McPherson, in the United States District Court, appointed Sidney W. Keith, Robert W. Lesley, and John Scott, Jr., as receivers for the company, and the bond was fixed at $20,000.

Application for the receivership was made by Frank G. Thompson, who owns 940 shares of the stock and $10,000 in bonds, and by Joseph S. Lovering, who holds 200 shares of stock and $11,000 in bonds.

The American Cement Company controls nine subsidiary concerns. They are: Lesley-Trindle Company, Reliance Cement Company, North American Portland Cement Company, Norfolk Portland Cement Company, Vindex Land Company, and United Building Material Company.

The parent company was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey on Aug. 31, 1899, with a capital stock of $2,100,000. Of this amount 42,000 shares of stock were issued. The present funded indebtedness is represented by outstanding bonds with a face value of $550,000 secured by mortgage executed by the Girard Trust Company, under which 9,991 shares of stock is pledged together with certain real estate in New York and Virginia.

In making application for the receivership the petitioners set forth that the indebtedness of the company is $925,000 and the face assets are $1,875,000, but the assets represent the face value of the securities and would be hard to realize upon.

TAKES CARNEGIE VAULTS.

Mercantile Safe Deposit Company Receives Transfer from the Original Buyers.

In accordance with the plan announced last month in THE TIMES by which the Carnegie Safe Deposit's Company's vaults at 115 Broadway were bought by a group of bankers identified with the Chase National Bank, the Guaranty Trust Company, and the American Exchange National Bank, who later took over the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company from the Bankers' Trust Company, the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company has increased its stock and purchased the Carnegie vaults from the original buyers.

The Mercantile Safe Deposit Company, which was formerly owned by the Equitable Life along with the Mercantile Trust Company, passed to the Bankers' Trust Company when the Equitable Trust Company absorbed the Mercantile Trust. Since the Equitable fire, which burned out the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company, the boxholders have to a large extent transferred their patronage to the Carnegie vaults. The group of bankers who have turned over the Carnegie Company's old vaults to their recently acquired Mercantile Safe Deposit Company purchased the vaults from the State Banking Department, which is liquidating the bankrupt Carnegie Company, for $375,000. The vaults, which were built of armor plate by the Bethlehem Steel Company, originally cost in the neighborhood of $890,000, but until the Equitable fire were a losing investment. Attempts had been made by the State Superintendent of Banking Van Tuyl to sell them to the Guaranty Trust Company, which is building across the street, but engineers found that they were built so that they could not be taken apart and moved.

In reorganizing the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company under the new control the old President of the company, William Giblin, who narrowly escaped death in the fire, has been re-elected, along with former Vice President John B. Russell. Lawrence A. Ramage was elected Treasurer and will have charge at the new location.

NEVADA-UTAH'S SCHEDULES.

Admitted Liabilities $185,033—Nominal Assets $309,486 and Much Stock.

Schedules in bankruptcy of the Nevada-Utah Mines & Smelters Corporation of 100 Broadway show liabilities $185,033, in addition to which there are $181,500 disputed claims. Of the admitted liabilities there are secured liabilities $140,000, unsecured $44,258, and money due for wages $775. The nominal assets are $309,486, consisting of accounts, $307,743; office furniture and stamps, $1,468, and cash, $275. In addition to those assets the corporation has various other assets of unknown value, consisting of 1,458,500 shares of stock of various mining companies, some shares of which are in the hands of Sheriff Harburger on attachments, and some held by banks as collateral; an interest and equities in 1,215,000 shares of stock of other mining companies, the shares being pledged as collateral; mining claims in the Highland District, Nevada, and a claim to the Peter Martin Ranch of 400 acres in Beaver County, Utah.

The larger holdings of stocks are 500,000 shares of Manhattan Copper and Gold Company, 300,000 shares of Day-Bristol Consolidated Mining Company, 547,000 shares of Imperial Gold and Copper Company, 100,000 shares of Amalgamated Pioche Mines and Smelters Corporation, interest in 300,000 shares of Ohio-Kentucky Consolidated Mining Company of Utah, possible equity in 200,000 shares of the Consolidated Pioche Mining Company, and equity in 700,000 shares of Prince Mining Company.

Among the creditors are L. Vogelstein & Co., New York, $90,000; Merchants' National Bank of Salt Lake, $125,000, disputed; National Bank of Republic, Salt Lake, $21,500, disputed; Bristol Consolidated Mining Company, $40,000; Rocky Mountain Investment Company, Salt Lake, $25,000, disputed; Paterson, N. J., National Bank, $7,875, and C. J. Caughey, $13,977.

PLANNING FRUIT TRUST.

California Producers Organizing Against the Middleman.

Notwithstanding the many prosecutions of trusts, the producers of fruits and other foodstuffs on the Pacific Coast are planning, according to the Los Angeles correspondent of The New York Packer, a gigantic trust to market their products in the East at prices which shall prove more satisfactory than those which they now obtain. Says The Packer in its current issue:

"On the Pacific Coast protective leagues, corporations, trust-forming supply companies, combinations to absolutely control the supply and entire output, or as much of it as possible, are either already in existence or are in the 'bornin'.'

"Out of California alone, with a normal crop, there are shipped every year more than 100,000 carloads of fruits, vegetables, and nuts in their different states of preparation, valued at more than $125,000,000. From 75 to 90 per cent. of this entire output is in the hands of a few managers, and in many cases these managers use the same combination agents and controlled avenues of distribution. The producers everywhere are uniting and combining on a common ground for a common good and to a common end—control.

"At present the associations are confined to their own particular kind of product, but the ultimate aim is to affiliate all the associations handling coast products under one head, establish branch houses in all the Eastern markets under management of salaried employes, and say good-bye to the middleman."

STEEL COMPANY IN TROUBLE.

Harrisburg Plant Is Placed in the Hands of Receivers.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Feb. 6.—The Central Iron and Steel Company, which operates the large iron and steel works in this city, was placed in the hands of receivers late to-day by presiding Judge Kunkel of the Dauphin County Court on petition of Henry Gilbert & Son of this city, creditors, and Mrs. Sarah G. McCauley, also of this city, a stockholder.

Charles L. Bailey, Jr., an attorney, and James M. Cameron of this city, and J. V. W. Reynders of Steelton, Penn., Vice President of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, were appointed receivers.

Plenty of orders are booked, but inability to convert a large stock of raw material into money, is generally supposed to be the cause of the proceedings in court.

The order of the court gives the receivers authority to operate the plant and to purchase supplies, as well as to sell raw material, and it is believed that the plant will be kept in operation.

The company has a capitalization of $2,000,000, most of the stock being held here, and a bond issue of $1,239,000. The value of the plant, it is said, is above all liabilities and the bonds.

CASH FOR NEW OIL STOCK

But the $29,000,000 Required Is to be Paid Out of Surplus.

Although official information was not obtainable yesterday of the exact terms on which the increase of $29,000,000 in the stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will be offered to stockholders, it was reported that it would be put out at par. The company has a surplus estimated at around $30,000,000 and it is believed that the stockholders will receive a cash dividend which would be applicable on the subscriptions to the new stock. This was the plan followed by the Lackawanna and the Lehigh Valley railroads in distributing the stocks of their coal companies.

The Vacuum Oil Company, which is another Standard Oil subsidiary with assets far above the capitalization, has also planned a large increase in its stock. At the annual meeting, to be held Feb. 29, the shareholders will vote on a proposal to increase the capital from $2,500,000 to $12,500,000. The assets of the company have been increased since the Government report of 1906 of the foreign properties of the Colonial Oil Company.

The annual meeting of the Borne-Scrymser Company, a former subsidiary of the Standard Oil, will be held at Claremont, N. J., Feb. 26, at 2 P. M. Whole shareholders of record Feb. 15 will be entitled to vote.

WALL STREET LOOKS FOR MORSE'S RETURN

Some Talk of His Fabled Cache Abroad and Two Heavy Suitcases He Never Brought Back.

NONE DOUBT HE'LL BE BACK

But Question How High Up He Can Get in Financial Circles—Can't Be Identified with Banks.

When the financial community read in the newspapers yesterday morning of the remarkably sudden recovery of Charles W. Morse since his pardon by President Taft, it asked the question at once about his possible return to the financial world here. None doubted that with his health restored he will appear once more in Wall Street, but how far he could hope to get back into high financial circles was a question left in doubt. Attempts to put him into bankruptcy while he was under indictment in 1908 were given up because his creditors reluctantly concluded that everything he had had been already pledged.

The concensus of opinion yesterday among those who suffered financially by Morse's operations was that he was really "broke," that he hadn't a "sou-marque," as one man put it, but, on the other hand, there were those who still believed that the mysterious little man had "a pile salted down somewhere" when he saw the crash coming, and that he would soon be heard of again in banking affairs. There were none, even among those who regard him almost with awe, who were ready to say that he could again break openly into the banking field. His name would be a blight on any bank, they conceded.

If Morse has any money left, all the lawyers who were after it between 1907 and 1909 were unable to find it. Rumors, however, are plentiful. There is the old story which has been whispered since the panic that the "Ice King," when he made a hurried trip to Europe just before the crash came in 1907, went away with about all he could transport. It has been told circumstantially that on that trip he carried two suitcases in a cab to the pier, struggled with them himself up the gangplank, and never let them get out of his sight all the way across. There were no carefully guarded suitcases with him when he came back.

Stage Setting for His Return.

If he goes to Carlsbad now, and no one suggests that he will neglect to properly stage his return to affairs with a becoming period of convalescence, it will bring him several thousand miles nearer to the fabled cache abroad.

Against the theory that Morse had a secret store of funds, it was pointed out yesterday that it was by subscription among his relatives and friends that money was supplied for his costly defense. Again, it has been repeatedly reported that it has been Morse's relatives who have been supplying him with funds since he went to Atlanta prison.

There are no tangible equities left to the ex-banker in the properties which he once dominated. His two principal banks, the National Bank of North America, and the New Amsterdam National, have passed out of existence and their final assets are being liquidated for the benefit of the stockholders. Morse's stock in these banks had been pledged to secure loans and has since been legally disposed of. The same course has been followed in the case of his other stocks.

The Hudson Navigation Company, which was his first venture in the steamship business in these waters, passed into the control of the Assets Realization Company, which is liquidating the National Bank of North America. Officers of this company, which was formed in 1800, long before Morse became active in Wall Street, said yesterday that Morse never owned a share of their stock and that the company had had no dealings with him of any sort since his conviction.

His $60,000,000 Consolidated Steamship Lines, which was one of the first of his companies to go into the hands of a receiver at the time of the panic, likewise has passed irretrievably from him. In the reorganization it was split into the original down East lines, which he used as a nucleus in bringing together practically all of the coastwise steamship interests of the Atlantic Coast, and the South Atlantic companies, which are now known as the Atlantic, Gulf, and West Steamship Company.

During the reorganization period when Morse was out on bail he made his last fight in an attempt to hold the down East lines which had been grouped in the Metropolitan Steamship Company. He had organized the Morse Securities Company in Maine with a capital of $10,000,000 and it was said at the time raised nearly $1,000,000 for the purpose of financing the reorganization. His Morse securities, although he made a secret of his plans in connection with it, was designed, according to the general understanding, to buy up the Morse securities which were then coming out in large batches under foreclosure proceedings and pilot the various enterprises through to success. Morse was to serve the company gratis and lend his talents for reorganization and high finance.

Subscriptions to the Morse Securities Company came in liberally not only from Morse's Eastern friends, but from men in Wall Street who had already sunk small fortunes in his inflated enterprises. His success in getting cash at a time when he was out on bail, and from men who had lost in backing him before was one of the marvels of his personality. It was the recollection of wonders he worked in that brief fight in 1908 which made men who knew him say yesterday that if he was really to recover he would surely be "in the game" again.

His Old Assets Gone from Him.

Even the disaster which overtook the Morse Securities Company would not affect him now, they predicted. What actually happened to the money subscribed to help him pull the Metropolitan Steamship Company out of the wreck has never been definitely told. Morse used funds liberally at the time to buy up the floating debt of the company, hoping to take care of the bonds by the exchange of securities in the new company he was to organize. The bought-up claims were to be exchanged for stock. When the company finally went under the hammer Morse was at the sale, but was not the successful bidder. John W. McKinnon of the Assets Realization Company and a member of the Board of Reorganization Managers of the Metropolitan Steamship Company got the property, and for a long time it was believed that Morse's statement that he had the consent of a majority of the old bondholders to his plan of reorganization was true, and that he was to be in control.

The Metropolitan Steamship Company was organized in New Jersey according to the plan and did exchange its bonds for the bonds of the original company and gave notes and some more of its bonds in payment of preferred claims while stock went to satisfy the holders of assenting notes and other claims of the old company. Whether much or little of this stock went to Morse's supporters is not known, but actual stock control of the company rests with the Metropolitan Steamship Lines, another New Jersey Company which operates, in addition, two steamers on the Pacific Coast.

There is nothing to indicate that Morse has a string tied to this company, which is credited with being largely controlled by New York, New Haven & Hartford interests. The officers are Thomas Achenbach of New York, President; J. W. McKinnon, Vice President. Other officers are Walter W. Reid of Waterville, Me., and Campbell Carrington. The last named has been associated with Morse, and Waterville, Me., is in the heart of the country from which most of the Morse support has come.

Paper Reports Six Months' Earnings.

The International Paper Company, which has changed its fiscal year to end Dec. 31 instead of June 30, has issued a report covering the last six months of 1911. It shows gross earnings of $11,237,561 against $23,095,746 for the full year ended June 30. Costs of raw material and general expenses were $9,599,967 for the six months period against $20,208,344 for the previous full year, leaving net profits of $1,637,594. For the previous fiscal year the net was $2,887,402. After the payment of preferred dividends there remained a surplus of $807,974, bringing the total surplus up to $9,646,078.

TINPLATE MAKERS COMBINE.

Independents Organize Association with $100,000,000 Capital.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 6.—Representing a capitalization of $100,000,000, the independent tin plate manufacturers of the United States obtained a charter in Common Pleas Court from Judge Thomas D. Carnahan to-day under the name of the Association of Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers.

Headquarters of the new association will be located here. The organization was formed, it is said, after the various manufacturers of tin plate in the country consulted leading corporation lawyers of the United States for the purpose of framing an association which would combine the independent concerns for their own protection, but in a manner that would not conflict with the Sherman anti-trust law.

No attempt will be made, it is stated, by the new association, to fix the prices of products. Its principal mission will be "the encouragement and protection of trade and commerce." Foreign consumption, transportation, and markets, labor conditions throughout the world, safety devices for the protection of employes, and social intercourse of the members of the association are named in the application as the objects sought.

The organizers of the association are: George W. Niedringhaus, Second Vice President and Director of the National Enameling and Stamping Company, St. Louis, Mo.; W. A. Thomas, Vice President Thomas Steel Company, Niles, Ohio; Joseph B. Andrews, Director Newport Rolling Mill Company, Newport, Ky.; R. D. Campbell, Treasurer Allegheny Steel Company, Breckenridge, Penn.; W. H. Horner, district manager American Rolling Mill Company of Middletown and Zanesville, Ohio; J. J. O'Conner, President Washington Tin Plate Company, Pittsburgh; C. R. Neiman of the Parkersburg Iron and Steel Company, Parkersburg, West Va., and J. W. Carnahan of the Carnahan Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Canton, Ohio.

Other independent manufacturers are reported to be members of the association.

EXPRESS RATE REVISION.

Special Committee to Report to the Inter-State Commission.

A committee consisting of representatives of the Inter-State Commerce Commission and of the Express Rate Conference and of the express companies themselves is to be formed, to report to the Inter-State Commerce Commission what amendments should be made to the rules and regulations of the express companies. The Express Rate Conference will meet to-morrow in the rooms of the Merchants' Association to select its delegates.

Henry R. Towne, President of the Merchants' Association, speaking yesterday of the investigation by the Inter-State Commerce Commission of express charges, said that the most important thing accomplished by it is the offer of the express companies to join an effort to suit their rules and regulations to the needs of shippers, for this shows a recognition on their part of the need of reform.

"But the most noteworthy matter," he went on, "is the excessive charge collected by the railroads from the express companies. Thus, the Great Northern Express Company turns over 70 per cent. of its gross receipts to the railroad company. This shows that the actual cost of running an express company is 30 per cent. of its gross receipts.

"The railways make great profits. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul during the year ended June 30, 1911, collected $232,084 from express companies, or 55 per cent. of their gross receipts. In return it performed services which cost it $78,203, so its net profit from the express business was 196 per cent., or $153,876. The Chicago Great Western Railroad collected in the same year $66,911 from express companies, and its extra expenses therefrom were $27,967. Its net profit was $38,944, or 139 per cent."

The public has to pay for these enormous profits, and Mr. Towne points out that while it is true there has been no increase in the rate for 100 pounds, there have been many increases for shipments of less than 100 pounds, which form the bulk of the business.

BEGIN BATHTUB TRUST TRIAL.

Indictments Against Four Men Dismissed—Must Prove Conspiracy.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 6.—In the Government's criminal case against the Bathtub Trust, which began before United States District Judge A. C. Angell here to-day, the Government passed for cause the first twelve jurors drawn. Five farmers, a merchant, a hotel keeper, a watchman, a real estate dealer, an insurance agent, a druggist, and a motorman sat in the jury box at this evening's adjournment.

Both sides questioned the prospective jurors as to whether they had ever been interested in any way in patent rights and whether they had ever been connected with any corporations.

Of the two indictments, conspiracy and combination, the Government elected to go to trial first with the conspiracy charge.

John Clifford, general manager of the L. Wolff Company of Chicago and one of the individual defendants, was excused by Judge Angell from attending the trial because of illness.

J. E. Wright, Secretary of the Wheeling Enamelled Iron Company of Wheeling, West Va., was not present, and a physician's telegram certifying that the defendant was confined to his house by serious illness was accepted by Judge Angell.

The Government nolle prossed the indictments against W. C. Winfield of Warren, Ohio; J. J. Mahoney of Chattanooga, Tenn.; George W. Frauzheim of Wheeling, West Va., and Bert O. Tilden, Secretary of the Colwell Lead Company of New York.

Attorney Robert B. Honeyman of New York took charge of the defense, assisted by Henry E. Bodman of Detroit, Ex-Lieut. Gov. Walter Lyon of Pittsburgh, John Hunter of Pittsburgh, Judge Lewis Brucker of Mansfield, Ohio; Judge Carey of Pittsburgh, and Attorney McFall of Indianapolis also appeared as counsel for some of the defendants.

At the Government table were Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the Attorney General; former United States District Attorney Frank H. Watson of Detroit, United States District Attorney Arthur Tuttle, and Special Agent Joseph Darling of the Department of Justice.

The nolle prosse actions to-day reduced the number of defendants to thirteen firms and twenty-four individuals.

DETINNING PROFITS HIGHER.

Vulcan Company Reports for Nine Months of New Fiscal Year.

In order to conform its annual statements to the period covered by reports in connection with the Federal corporation tax, the Vulcan Detinning Company has changed its fiscal year to end Dec. 31 and has sent to stockholders a report covering the nine months from April 1 to the end of the year. The report says:

"Net profits during these nine months, after making all deductions for depreciation and betterments, were $155,791, thus closely approaching the two most successful years in the history of your company, viz., 1902-1903 and 1909-1910, which exceeded the same but slightly.

"In accordance with the policy of your Directors to reduce the 'patents and processes account' from time to time, they have ordered the sum of $325,000 to be charged off this account, and the surplus account is reduced correspondingly."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Watson & Pressprich and Adams & Co. have been awarded $1,170,000 5 per cent. bonds of the City of San Francisco.

The Cotton Exchange membership of D. C. Watts has been sold to H. E. Kohn for $15,000, an advance of $1,000 over the last previous sale.

The National Surety Company appointed as Vice Presidents yesterday E. T. Warner, formerly of the American Surety Company, and Arthur W. Rankin, formerly manager of the National Surety Company at St. Louis.

GATHER MISSISSIPPI BONDS.

Collection of Repudiated Issue Forced by Fight on State Corporations.

H. B. Hollins & Co. of this city and the Corporation of Foreign Bondholders of London have obtained the deposit or promise of enough of the repudiated Mississippi bonds to make, with those already held, more than a majority of the $7,000,000 issued. Efforts to round up the bonds, with a view to obtaining some settlement from the State of Mississippi, were begun about a month ago, and up to yesterday holders of $2,750,000 worth had actually deposited their bonds and $900,000 more are in sight. The Legislature of Mississippi is in session, but the matter will not be taken up actively until substantially all of the bonds are deposited.

The Corporation of Foreign Bondholders has gone beyond the steps that have been taken in this country to antagonize new issues of the State or its counties and cities. It has extended the fight to bonds issued by Mississippi corporaions holding public franchises. The corporation is made up largely of the principal British bankers, with representatives of the Central Association of Bankers and the British Chamber of Commerce. Not only are these bankers refusing to subscribe to new issues, but they are protesting against their listing on any of the foreign Exchanges, and have published in the newspapers warnings to investors not to buy the bonds.

What the representatives of the holders of the repudiated bonds will demand is an agreement to arbitrate their interest with the State. Hollins & Co. asked President Taft some time ago to request the States concerned to enter into such an arbitration with the holders, the umpire to be appointed by the United States Government. The President referred the matter to the Secretary of the Treasury, and it is still pending.

HETTY GREEN IN TRUST CO.

Buys Into the Columbia and Her Son Becomes Director.

Mrs. Hetty Green, the wealthiest business woman in the United States, has bought an interest in the Columbia Trust Company at 135 Broadway. This was learned yesterday when her son, Col. E. H. R. Green, was elected a Director to fill a vacancy.

The Columbia Trust Company has grown very rapidly since its organization in 1905. Mrs. Green will get dividends at the rate of 12 per cent. on the par value of her shares, besides an equity in the profits over dividends, which have been large. At the date of its last statement the company had undivided profits of $865,000 and deposits of $21,000,000.

Mrs. Green is an extensive lender of money, much of it on real estate mortgages. To facilitate her operations in the money market she made inquiries some months ago looking to the formation of a trust company of her own. It was said yesterday that with the entrance of her son into the Columbia's board she will abandon the idea.

BUTTER BOYCOTTERS ELATED

Housewives' League Thinks Fight Against High Prices Has Been Won.

Mrs. Julian Heath, the president of the Housewives' League, announced last evening with considerable elation that she and her associates consider that the butter boycott has been won. The market reports from Elgin, Ill., that the price had gone down four cents since last week was hailed as a token of victory, which should and would mean a reduction here in the housewives' every-day market bill.

"But," said Mrs. Heath, "the boycott must be maintained until the retail men are fair and the price is stable. These retail men are taking advantage of the changes in the butter cost and of the ignorance of the women who buy, and in some places they are keeping the price up to the top-notch point. One report that reached me to-day tells of butter sold by a dealer on the East side for sixty-five cents a pound. We would urge all purchasers to demand print butter for 41 or 42 cents and the best Elgin creamery for 39."

Detroit Railway's Mortgage Renewed.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 6.—The $25,000,000 blanket mortgage given by the Detroit United Railways to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in February, 1902, was renewed for one year in the City Clerk's office to-day. Of the $25,000,000 bonds authorized under the mortgage $15,531,000 are issued and outstanding.

Change Canadian Pacific Officials.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Feb. 6.—J. T. Arundel, General Superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, has been appointed to the same position in Toronto, according to an official announcement here to-day. Mr. Arundel is succeeded here by D. C. Coleman, General Superintendent of Car Service, formerly Superintendent at Nelson, B. C.

Erie Road a Labor Offender?

Three actions have been begun in the United States District Court by the Government against the Erie Railroad Company, alleging violation of the sixteen-hour law in regard to its employes. Fifty-one offenses between April and September last, involving conductors, firemen, and trainmen, are mentioned in the suits. The penalties would amount to $25,500, or $500 for each offense.

Great Northern Places Rail Order.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6.—The Great Northern Railway has placed orders for 60,000 tons of rails, which are to be used principally for renewals this year. The United States Steel Corporation will make about 10,000 tons, it is said, while the balance of the order will be filled by independent mills.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Measurement of Barreled Grapes Found Excessive—Other Decisions.

Excessive measurements and correspondingly high duties on importations of Almeria grapes imported by R. Harris & Co. and J. C. Macomber brought out a decision yesterday from the Board of United States General Appraisers sustaining the contentions of the importers. The grapes were imported in barrels and half barrels. It was claimed by the importers that the gauge returned by the customs officials was greater than the actual capacity of the containers. After a review of the evidence Judge Somerville finds in favor of the protestants and reverses the Collector.

Protests involving the classification of linen damasks were decided adversely to the importers, who included Strawbridge & Clothier, the Boston Dry Goods Company, R. F. Downing & Co., and others. The merchandise in controversy consisted of goods in the piece weighing under 4½ ounces per square yard. Duty was collected at the rate of 45 per cent. under the terms of Paragraph 358 of the Tariff act of 1909, whereas the importers set up the contention that the merchandise should be allowed to enter at 30 or 35 per cent. under the provision in the law for "plain woven fabrics." Judge Cooper affirms the Collector's classification.

A protest filed by M. D. Howell & Co. dealing with the classification of cotton fabrics to be used in making automobile coats and dust coats was sustained. Collector Loeb held that the goods were of the waterproof kind, and hence exacted duty under the present Tariff act at the rate of 10 cents per square yard and 20 per cent. ad valorem. The fabrics were alleged to be dutiable at 40 per cent. as "cotton cloth." The importers denied that the fabrics are waterproof. Judge Cooper says that from tests made for the board it is demonstrated that the cloth is not waterproof. He accordingly reverses the Collector.

It was decided that scientific and industrial bulletins issued by the Japanese Sericultural Association, bearing on the silk industry of Japan, are entitled to free entry under the present Tariff act. Collector Loeb took the position that the publications were dutiable at the rate of 25 per cent. ad valorem, but the board holds this view to be erroneous. M. J. Corbett & Co. were the importers.

Accept Ten Cents on the Dollar.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Ninety per cent. of the creditors of the Crawford House, at a meeting held to-day, accepted an offer of 10 cents on the dollar, and appointed the receiver, Charles M. Rimbach, as trustee under $20,000 bonds. The Crawford House, which was one of the oldest Boston hotels, became bankrupt on Jan. 12, owing $96,268.

Receiver for $1,200,000 Company.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6.—A receiver was to-day appointed for the Connecticut Computing Machine Company of this city, and steps will be immediately taken to wind up its affairs. The company was organized six years ago, with a capital of $1,200,000, and more than $600,000 has already been sunk in an attempt to perfect the mechanism of the apparatus. The officers are Rollin S. Woodruff, President; Charles M. Jarvis, Berlin, Vice President; Edward S. Swift, Secretary, and Roger P. Tyler, Treasurer. President Woodruff was formerly Governor of Tennessee. The failure of the concern is ascribed to experimental work necessary in perfecting the patents involved.

4,500 CARS FROZEN IN.

One Canadian Road Reports 30,000,000 Bushels of Grain Ruined.

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 6.—The congestion of traffic on the Canadian railroads, which resulted in sweeping reductions of freight rates to permit Canadian grain to come to the American head-of-the-lakes for elevating and storage, is more serious than at any time since its inception, according to news from Port Arthur, Ont.

The advices tell of 3,500 cars already billed to Port William over the Canadian Northern which cannot be moved. There is no place to store grain when it arrives at Fort William. Thirty million bushels are frozen on the ground or in Western elevators.

In addition, there are 1,000 cars of grain that are on tracks between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, making 4,500 cars on the Canadian Northern alone.

The Canadian Pacific has reduced the number of empty cars that it delivers daily to elevators at the Canadian head-of-the-lake on the theory that it is useless to load cars when they cannot be hauled to their destination.

Asks $5,000 for Duveen Evidence.

As a result of the Duveen smuggling cases, in which the Fifth Avenue importers were compelled to pay more than $1,000,000 to the United States Government, John Saynor, who says he obtained part of the evidence used against them, began suit yesterday in the Supreme Court against Joseph L. Payne, the Government informant, for $5,000. Saynor declares that he was to receive as a reward for his services 10 per cent. of the sum given to Payne for the conviction of the Duveens. He contends that he has never been able to come to a settlement.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

RIDGWAY SUCCEEDS MELCHER

Elected Second Vice President of the Rock Island.

A. C. Ridgway was elected Second Vice President of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company at a meeting of the railroad's Directors in this city yesterday.

Mr. Ridgway succeeds the late F. O. Melcher, who was killed in a wreck at Kinmundy, Ill. Some days ago Mr. Ridgway was selected to continue Mr. Melcher's work and his permanent election to the position was in line with that action.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grain Decline Checked in Last Hour; Coffee Up; Cotton Still Falls.

The grain markets were all heavy during the morning, with considerable speculative selling, but recovered in the afternoon, closing with very slight net changes for the day. Cotton declined early on further liquidation, partly credited to the South, but later rallied with evidence of renewed support from spot concerns.

Coffee displayed a good tone with substantial gains. Foreign shorts were covering freely, with continued firmness at Brazil.

WHEAT.

The wheat market has shown for the last day or two a reactionary tendency. Yesterday morning the opening was steady, but there was further selling pressure, and for a time the market looked weak, although later in the day the offerings of contracts let up and prices advanced sharply, closing at a net gain for the session. The early selling was partly due to speculative profit taking, influenced by liberal receipts West, accumulating Northwest stocks, and reports of slow cash demand. The visible supply decreased in the United States east of the Rockies 1,033,000 bushels; west of the Rockies stocks decreased 32,000 bushels. The Canadian stocks increased 131,000 bushels. The European increased 1,500,000 bushels, making a net gain in the world's visible for the week of 566,000 bushels. The visible east of the Rockies is now 66,377,000 bushels, west of the Rockies 4,371,000 bushels, in Canada 45,664,000 bushels, and in Europe 82,400,000 bushels. The foreign markets were irregular, English markets being comparatively firm, while Paris was lower. The Argentine market was strong, and further labor difficulties have risen in that country, tending to still further delay the shipments. The strength for the near-by deliveries abroad is naturally due to the delay in the Argentine shipments. While there is considerable wheat going out from North American ports, the purchases reported from day to day are small, as not all of the export business is given out. Cash prices were nominal, with No. 2 red $1.05¾, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.22½; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.14; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.17¼.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN was quite heavy. Selling was liberal all the morning, led by some of the large commission houses which have recently been identified with the bull side. There were reports of increase in country offerings and of weak and lower interior cash markets. Reports were that some cash markets were from ½c to 1½c lower. Near the close, however, the early advance was recovered, with final prices very steady. Actual receipts showed nearly 400,000 bushels decrease from last week, making a net decrease in two days of 800,000 bushels. The visible supply increased only 1,715,000 bushels as a result of the immense movement of last week. Export demand did not develop. No. 2 corn was quoted at 73c, free on board; No. 3, 72½c, elevator, export, and steamer, 72c.

OATS.—Pressure on oats was pronounced early in the speculative market, with prices showing a decline of ½c to ⅝c, but after midday the offerings of contracts were much smaller and prices nearly recovered the early loss. Receipts were more moderate, while the visible supply showed a decrease of 677,000 bushels for the week. Cash oats were steady, standards were quoted at 60½c asked, in elevator; No. 2 white, 60½c, nominal, and No. 3, 60c, nominal.

PROVISIONS.

Somewhat larger receipts of live hogs at the West brought a little selling on the future market early, but later, with a rall in grain, prices improved and closed steady. The hog receipts for the day were 112,000 at all ports.

COTTONSEED OIL.

With a fairly active trade, prices were a shade easier. It was thought that large interests were endeavoring to maintain values, but the buying, with the possible exception of March, was not impressive. In that option demand from shorts is unabated, while selling for Western and other longs is readily absorbed, considerable switching taking place. Reports in the nature of mail advices from abroad stating that the decline in English cottonseed oil may result in more or less liquidation of American cottonseed oil, especially as foreign consumers are fairly well supplied, served to enlighten that part of the trade mystified by the spasmodic reselling for foreign accounts. Consuming inquiry at present is confined mainly to the better grades of oil. Crude is offered sparingly and quoted at 4.60@4.67c in the valley, 4.53@4.60 Southeast.

COTTON.

The developments during yesterday's session served to confuse sentiment to a greater extent, although the action of the market was not entirely surprising. Substantial recessions during the early part of the day of about 15 points were gradually overcome, and toward the finals the list ruled at about the previous closings. It was apparent that large spot concerns and others arrayed recently on the bull side, who have been reducing their holdings since the latter part of last week, were disposed to render support on the set-back of about 30 points from the recent high levels.

Liverpool cables were again depressing, with the tenor of the foreign news much the same as on Monday. Spot business showed a further contraction, with the sales in that market aggregating to the moderate total of 10,000 bales. American selling was discerned abroad, and it was privately cabled that Southern offerings were more plentiful. The weather in the American South was not construed as unfavorable, and the predictions from private sources was for fairly satisfactory conditions during the remainder of the week.

A marked diversity of opinion was noticeable as to the probable attitude of the South in connection with the decline of the last few days. Some contended that holders would be apt to realize that a vast amount of cotton is still to be marketed as opportunity presented itself in the form of spasmodic bulges, while others maintain that offerings would probably diminish on a set-back, particularly as the local future market is still below a parity. Official spot markets were unchanged in most instances, although Augusta reported prices ⅛c lower and Memphis ¼c decline. Locally spot cotton was quiet and unchanged, with middlings 9.90. Private messages were at hand stating that in parts of Alabama farmers were paying for mules, &c., basis cash, it being inferred that there was no great financial strain in certain sections, but the general idea is that it is too early to determine the real prospects for the start of the next crop, both in regard to acreage and cultivation.

Certain descriptions in the dry goods market have again been advanced. Claims were made that in parts of the Southeast the milling situation is much improved, with spindles active and business being received at remunerative prices. Meanwhile labor conditions at Lawrence, Mass., are not entirely reassuring. There were further mail advices received from China stating that following three months of inactivity a demand was liable to develop at most any time, as stocks were at an extremely low ebb.

COFFEE.

Coffee advanced steadily and closed firm at a net advance of 20 to 24 points, with sales aggregating 65,000 bags. Havre closed at a net advance of ¾ to 1 franc, while Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig higher. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were somewhat irregular, but generally unchanged, with prices in Brazil above a working basis. The Brazilian cable reported Rio 25 reis lower, and Santos 50 reis lower, while the special cable showed a steady feeling in Santos, with prices unchanged from the previous close.

Spot coffee inactive, unchanged, 14¼c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

8,072. DRUG STORE FIXTURES.—An American Consular officer in Canada reports that a manufacturing and dispensing chemist will open a drug store. He requests catalogues of showcases, and desires to correspond with firms making a specialty of drug store fixtures.

8,073. OFFICE FURNITURE.—An American consular officer reports that an opportunity has arisen in a Latin-American country for American manufacturers to place their furniture in certain Government buildings which are being thoroughly renovated.

8,074. CORK SHAVINGS.—A producer of cork shavings in Portugal informs an American consular officer that he desires to communicate with firms in the United States.

8,075. FLOATING CRANE.—The American Minister at Montevideo, Uruguay, has forwarded a translation of specifications and call for tenders issued by the Uruguayan Government for a floating crane of 100 tons for the port. All bids must be received by April 26.

8,076. OIL-WELL MACHINERY AND SUPPLIES.—An American Consul reports that a company will be formed in his district to work fields in which oil has been discovered. There will be a demand for drilling machinery at once, and if there is a flow of any consequence oil-well machinery and supplies will also be required.

8,077. MACHINERY FOR MAKING WOODEN PEGS.—A report from an American consular officer states that a request has been received for the names of American manufacturers of American machinery for making wooden pegs to be used in footwear.

8,078. ASBESTOS.—Three firms in Germany desire to hear from American shippers of amphibolic asbestos, pulverized. The first firm states it will purchase large quantities, according to quality and prices, ranging from $11.90 to $21.42 per ton, cost, insurance, and freight, Hamburg. Contracts should be closed by March, 1912. The second firm is prepared to make purchases in the United States if prices are favorable. About $13.38 to $15.81 per ton, cost, insurance, and freight, will be paid for what it describes as "astina." The third firm requests samples from American shippers and will be glad to answer communications quoting terms and stating quantities available.

To all Holders of
Convertible Four Per Cent. (4%)
Redeemable Gold Bonds of The Western Union Telegraph Company.

Notice is hereby given to all holders of the convertible four per cent. (4%) redeemable gold bonds of The Western Union Telegraph Company, issued under and pursuant to and secured by the trust agreement made by said The Western Union Telegraph Company, with the Bowling Green Trust Company as Trustee, dated November 26th, 1906, that The Western Union Telegraph Company, by action duly had by its board of directors, has declared its intention to and will pay off, cancel and redeem the whole amount of the bonds issued under and secured by said trust agreement, pursuant to the power and authority so to do contained therein; that the date fixed for said payment and cancellation and redemption is May first (1st), 1912, upon or prior to which date The Western Union Telegraph Company will deposit with the Equitable Trust Company of New York, New York City, as successor Trustee to the Bowling Green Trust Company, named as Trustee in said trust agreement, a sum sufficient to pay the principal of all of said bonds, five per cent. (5%) premium thereon, and the interest accrued thereon to May first (1st), 1912; that said Equitable Trust Company of New York, on said date, and thereafter as presented, will pay the principal of said bonds, five per cent. (5%) premium thereon, and the accrued interest to said date to the holders of said bonds respectively.

That said bonds will cease to bear interest after May first (1st), 1912, and that it is the intention of The Western Union Telegraph Company upon making such deposit and after said date, to have said trust agreement dated November 26th, 1906, cancelled and discharged by said trustee.

Trading More Active as Prices Turn Upward—Reaction in Afternoon.

MORE GOLD GOES ABROAD

Wall Street Easier About "Money Trust" Investigation Outlook—Some Good Earnings Statements.

Much more activity and a much more decided movement of prices were the accompaniments yesterday of a substantial recovery on the Stock Exchange. This lasted throughout the morning. Then trading became dull, to be followed later by a reaction which cut down by about a point the earlier improvement in prices. Reading was the conspicuously strong issue, outmeasuring all others in point of activity and recording the largest net gain of the day among the active stocks. Lehigh Valley, while far less active, made a net gain exceeding a point, and several of the less active anthracite issues showed large net advances.

Apart from certain specific influences, such as the Great Northern's favorable statement of gross earnings for January and the large increase in earnings reported in the annual statement of the American Can Company, the general influence of the day which played the most important part in shaping the course of prices seemed to be the expectation that the long-talked-of investigation of the "money trust" would take a shape which would deprive it of most if not all of the features which had been causing concern in the financial district. So far as the probable effect upon financial sentiment of an investigation into the doings of Wall Street as typifying the "money trust," it has all along been a question of the manner in which such an investigation was to be conducted and the motives underlying the inquiry. The belief prevailed yesterday that to-day's caucus of the Democrats of the House in respect to this "money trust" investigation will provide for a very different sort of investigation than the one which was first proposed, and the pursuit of which might very readily have been disturbing to financial sentiment.

The afternoon selling seemed to call for no other explanation than that earlier buyers were disposing of stocks which had been purchased at the lower range of prices which prevailed at the start of the day's trading, but Wall Street's custom is to attribute all such movements to special influences, and this was done yesterday in attributing the afternoon decline to the announcement of the Government's application for an injunction against the Steel Corporation to prevent the dissection of papers which may be required by the Government during the course of the trial of its suit for the dissolution of the corporation. While it is probably true that this incident was rather the excuse for rather than the explanation of the afternoon's selling, it nevertheless was calculated to create an unfavorable impression which would be more important from the stock market point of view if the public were more largely interested than it is in current operations on the Stock Exchange.

Another $1,000,000 gold was engaged for export, and it became more clearly indicated than ever that special factors are influencing this outflow of gold. Interest in the movement is heightened by the belief prevailing in banking circles that this gold is really intended as an indirect addition to the resources of Italy in connection with its present war with Turkey. Because of the special conditions surrounding this gold movement an easier tone in the foreign exchange market yesterday afternoon did not preclude the probability of still further shipments.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives receipts and expenditures for yesterday and the elapsed periods of the month and of the fiscal year, as follows:

	Feb. 5.	Month.	Fiscal Year.
Rcts., customs..	$463,502	$4,381,464	$179,902,143
Internal revenue	456,432	3,734,549	176,494,092
Corporation tax.	3,991	58,727	2,316,805
Miscellaneous ..	96,046	765,255	31,705,612
Total receipts...	1,019,972	8,939,997	390,418,655
Expenditures ...	1,757,440	8,358,009	412,194,466
Surplus	*737,468	581,988	*21,775,811

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

*Deficit.

At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was: Working balance in Treasury offices, $63,802,617; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $33,714,995.

Total balance in general fund was $123,922,841.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Contrary Great Northern.

With most of the railroads reporting big increases in gross earnings not many years ago, the Great Northern went doggedly along barely holding its own. With most of the roads reporting decreased earnings in recent weeks, the Great Northern has shown big gains. Moreover, whereas few of the roads which had satisfactory gross revenues in December were able to keep their net up, owing to advancing operating costs brought on by the bad weather and shortage of cars, the Great Northern has made a big increase in its net. One explanation of the changed conditions lies in the fact that J. J. Hill has built up a great deal of local business, so that his traffic is less dependent on what is turned over by connecting lines than is the case with other transcontinentals. In December the Great Northern had an increase of $326,000 in gross and $185,000 in net. For the first six months the road had an increase of $1,794,000 in gross and $2,789,000 in net. The Great Northern's operating ratio is going down when the general tendency is toward a rapid advance.

⁂

Credit to Dr. Wiley.

Among the various explanations which have been offered recently for the extraordinary increase in the amount of business done by the American Can Company, the principal reason, as given in the annual report yesterday, was generally ignored. In explaining why the gross earnings in 1911 were 55 per cent. larger than in the year preceding, President Graham says that "the lessening prejudice against canned goods, largely due to the Pure Food Commission's prevention of the sale of those improperly packed, which has inspired the confidence of consumers and brought recognition of their healthful quality, and the low price at which they were sold recommended them for cheapness with the result that sales of so-called packers' cans were materially increased." Recalling the number of manufacturers who have asserted that their business has been hurt by the requirements of the Pure Food Commission, it is good to learn that this particular "ill wind" blew in the right direction for at least one important industry.

⁂

More Demand for Postal Bonds.

The demand for the 2½ per cent. Government bonds, issued to depositors in the postal savings banks increased vastly at the time of the second offering, which occurred last month. Whereas, when the bonds were first offered to postal depositors in July, 1911, only $41,900 were taken, last month the subscriptions amounted to $417,580. Between the July and the January offering the Trustees of the postal savings funds took action which would assure postal depositors who take the Government 2½s for their accumulated savings, of the certainty of getting back what they pay for the bonds should they desire to turn them into cash. One of the buyers who transferred savings funds into the first lot of bonds offered, paying par, discovered when he needed cash that the best price he could get in the open market was 92½. He had instructed his broker to accept this price when the publicity given to his case caused the Federal authorities to take up the matter. The Trustees of the postal funds decided that they themselves would buy back the bonds at par whenever offered and the sale of a Government bond below par was avoided.

⁂

Rise of 37 in Jersey Central.

Central Railroad of New Jersey stock, which had sold 163 shares last week at 340, was bid up yesterday forenoon to 357½, at which price 10 shares came out. The bidding, which was for 100 shares, started at 341 and went successively to 343, 345, 346, 350, 353, and 356 before a taker appeared. In the first afternoon session the bidding for 100 shares was continued and carried the price up to 375, a new high record, before the purchase was closed. This level is 70 points above the lowest price of 1912, made on Jan. 9, and compares with 1911's high level of 320 and the low levels last year of 260. There was no specific development to account for the advance, but the recent segregation by the Lehigh Valley of its coal lands has, of course, intensified the expectation of a similar move by the Reading and Jersey Central.

⁂

Better Electrical Supply Business.

One of the encouraging features in the business of the electric manufacturing concerns is the steady inflow of comparatively small orders. The same reports of good business come from the small and large manufacturers alike. Unofficial reports put the gain in the new business coming to the General Electric Company at 40 per cent. for January over the same month last year.

⁂

Low Lead May Help in Tariff Fight.

Lead at 4 cents a pound is now at its lowest since this time in 1909. The decline began in November, when the price was 4½ cents, which had been the level for nearly a year. It is said in the trade that there has been no considerable falling off in the demand, and the suggestion is thrown out that a mighty effective way of getting up a strong fight against a revision downward of the metal schedule of the tariff is to bring its probable effects home to the Western mining interests.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

On the Metal Exchange yesterday a firmer tone was shown, but trading was light. Copper rose ⅛c in the bid and ¼c in the asking price. Tin improved ⅝c.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

	Tuesday.		Monday.
Standard Copper—	Bid.	Asked.	Bid.	Asked.
Spot	13.75	14.00	13.60	13.70
February	13.75	14.00	13.60	13.70

Spelter	6.35	6.55	6.35	6.55
Tin	43.65	43.95	43.25	43.75

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday the following prices obtained for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin. These final figures compare with Monday's closing quotations:

	Tuesday.			Monday.
	£	s.	d.	£	s.	d.
Copper, spot	61	5	0	61	8	9
Copper, futures	62	0	0	62	3	9
Pig tin, spot...........	194	5	0	194	0	0
Pig tin, futures........	191	10	0	191	10	0

The market ended firm. Spanish pig lead was unchanged, at £15 15s. Spelter was up 7s 6d, to £26 12s 6d. Cleveland warrants were a shade higher at 49s.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Trading Sluggish, Though Many Local Issues Make Gains in Markets of Other Cities.

COPPERS FIRM IN BOSTON

Market Generally Firm in That City, with United Shoe Machinery a Leader—Gains in Philadelphia.

Trading in most of the out-of-town markets yesterday resulted in gains in many of the local issues.

United Railways shares were freely offered in Baltimore, but were well absorbed and lost only ½ on fairly active trading. A denial from J. E. Aldred, President of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company, of reports that he was acquiring United Railways stock with the view of obtaining control, had some effect on the stock. Maryland Trust common yielded further and lost 1½ as a result of the rejection of the Casualty Company's offer of 110 for the stock. Baltimore Trust, which has been moving upward for some days, advanced another 1½ points.

United Shoe Machinery common was the strongest stock on the Boston list, selling more than 2 points higher in response to a steady demand created by possibility of settlement of the Government's suit for dissolution. Arbitrage buying, some of it to cover shorts, caused strength in other industrials, mainly Steel common and American Telephone, while New England Telephone advanced in sympathy with the shares of the larger corporations. United Fruit was slightly firmer, and American Woolen preferred sold above 86. Copper shares displayed an improved tone and made small advances, following the lead of Amalgamated. Railroad stocks were rather quiet, but Union Pacific advanced sharply in sympathy with its rise in Wall Street, and New Haven improved fractionally.

On continued activity Sears-Roebuck rose above 153 in Chicago, compared with 150 at Monday's close. The shares eased off more than 1 point, closing with a net gain for the day of 1½. Another strong feature was American Can preferred, which was affected favorably by the report of earnings. The shares closed with a net gain for the day of 2½ points. Elsewhere the local list displayed mostly fractional changes divided between gains and losses. American Shipbuilding sold in a small lot at a decline of several points. Chicago Elevated preferred ran up to 92½. Booth Fisheries preferred was higher, and American Shipbuilding preferred sold at par, while Chicago Railways seconds weakened. Chicago Railways extension 4s dropped back to 57½ after selling at 59. Bidding was active for Chicago City and Connecting 5s, which were offered last week at 88 and sold later at 88⅝. The bidding carried the price of the issue up to 91, the subscriptions basis.

The general local list in Philadelphia was strong under the stimulating influences of the rise in Lehigh Valley, Reading, and United States Steel, but dealings, except in the three issues named, were almost nominal. Rapid Transit and Union improved moderately in the afternoon, whereas the sale of an odd lot of Lehigh Navigation cost that stock no less than 2 points from the last previous quotation. The trust certificates, however, held steady at 88.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was broad and active. Early strength was succeeded by reactionary symptoms in the late afternoon, but the softness then shown failed to cancel all of the improvement, the leading stocks exhibiting net gains for the day. Reading was the great feature of strength. Transactions totaling 77,640 shares were distributed over a list which included fifty different stocks. A small lot of American Ice changed hands at 20, no sales of that stock being reported on the other Exchange.

Consols Firm in London—General Tendency Improves After Downward Movement.

FIRMNESS ON THE CONTINENT

American Securities Close Strong on London Exchange—Money and Discount Rates Easy.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 7.—The Times in its City article to-day says:

"Money continued fairly plentiful yesterday at Monday's rates, and balances were again offered freely at the close till to-day. Discount quotations for three months' paper were a shade lower, but other rates were unaltered. Bills were scarce.

"The Paris Cheque moved in favor of London.

"Sovereigns will probably be withdrawn from the Bank of England for India to-day, and according to rumor the India Council is likely to 'earmark' some gold soon.

"On the Stock Exchange purchases for the sinking fund caused a recovery of 3-16 in consols, and the tone of the home rails market was firm.

"The American market was steady at the opening, with prices, as usual, rather above parity. Prices remained quietly steady until 3:30, when buying orders came to hand from Wall Street, chiefly for Union Pacific, United States Steel common, and Reading common, and the whole list became firmer in sympathy. Reports as to the steel trade were favorable, and Steel common was finally 1⅜ higher, at 63⅜. Union Pacific rose 1½, to 168, after being 168⅜. The demand for the latter was based on rumors that the preferred stock would be retired and in its place would be issued additional equivalent common stock, to which would be attached valuable subscription rights. Wabash preferred was bought owing to the successful issue of receiver's certificates.

"The Berlin Boerse was quiet at the opening, but improved later, though business in general was not active. A more hopeful sentiment prevailed at the close, speculators being encouraged by the indications of an improvement in Anglo-German relations and also to some extent by the prospective reduction in the English minimum."

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Money and discount rates were easy to-day.

Business was light on the Stock Exchange, and the tendency of prices was downward in the forenoon except in Argentine rails and consols, which were firm. The strength of the latter was based on hopes of an early reduction in the bank rate. Later in the day the other sections hardened and closed steadier.

American securities opened quiet and steady, and then advanced a fraction on light buying. A reaction followed, but New York buying strengthened the market in the late trading. Union Pacific shares led the afternoon advance. The closing was steady.

Money, 3¼@3½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3½@3⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills 3⅝ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 7.90; at Lisbon, 10.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 95f 37½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 25½c for checks.

Private discount rate, 3⅛ per cent.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Trading was quiet and prices were steady on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 51 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 3 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3½ per cent.

AMERICAN CAN'S BEST YEAR.

Depreciation Charges $2,500,000, a Remarkable Increase.

A remarkable increase in charges for depreciation is the feature of the report of the American Can Company for the year ended Dec. 31, by far the most profitable year in the company's history. Earnings totalling $5,416,339 are reported, which compares with $3,456,537 in the previous year, hitherto the company's high record. The depreciation charge last year was $2,500,000, which compares with $633,564 in 1910, until now the heaviest charge ever made in this item. The net profits reported after the $2,500,000 allowance are $2,916,339, which compare with $2,822,972 in the previous year. The balance sheet shows a reduction in the valuation of plants and real estate from $73,199,033 to $71,235,481.

Increases of $1,000,000 in net construction and of $2,000,000 cash, together with $1,500,000 in merchandise inventories more than make up for declines in other items of assets, and leave the total at $93,119,759, compared to $91,793,913 at the end of 1910.

Commenting on the company's position generally, President Graham says:

"This construction of new and extension and improvements of old factories and the increased working capital engaged in their operation requires the use of a large amount of money, and though the statement herewith submitted shows your company free from other than current obligations and with a cash balance in excess thereof, attention is called to the fact that the statements made to you as of the last day of the year are made of conditions between active seasons, when inventories are lowest, accommodations to customers least needed and the capital in use small as compared with that absolutely necessary when stocks of materials, supplies and finished products are at their maximum. There is no clearer way of presenting this than by comparing the financial condition of your company at the time of this statement with that of July and August last, when it was a borrower from the banks of large sums of money, as it will be again during active business seasons."

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Burst of Activity in British American Tobacco.

The shares of the British-American Tobacco Company became active yesterday and rose from 18 to 19 on transactions reported at 20,000 shares. The mining list was sluggish and prices moved only in the small fractions. Bond trading was restricted to a half-dozen issues, but these were active. International Harvester notes sold $100,000 at 100⅞. Pacific Gas & Electric 5s sold a like amount from 92¼ to 92⅜, the close being at the high figure. Norfolk & Western convertible 4s sold $125,000 from 106⅞ to 107¼.

⁂

Transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

Uptown Safe Deposit Vaults

This company desires to call attention to the advantage of keeping securities and other valuables in an uptown safe deposit vault. The location of its vaults, convenient to transportation lines, and in the center of uptown activities, renders them especially desirable to uptown people. The vaults are at the street level. Boxes rent at from $5.00 to $300.00 per year.

The Pacific Coast

Is rapidly increasing in wealth and population. The centre of this development and the section which will derive the greatest benefits commercially and industrially from the opening of the Panama Canal, and the Panama Exposition, is San Francisco and the adjacent territory, including Oakland and its suburban districts.

We are offering attractive securities of public utility corporations rendering necessary service to this prosperous and rapidly growing territory.

We shall be pleased to submit our special circulars for your consideration.

More and more people are finding it convenient to keep their Securities and other Valuables uptown instead of downtown.

The Union Trust Company of New York offers unexcelled facilities at moderate prices in the uptown vaults of the Lenox Safe Deposit Company.

At Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street, they are very near the "social center" of New York, and convenient for most people who live uptown.

Inspection and patronage are invited.

The Mercantile Safe Deposit Co.
(Established 1875)
115 Broadway

The Mercantile Safe Deposit Company, having purchased the vaults at 115 Broadway (located directly opposite the old quarters), wishes to announce that the business of the Company will be continued as in the past. Facilities will be afforded to the present boxholders of the Mercantile Company for the unexpired terms of their respective leases without additional charge. It is important that transfer be made as early as possible. Boxholders not already having made transfer to the new location are requested to communicate with the officers of the Company.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Operators Buy Large Plot at West Tenth and Fourth Streets, in Greenwich District—Deals in Sherman Square and Washington Heights—Activity in Harlem, Bronx and Suburban Market.

A Greenwich village deal of more than ordinary interest, in view of the fact that the property involved includes a portion of the projected Seventh Avenue extension south from Eleventh Street to Varick Street, was closed yesterday by the office of Horace S. Ely & Co. They sold for the estate of Samuel Hall a large plot on the southeast corner of West Tenth and Fourth Streets, one of those localities which, owing to the peculiar street formations of old Greenwich village, has from time to time amused and puzzled many New Yorkers.

The buyers of the plot are Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum. The property has a frontage of 160.6 feet on West Fourth Street and 109.6 feet on West Tenth Street. It is covered with eleven typical old-time dwellings of over a generation ago, being 178 to 182 West Tenth Street and 221 to 235 West Fourth Street. The Fourth Street frontage includes the entire block between Christopher and Tenth Street except the house at 219, on the northeast corner of Christopher. When the proposed Seventh Avenue extension is cut through the new roadway will bisect this property, leaving but a small portion for improvement on either side, the westerly portion being left as a small triangular plot.

The property has been in the hands of the family from whose possession it has passed for nearly a century. It was originally owned by Senator Mark Spencer, who was prominent in the public activities of the city years ago. He transferred it to his son-in-law, Dr. Samuel Hall, who had the present building erected, and the heirs of Dr. Hall have been its recent owners.

Enlarges West Side Plot.

Frank Bradley has increased his apartment house plot on the south side of Seventy-fifth Street, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway, by purchasing the two five-story flats at 308 and 310 Amsterdam Avenue, adjoining the northwest corner of Seventy-fifth Street. The plot has a frontage of 50 feet, and with Mr. Bradley's other holdings, including the property in the rear of the two parcels just purchased, at 2,128 Broadway, which he bought a few days ago, he now controls a plot 212 feet on Seventy-fifth Street, 104.8 feet on Broadway, and 100 feet on Amsterdam Avenue. The Amsterdam Avenue plots were acquired through William Cruikshank's Sons, who sold them for Wilhelmina B. Hartung.

The long plot on the south side of Seventy-fifth Street was formerly occupied by the Dakota stables, which have lately been torn down for an apartment house improvement, and the prospective structure will probably be enlarged so as to cover the recently acquired parcels. Mr. Bradley owns now the northerly half of the block between Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth Streets, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue.

Washington Heights Deal.

Bert G. Faulhaber & Co. have sold for Jacob Aaron to the Lamermoor Realty Company the vacant plot, 50 by 100, on the south side of West 158th Street, 275 feet east of Broadway. The purchaser will improve the property with a six-story apartment house for thirty families.

Reported Deal on East 49th Street.

The three-story and basement dwelling 10 East Forty-ninth Street, recently converted for business, is reported to have been sold by Andrew McKinley. Henry Burlingame recently leased the property.

Increase Third Avenue Holdings.

Alfred and Robert S. Lehman have purchased from Francis A. Gotz 397 Third Avenue, a three-story building, on a lot 19.6 by 70. The buyers own the adjoining property on the northeast corner of Twenty-seventh Street. Pierre M. Clear & Co. were the brokers.

Buys East Side Tenements.

Jacob Reitman has purchased from Lowenfeld & Prager 105 and 105½ St. Mark's Place, two six-story tenements, on a plot 37.6 by 97.10.

Harlem Factory Sold.

The Ruland & Whiting Company has sold for John H. Judge, as attorney for Mrs. Cornelia G. Chapin, the five-story factory building, 50 by 100, on the northwest corner of Morningside Avenue and 124th Street, to the Amsterdam Grocery Company.

Astor Estate Leases Harlem Block.

The estate of William Astor has released for a term of twenty years to the Saranac Realty Company, of which George C. Frelinghuysen is President, the block front on the west side of Eighth Avenue, between 124th and 125th Streets.

The property is known by the numbers 2,309 to 2,325 Eighth Avenue, 301 to 317 West 124th Street, and 300 to 310 West 125th Street, and has a frontage of 201.10 feet on the avenue by 150 feet on each street.

The aggregate amount involved is about $600,000, and it is understood that the property is to be improved with a modern structure.

Bronx.

The Storey Realty Company has sold to a client of Richard H. Scoble the twelve-family apartment house on the northeast corner of Belmont Avenue and 176th Street, on a plot 44 feet on Belmont Avenue and 108 feet on 176th Street.

The Podgur Realty Company has sold the five-story new-law house 965 Simpson Street, on plot 42 by 110, near Westchester Avenue, to an investor. The sellers recently sold an adjoining house to an investor.

H. Benz has purchased through Charles Wetzel 764 East 187th Street, a four-story apartment house, on a lot 34.4 by 60 by 70. Vacant lots in Flushing, L. I., were given in part payment.

Brooklyn.

Frank A. Seaver has sold the six family tenement, 322 and 324 Bond Street, on a lot 40 by 75, for James O'Connell to an investor.

Long Island.

Morgan J. O'Brien and others have sold to the Hillside Jamaica Home Building Company of Manhattan a parcel having a frontage of 403 feet on Wexford Terrace and 999 feet on Dalny Road and 826 feet on Homer Lee Avenue, containing 6 1-6 acres, at Jamaica Estates.

Howland Pell has sold to John B. Campbell a parcel of several acres having a frontage of 157 feet on the west side of the Jamaica and Flushing Road and 179 feet on the north side of the Head-of-the-Vleigh Road, with a depth of 826 feet adjoining Pell Chapel, and formerly the property of the estate of W. H. Pell of Flushing.

Otto Lange has sold to Elizabeth B. Peper of Douglaston, a parcel having a frontage of 130 feet on the south side of Bay Avenue, 130 feet on the north side of Cedar Street and 300 feet on the east side of Regatta Place, Marathon Park.

Crotona Casino Changes.

William G. I. Roeder is preparing plans for remodelling the Crotona Casino on 169th Street, east of Boston Avenue. An extension, four stories high, 25 by 100 feet will be built, and with reconstructing the second and third floors for ballroom purposes. The basement of the extension will be used for bowling alleys. The cost of making the changes is estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000.

Notes.

The Fifth Avenue and Thirty-third Street Company has been incorporated with a nominal capital of $10,000.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell to-day at auction 325 East Fifty-first Street, a three-story brownstone dwelling, and at executors' sale for the estate of Susannah Ellis two vacant plots on the east side of Jerome Street, near Pitkin Avenue, in Brooklyn, 25 by 100 each.

Frederick Fox & Co., have been appointed renting agents by the Fifth Avenue and Twelfth Street Company, Henry Corn, President, of the new eighteen-story building just completed on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Twelfth Street.

A PLEASANT HOME BY THE SEA

New York people are getting better acquainted with NEPONSIT. Every day they are beginning to know more about its charm, environment, attractive surroundings and congenial society. Extending as it does from the Atlantic Ocean to Jamaica Bay, it gives the advantages of surf bathing on the one side as well as good boating and fishing on the other.

More than fifty houses were built in 1911, new ones going up at the rate of four or five every month, each house of different and very attractive design and built of the best material and workmanship. They are not cheap houses, but the kind you will enjoy living in and the kind that have intrinsic and salable value at all times. Prices range from $6,000 up.

If a seashore home—35 minutes from New York, with proper improvements, healthful atmosphere, congenial surroundings—appeals to you, NEPONSIT is the place for you.

All particulars available by mail or telephone.

Notice to Manufacturers.
New East Side Lofts.
A new 12-story building at the Southwest Corner of Canal and Orchard Streets will be completed about March 15, 1912. There will be ten lofts to let well adapted for manufacturing purposes. Each loft contains about 4,800 square feet, having light on all sides. The building is located between the approaches of the Manhattan and Williamsburg Bridges, and in the heart of the laboring population. This building will be absolutely fireproof, which will make insurance very low. It will be the only one of its kind on the East Side.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

CITY OF NEW YORK.
BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held January 18, 1912, the following petition was received:

TO THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT:

The petition of The National District Telegraph Company respectfully shows to your Honorable Board:

That your petitioner is a domestic corporation organized and existing under the provisions of Article 8 of the Transportation Corporations Law of the State of New York, and is engaged in carrying on an electrical telegraph business of the nature mentioned in its articles of incorporation, a certified copy of which was sent to Joseph Haag, Esq., Secretary of your Honorable Board, under date of December 10th, 1910, to which reference is hereby made, consisting principally of electrical fire alarm telegraph signal service, both automatic and manual, connecting subscribers' premises with the central offices of said company, located, in Manhattan, at No. 44 East 23d Street, and in Brooklyn at No. 44 Court Street, and desires the privilege of use of the streets in the Boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond as herein set forth.

Your petitioner asks the consent and approval of your Honorable Board to the occupation of the streets of said city for the business of electrical fire alarm telegraph signal service, both automatic and manual, connecting subscribers' premises with the central offices of said company located as aforesaid.

Wherefore your petitioner asks the consent of your Honorable Board to the occupation of the streets for the purposes above set forth.

THE NATIONAL DISTRICT TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
By RUSH TAGGART, its Attorney.

State of New York, County of New York, ss.:

RUSH TAGGART, being duly sworn, says that he is attorney for The National District Telegraph Company, the corporation described in the foregoing petition for consent and approval of the use by it of the public streets as therein set forth, and that he signed the same as such attorney by authority duly given. (Sd.) RUSH TAGGART.

Sworn to before me this 15th day of January, 1912. E. A. MacCLEAN, [Seal] Notary Public, N. Y. Co.

And the following resolutions were thereupon adopted:

Whereas, the foregoing petition from The National District Telegraph Company, verified January 16, 1912, was presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a meeting held January 18, 1912,

Resolved, That, in pursuance of law, this Board sets Thursday, the 15th day of February, 1912, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and Room 16 in the City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, as the time and place when and where such petition shall be first considered, and a public hearing be had thereon, at which citizens shall be entitled to appear and be heard; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary is directed to cause such petition and these resolutions to be published for at least two (2) days in two daily newspapers in the City of New York, to be designated by the Mayor, and for at least ten (10) days in the "City Record" immediately prior to such date of public hearing. The expense of such publication to be borne by the petitioner (The New York Times and Evening Mail designated.) JOSEPH HAAG, Secretary.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Light snow flurries have continued in portions of the Northern States, but in no section has the fall been of any consequence, while fair weather has prevailed throughout the South except in the central and southern portions of Florida, where considerable rain has fallen.

There seems to be a slight disturbance developing over Iowa.

The temperature has fallen still further in Southeastern sections, but in nearly all other districts east of the Rocky Mountains the temperature has continued to moderate.

Light snow flurries will continue in the great lake region and the St. Lawrence Valley, but in nearly all other districts east of the Rockies generally fair weather will prevail Wednesday and Thursday.

The temperature will rise still further during Wednesday from the Ohio Valley southward, and in the Middle Atlantic sections, but it will fall slightly in the Upper Mississippi Valley. Temperature changes elsewhere will not be of importance.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate west, shifting to southwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate, variable; South Atlantic Coast, light variable, mostly north.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate west winds with partly overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair south, probably light snow flurries north portion Wednesday and Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate west to southwest winds.

New Jersey—Fair Wednesday and Thursday, not much change in temperature; moderate west to southwest winds.

New England—Mostly cloudy Wednesday and Thursday, not much change in temperature; west to southwest winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Generally fair Wednesday and Thursday, slightly warmer Wednesday; moderate west to southwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	18	15	4 P. M.	19	30
6 A. M.	18	15	6 P. M.	20	28
9 A. M.	19	17	9 P. M.	23	23
12 M.	20	24	12 P. M.	27	23

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 23; for the corresponding date last year it was 22; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 30.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 17; at 8 P. M. it was 26. Maximum temperature, 31 degrees at 3:30 P. M.; minimum, 15 degrees at 12:01 A. M. Humidity, 77 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 51 per cent. at 8 P. M.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The one hundred and eightieth meeting of the Schoolmasters' Association of New York and Vicinity will be held at the Ethical Culture School, Central Park West and Sixty-third Street, at 10:45 A. M. on Feb. 10. James M. Taylor, President of Vassar College, will deliver an address on "What Place Has Vocational Training in a General Education?"

The Girls' Branch of the Public Schools Athletic League will give an entertainment in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria on the afternoon of Feb. 23. The music will be furnished by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and folk dancing will be given under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burchenal.

The Board of Superintendents has recommended a new by-law providing that where a Principal of a school is absent the Principal of another school in the same district may be temporarily assigned to administer both schools, with no increase of salary, and that the City Superintendent may make such assignment.

The request of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers that the by-laws of the Board of Education be amended by adding thereto, "provided that no group of schools shall contain more than one school having more than seventeen classes," has been referred to the By-Laws Committee.

An interesting incident of the election of the President of the Board of Education on Monday was the destruction of the secret ballots after the vote was announced. Commissioner Jeremiah T. Mahoney, a strong Churchill man, made the motion. The tellers, Cornelius J. Sullivan and Francis P. Cunnion, turned the ballots over to Assistant Secretary Fred H. Johnson, who tore them into bits. These he handed to President Winthrop, who tore them into smaller bits, which he then threw into a waste basket. It is impossible therefore now to prove who voted for Mr. Winthrop and who for Mr. Churchill. Mayor Gaynor in making appointments to the board will not know, nor will Mr. Winthrop in choosing his Chairmen of committees. It was a sort of graceful burying of the hatchet after a sharp fight.

Messrs. Richard B. Aldcroftt, Jr., Herman A. Metz, and John Martin have been appointed as a special committee to investigate the charges of insubordination against James J. Egan, janitor of Public School 1, Brooklyn.

Permission has been granted by the Board of Education to the Flatbush Playgrounds Association to occupy the auditorium of Erasmus High School on the evening of March 15 and the afternoon of March 16 for an entertainment, an admission fee to be charged. The Mothers' Club of Public School 82, Queens, is permitted to occupy that school on the evening of March 22 for a cake, candy, and apron sale. Permission is granted to the Mothers' Club of Public School 16, Queens, to occupy the assembly hall of that school on Feb. 15 for a sale to raise funds for the equipment of the school.

McPherson, Engine 104; D. P. Kind, Engine 110; R. C. Bahlmann, Engine 151; J. W. Dwyer, Hook and Ladder 2; H. W. Abrams, Hook and Ladder 3; J. P. S. Ferrick, Hook and Ladder 8; W. Liebermann, Hook and Ladder 21; T. J. Durholz, Hook and Ladder 68; [illegible] Engine 188.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission, despite the numerous and urgent appeals which have been made to it, will not rescind its rule with regard to probation officers. All those who were appointed by the Justices of Special Sessions and the City Magistrates as in the exempt class will lose their jobs on Feb. 15, with the exception of four persons—two women and two men—who were appointed before the inferior courts law went into effect on Sept. 1, 1910. The stand taken in this matter by President James Creelman of the Municipal Civil Service Commission has been sustained by the Corporation Counsel and approved by the Mayor.

There are now nearly 1,500 applicants for the position of patrolman. No date has been set yet for the examination. Five applications have been received for the position of estimator. The examination will be held on March 11. The applications for the position of lay Sanitary Inspector and Tenement House Inspector now number about 1,200.

The following applicants will take the examination to-day for promotion to stenographer and typewriter, third grade:

Finance Department, 1; Law Department, 3; Charities, 1; College of the City of New York, 1; Department of Education, 1; office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan, 5; office of the President of the Borough of Brooklyn, 1, and Bureau of Water and Gas Supply and Electricity, 19. There are 76 applications for the examination for head school farm attendant to-morrow.

United States.

Secretary H. C. Coles of the United States Civil Service Commission, Second District, announces an examination at the New York Custom House on March 23 for the position of elevator conductor in the Federal service, at from $600 to $840 a year. The subjects of the examination will be spelling, arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship, copying from plain copy, training and experience. Under the subject of "experience" no credit will be given except for actual experience as elevator conductor, electric motorman, or electric craneman, and applicants who have not had at least six months' such experience will not be admitted to the examination. If an applicant has had only six months' experience that experience must have been gained within the twelve months just prior to the date of application. Applicants must fully indicate the kinds of elevators, whether passenger or freight, upon which they have been employed. No applicant who is not able-bodied and physically capable of performang manual labor will be admitted to the examination. The age limit is 20 years or over on the date of the examination.

DICKINSON MAY BE FREED IN BOMB CASE

Police and District Attorney Admit They Have No Evidence Against Him.

DRAGNET OUT FOR KASEBIER

Countrywide Search Made for Him, Although Police Say He Is "Not Yet a Suspect."

Developments in the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Grace Walker, who was killed by an infernal machine in her apartment at 103 West Seventy-seventh Street on Saturday night, were all of a negative character yesterday.

So far no trace has been found of Karl Kasebier, the Hungarian who was arrested with Mrs. Walker in a white slave case, and whose enmity she is believed to have incurred as a result of statements made by her to the Grand Jury concerning him.

All of Kasebier's known haunts in this city have been searched without yielding trace of him, but his description is now in the hands of the police of every large city in the country, and it is not believed that he will be able to elude the search much longer.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, who is in personal charge of the investigation of the murder, admitted last night that he was anxious to see Kasebier, but added that "as yet he is not a suspect."

Unless the police are able to strengthen their case against Charles M. Dickinson, the young man now in the Tombs on an affidavit made by Acting Capt. Gloster, charging him on information and belief with the commission of the crime, there is every reason to believe he will be released this morning. At the District Attorney's office it was said that the evidence now at hand is not sufficient on which to indict Dickinson, and the opinion there was that Coroner Feinberg would order his release to-day.

No Evidence Against Dickinson.

Assistant District Attorney Strong said the police were justified in arresting Dickinson, inasmuch as the circumstances surrounding the case did point suspiciously twoard that young man, but at the present moment there does not appear to be enough direct evidence even to justify holding him for the Grand Jury.

"I am not a policeman," said Mr. Strong, "and it is not my business to dig up the evidence in this case. That is all up to the police, who, I understand, are now bending their efforts to find Kasebier, on the supposition that he may be able to give information that will aid in clearing up the mystery. At the time a charge was presented to the Grand Jury in connection with the Olivette Leonard case considerable ill-feeling existed between Kasebier and Mrs. Walker.

"Practically all the evidence against Dickinson is that he and Mrs. Walker quarreled on the Wednesday preceding the murder; that she scratched his face; that she had ordered the young man to keep away from her home, and that he had written a letter pleading for a reconciliation. There are no circumstances indicating that some one was jealous of the woman, and there does not appear much ground for the theory that whoever sent the bomb desired to kill both Mrs. Walker and Dickinson.

"Both Edna Lamarre and Dickinson have made statements to me, but there is nothing vital in either statement. In my opinion Edna Lamarre knows very little, if anything, about the case."

Terence J. McManus, counsel for Dickinson, was permitted yesterday afternoon to inspect the apartment in which Mrs. Walker was killed. The room was in the same condition as when the murder was committed. A beer bottle that was on the table at the time of the explosion and which was not tipped over by the concussion still stood there, evidence, in the opinion of Dickinson's friends, that he could have been, as he says he was, in the room at the time and escaped without injury.

Postman Delivered a Package.

The theory that the infernal machine may have been sent through the mails was again advanced yesterday when a middle-aged postman went to Police Headquarters and said he remembered delivering a package at the Walker apartment on Thursday or Friday of last week. He was not certain when he delivered the package, but thought it was either Thursday or Friday.

This package, the postman said, he handed to Mrs. Walker herself. He described it as being about five inches long, three inches wide, and two inches high. This would appear to tally with the size of the bomb that killed the woman, but it is considered strange that Mrs. Walker, if this was the bomb, should have waited from Thursday or Friday until Saturday night to open it.

Edna Lamarre was questioned concerning this package by mail. She said that she had never heard of it. She was certain, she added, that she would know of it had the package been received in the mail.

Miss Lamarre was in consultation with Commissioner Dougherty for more than an hour. At the close of the interview it was said that the young woman had cleared up several points in connection with the case. According to Inspector Hughes, Miss Lamarre gave this version of her last talk with Mrs. Walker:

"I went into a drug store and called up Mrs. Walker. I said: 'Hello, Helen, this is Susie,' that being the name of Mrs. Evans, the sister of Mrs. Walker whom I was impersonating.

"'Susie,' Mrs. Walker answered, 'can't you come down here? Dick is here and I am in trouble.'

"I answered that I would be down in about fifteen minutes, as previously directed by Mrs. Walker."

Inspector Hughes intimated that the young woman told Commissioner Dougherty a great many other things which are regarded as important by the police. He refused to say what these things were.

Chauffeur Snyder Found.

Philip Snyder, the chauffeur, for whom the police have been looking, was found early yesterday morning. He said that he knew Mrs. Walker, Miss Lamarre, and Dickinson well. He is also an acquaintance of Karl Kasebier, the Hungarian, who is sought by the police. He said Dickinson appeared to be the only intimate friend that Mrs. Walker had. He was certain that Dickinson never made the bomb that killed the woman. In his opinion Dickinson did not have the knowledge necessary to make an infernal machine.

Snyder said he saw Mrs. Walker for the last time on Wednesday. He had asked her how Dickinson was behaving, and her reply was: "He is all right now. He is a good boy."

The chauffeur also said that he had seen and talked with Dickinson on Saturday afternoon about an hour and a half before the murder, and that Dickinson was in a jovial mood and had remarked that he had a fine time the night before with some friends from up-State. On that occasion Dickinson did not mention the name of Mrs. Walker.

Much was made for a while of the visit that a man made to the offices of the United States Motor Company, at 3 West Sixty-first Street, yesterday morning. The man demanded to see Mr. Edwards, whose secretary Dickinson was, and when told that Mr. Edwards was not in he became very noisy and said that he had to see him, because he (the visitor) knew all about the Walker case. The man was thrown out of the place and got away before the attention of the police was called to what had happened. The police have a good description of the man.

Messenger Boy Accounted For.

It has been established, the police believe, that it was not a messenger boy who delivered the infernal machine to Mrs. Walker. The boy, who was seen in front of the apartment house after the explosion, turns out to be John Brown of 335 East Thirty-sixth Street. He is employed as a wagon boy by a department store. Brown told Commissioner Dougherty that he delivered a package to a person living next door to the apartment house in which Mrs. Walker was killed a few minutes before the explosion. He admitted having spoken to Janitor Classen. He had asked the janitor if anybody was hurt by the explosion and was told that a woman was injured. He stayed around a few minutes, and when the janitor reappeared he asked if the woman was dead. That is all there is to the messenger boy theory, according to the police.

It is now believed that J. Howard Taylor and Howard Walker are one and the same man. Taylor is known to have died in December last, after a brief stay in the Ray Brook Sanitarium, where he had gone hoping to be cured of tuberculosis.

Some one called up the West Sixty-eighth Street Station last night and asked if the picture of Dickinson in yesterday morning's papers was a good likeness. He was told that it was. The police said it was not a matter of any importance, and that the inquiry was made by a detective who is working on the case in Queens.

Dickinson will be arraigned before Coroner Feinberg for a hearing at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

BALKED LINEMEN 12 HOURS.

Box and His Sons Stood in Post Holes Until Arrested; Now He's Ill.

After standing for hours in a post hole dug in front of his property on Atlantic Avenue, in Lynbrook, L. I., in order to prevent linemen of the Queens Borough Gas and Electric Light Company from planting a pole in the excavation, Thomas K. Box was arrested on Monday night on a warrant obtained from Justice of the Peace Neu by the foreman of the linemen's gang. A hearing in the case will be held on Friday.

In defying the linemen Box was assisted by his three sons and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Winfield Box, who, with neighbors, took turns in occupying the three holes dug in front of the Box home. Following the arrest of Box the poles were set up.

When Box discovered the men digging holes in front of his home early Monday morning he ran out and filled up the holes. The linemen dug them out again. Then Box sprang into one hole, while Winfield and Wilbur Box, his sons, climbed into the others. They defied the linemen to drag them out.

While the linemen alternately threatened and coaxed, a large crowd gathered and cheered impartially, sometimes yelling for the linemen, sometimes applauding the efforts of the Boxes.

All day the father and his two sons stood in the holes, except at meal times, when they were relieved by neighbors. At noon Mrs. Winfield Box exchanged places with her husband while he went into the house and had a hasty repast. The linemen stood about the holes waiting for the defenders to capitulate. At dusk Box said to them:

"I'll stay here all night if necessary." Then he called to his wife to send him out a pillow to lean on.

It was then that the foreman of the gang obtained a warrant.

Box was ill from exposure when taken to court. He was released on parole.

JERSEY PROTEST ON SONS EATING HERE

Merchants Indignant Because Hudson County Lawyers Will Hold Dinners in New York.

DENOUNCE IT AS UNPATRIOTIC

Will Retaliate by "Arbitrating" Small Disputes, Thus Forcing Some Attorneys to Go Feeless.

When the members and guests of the Hudson County Bar Association sit down to dinner together Saturday evening in the Hotel Astor, there will be those in Jersey City hoping that many seats are vacant and many troubled consciences interfering with the legal digestions. For why, asks the Jersey City Business Men's Association, should the Hudson County attorneys collect their fees in Hudson County and spend them in luxurious living across the river? Do the Hudson County lawyers mean to say that there isn't a dining hall at home good enough for them?

Whereto the Hudson County lawyers, so far as they have vouchsafed any reply at all, make answer that what is needed is a hostelry not only good enough but big enough and central enough, and that, after all, if they must know, the Hotel Astor is more central for Hudson County than any dining hall within its borders.

La Follette Man is Indignant.

The excitement began some days ago, when, in the regular weekly meeting of the Business Men's Association, Jerome O'Keefe, a dry goods man, home trade advocate and incidentally an ardent La Follette adherent, presented a resolution of censure, which, according to his own phrase, went through "with bells on." This is it:

> Whereas, The members of the Hudson County Bar Association, notwithstanding the fact that the business men of cities and towns throughout the county comprise the large majority of their clientage and contribute to them the greater part of their income, have again demonstrated their utter disregard for reciprocal business relations and their absolute lack of consideration for the interests of many of their neighbors and fellow-citizens by ignoring the very efficient firms and individuals engaged in the catering trade in the several cities of the county, and maintaining for such an important industry completely equipped and thoroughly satisfactory establishments where the accommodations, service, and repasts and other factors of gastronomical entertainment furnished are fully equal to the demands of the most fastidious epicures and refined society, and have arranged to hold their annual banquet in one of the mammoth hostelries of Manhattan; therefore be it
>
> Resolved, That we, the members of the Business Men's Association of Jersey City, in regular meeting assembled, do hereby regretfully deplore and denounce as wholly unpatriotic and as minus public spirit their action in year after year departing from Hudson County for the purpose of holding their festal function, thus depriving some worthy business man or firm among their clients and neighbors of whatever profits such an occasion might yield.

"Of course," Mr. O'Keefe explained yesterday, "we don't pretend that Hudson County has a Hotel Astor, but you don't have to have a Hotel Astor to have a good meal."

And of course the business men do not hope to see the dinner Saturday night called off, but they do hope to make the legal diners feel so uncomfortable that next year they will have a little public spirit and eat in New Jersey somewhere.

George A. Beach, Master of the Bankruptcy Court and Chairman of the belabored Dinner Committee, announced quietly yesterday that the dinner would be the largest the association has ever held. More than 150 are expected to attend, but the sympathizers with their critics will tell you confidentially that some have seen which way the wind blows and will absent themselves.

Other Jerseymen in It.

Mr. Beach explained yesterday that the members of the association are not all drawn from Jersey City by any means. West Hoboken, Hoboken, North Hudson, Bayonne, Weehawken, and Union Hill have representatives, and it's a lot easier for some of them to go across to the Astor.

"Really," said Mr. Beach, "the only place in Jersey City that can suitably accommodate more than seventy-five diners is the Jersey City Club, and that is away up on the heights. Could Hoboken and Bayonne men go there conveniently? They could not. And that's all there is to it."

The protest at the disloyalty of the barristers has been audible for years back, and the home dinners of the Board of Trade and the Grand Jury affairs have been held up to them reproachfully. But this year it is an organization of 200 prominent business men, who voice the protest more vociferously. The painful thing to contemplate is $750 for food going out of Hudson County in one evening, to say nothing of the amounts that will be spent for wine.

ANTIQUE FURNITURE SOLD.

Collection of Robert L. Forrest Fetches Good Prices at Auction.

The interesting collection of antique furniture, old silver, and old pewter from the old Hunt House, Spruce and Thirteenth Streets, Philadelphia, the residence of Robert L. Forrest, who is now about to take up his residence in Europe, brought $7,344 yesterday at the Anderson Art Galleries. Six mahogany Chippendale chairs brought one of the higher prices of the evening's sale, going to R. D. Potter for $405. A pair of old cherry ladder-back chairs went to the same buyer for $110. Three rugs, two Kazaks and a Daghestan, were bought by David Belasco for $265, and a handsome tall clock went to the same buyer for $105.

An old girandole was knocked down to S. S. Prince for $200; M. Brixt paid $420 for a set of Sheraton chairs, six side and two arm, upholstered in crimson mohair, and Mrs. H. A. N. Curtis gave $90 for a Colonial upright mirror with a picture of Madison's house on the glass. Among the smaller pieces one of interest sold yesterday was a pewter desk set with a fitted box, ink well, candlestick, and sand box, which brought $42.50.

One of the most interesting sales in the collection was that of the large Staffordshire platter, with a design by W. G. Wall, which brought $1,225 on Monday because two buyers wanted it. Its mate sold in 1903 for only $290. The buyer has a collection of Wall's decorations, wanted this piece, and got it. The sale will be continued this afternoon, and closes to-night with the sale of paintings.

96 STUDENTS GET DEGREES.

Borough President McAneny, Orator at City College Commencement.

The sixty-second commencement of the College of the City of New York was held last night in the Great Hall of the college. Ninety-six students received degrees.

The address to the class was made by Borough President McAneny. He declared that the college was not the place to discuss politics, but that the city should be run on a business basis just the same as a great corporation. This, he saiu, could be done unde rthe present system, and people should not look for other systems until they had got the best out of the present. Mr. McAneny suggested a course that would fit the student to hold city office, and he hoped that the tenure of office and salary would be sufficient to tempt the student to take such a course. He spoke of President Finley's plan to transform the vacant lots south of the college into a stadium, and said that he, as a member of the Board of Estimate, favored it and would do his best to bring about the President's desire.

The three honor students of the class, Michael Kurz, Virgil Bopp, and Julius Drachsler also made short addresses. President Finley awarded the honors and prizes. Professor Samuel A. Baldwin played on the organ during the exercises.

The prize awards for the entire college were also made last night. The Pell medals to the students who ranked highest in all the studies of the year went to Louis J. Mutterperl of the junior class, and Virgil Bopp of the seniors, Mutterperl receiving the gold and Bopp the silver medal. The Cromwell gold medal for proficiency in history went to Lester Markel. The graduates and their degrees were:

John W. Gates's Will Filed.

A copy of the will of John W. Gates, who died several months ago, was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Office. The will was originally filed at Port Arthur, Texas, and went through probate in that State. A copy of it was necessary here for the purpose of effecting the real estate legacies that hold in New York City. Charles W. Gates, the son, and the widow are the principal beneficiaries of the estate, which includes large property holdings in this city.

SALESMANSHIP, $1
A Millionaire whose success came through developing himself and his men in selling, has hit upon a little plan of his own for doing good in a practical, business way. Instead of building a library or endowing a college, he has decided to place our copyrighted Courses of Ten Correspondence Lessons (over 300 pages), covering the entire field of salesmanship, in the hands of 1000 deserving men. ¶He has paid for 1000 of our Complete Courses, but he specifies an original method of selecting the men. He directs us to ask $1 for the course (which sells regularly at $25) and then to return the dollar to every man who does not find the First Lesson alone (illustrated herein) worth more than the charge for the entire Course. Thus he eliminates those whose ambition cannot be aroused, or their minds stimulated. Every Man of Action with red blood in his veins will jump at this wonderful opportunity! Send $1 to-day.
